WILSON REJECTS LODGE PROPOSALS; TREATY'S END SEEN

Tells Hitchcock in a Letter That Suggested Changes in Article X. Are Nullifying.

SWAYS DEMOCRATIC VOTES

Senators to Whom Letter Is Shown Are Ready to Oppose Ratification.

BRYAN TO ARRIVE SOON

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Within forty-eight hours there has been a further exchange of correspondence between the White House and Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, leader of the Democratic minority in the Senate, in which President Wilson has rejected the latest compromise, suggested by Senator Lodge on Article X. of the League of Nations covenant, and all other modifications of the Lodge program of reservations put forward to obtain Democratic votes.

While the correspondence between President Wilson and Senator Hitchcock was not made public tonight, it is known that the President takes the view that the language used in these various attempts to win Democratic support for the Lodge reservation on Article X. is merely camouflage and really results in nullification of the treaty.

Senators generally have not been made aware of the latest exchange of notes between the President and Senator Hitchcock, but the President's letter has been shown to certain Democratic Senators with the result that they will vote against ratification of the treaty rather than accept it with any of the various forms of the Lodge reservation on Article X. The President's letter has been shown especially to those Democratic Senators whose support had been sought for certain modified forms of the reservation with the hope that they would be willing to vote for ratification in the event of the adoption of the latest compromise proposals by way of interpretation of the position of the United States under Article X.

Believe Treaty's Defeat Sure.

There are certain Democratic Senators who would have voted for some of the proposed compromises on the reservation if convinced that by doing so it would result in a ratification of the treaty which would be satisfactory to President Wilson. Since these Senators now know that the President would not accept such a ratification; they do not propose to vote for any form of the Lodge reservations unacceptable to the President.

The effect of these latest developments, it is fully believed, will be the certain defeat of the treaty by a vote of the Senate. This defeat in all probability will be effected before the end of the present week, probably not later than Friday. The defeat of the treaty is admitted tonight by influential Senators who have been prominent in the fight.

The status of the treaty tonight may be definitely stated, therefore, to be as follows:

1. The Senate before midnight tomorrow will vote on the Lodge reservation defining the American attitude toward Article X.

2. In the vote the Lodge reservation, which the President regards as amounting to nullification of the treaty, will be adopted by a majority vote of the Senate.

3. The remaining odds and ends of the treaty fight, including the preamble to the reservations and a reservation dealing with the Egyptian question, which will not be adopted, will be cleared out of the way before Friday.

4. When the final vote on the treaty itself as interpreted by the Lodge reservations is taken, enough Democrats, in combination with the Irreconcilables, it is believed, will cast the vote of more than one-third of the Senate against ratification, and the treaty will have sustained its second defeat in the Senate since Nov. 1.

The Senate will then drop the discussion of the treaty and proceed to take up domestic legislation. The probabilities are that the treaty will again be laid on the table after the vote shows that it has failed of ratification.

PRESIDENT'S NOTE ON RUSSIAN TRADE

PARIS, March 14.—The substance of the note regarding Russia addressed by the American Government to the British, French and Italian Premiers is as follows:

"The American Government declares it has given careful consideration to the communication of the Supreme Council handed to it on Jan. 23 which foreshadows resumption of commercial relations with Russia either by the intermediary of co-operative societies or by any other method."

The last five words appear to have been omitted from the statement on the subject issued by the Supreme Council. The note continues in substance:

"The United States recognizes the necessity of taking such steps to remedy the general economic situation, and is prepared to take into consideration practical means of putting the measure into effect. Official recognition of the Soviet Government appears at first sight to be the natural prelude to the resumption of commercial relations. But it is not yet known to what extent the Soviet Government has changed its character, and experience proves the difficulty of relations with it. The United States does not even think it possible to resume with Moscow the semi-official relations which were prolonged until 1918.

"Prohibition of trade with Russia is a war measure no longer justified. The American Government proposes to abolish all restrictions. It suggests, however, that the Governments of France, England and Italy come to an agreement with it and for the necessary conference proposes the date of March 20.

"Furthermore it will impress on its nationals to what dangers and difficulties they will be exposed in Russia if they do not act prudently and will inform them it will only be able to give them protection to a limited extent.

"The American Government asks whether the Allies have taken measures to prevent the dispersion abroad of title deeds, bonds, stock certificates, &c., illegally held by the Bolsheviki."

SIX DEAD IN RUTLAND WRECK IN VERMONT

Boston-Montreal Express and Freight Train Crash Head-On —Several Passengers Injured.

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt., March 14.—Five men were killed, one died later, four were severely injured and several suffered lesser injuries in a head-on collision late today between the Boston and Montreal Express, northbound, and a freight on the Rutland Railroad four miles north of here.

F. S. Lent of Rockingham, a passenger, who was taken to a hospital, died early tonight.

The other dead were the two engineers, one fireman and two brakemen.

Four of the bodies were still under the wreckage tonight. The dead engineers were Thomas Sullivan of Bellows Falls, in charge of the passenger train, and George Cady of Rutland, in charge of the freight.

Two of the men reported injured were A. G. Simonds of Portland, Me., and Enoch Dulosh of Ludlow. Their condition was said to be serious.

A porter was taken to the hospital but was found to be suffering only from cuts and abrasions and was permitted to leave.

The engines were badly smashed and the wreckage has blocked both tracks.

PARIS, March 14.—Whatever action the Allies take, or whatever position they assume with regard to political developments in Germany will be predicated upon the enforcement of the Treaty of Versailles.

On the one hand, being at peace with Germany, the Allies have no direct concern with internal political changes. On the other hand, the treaty gives them power to use such measures as the Allied Governments may deem necessary to insure its enforcement. The policy of the Allies for the moment is to inform themselves as fully as possible of the trend of affairs in Germany and to act always upon the premise that the treaty must be observed, regardless of who holds the reins of power in Berlin.

While that policy is apparently interpreted in London to mean that the Allies will not take a hand in the developments in Berlin, Paris does not so quickly reach that conclusion, inasmuch as France regards as an essential part of the treaty the ending of the power of Prussianism and the disarmament of Germany.

Premier Millerand and the Ambassadors' Council late yesterday adopted a resolution the sense of which is that, whatever happens, the Entente Governments, while not intending to interfere in any way in the internal affairs of Germany, will inform the de facto Government at Berlin as soon as possible of their intention to exact more rigidly than ever the execution of the Treaty of Versailles.

This resolution was sent to London and Rome for approval.

French Say Wilson Is Answered.

Thirty-six hours after the coup d'état in Berlin French opinion is divided. On the one side the French see the danger of a recrudescence of German militarism, refusal to disarm and consequent eventual danger to France. On the other side they see the complete vindication of the French view that the only safe policy toward Germany is one of firmness, and force if need be. They see the end of concessions to Germany favored by England and Italy. They see the Allies united for strict enforcement of the treaty. They see the chance of a split between North and South Germany. They see the answer to President Wilson's charge against French "militarism," pointing out that their maintenance of a big army is justified in view of recent events.

A dispatch from Copenhagen to the Intransigeant says that Prince Eitel Friedrich will be placed on the German throne.

The Temps tonight in a strong leading article reminds its readers that Bismarck started on the road to power just as von Kapp and his associates are starting. It urges the Allies to lose no time in taking a hand.

"Twenty-four hours," says the editorial, "have passed since the allied governments learned of the counter-revolution in Berlin. They have done nothing. They have even given the impression that it is no concern of theirs what the Government of Germany does. We deplore deeply this silence, this inaction, this indifference. We urge the allied Governments to think of the extreme gravity of the situation and the incalculable valu of each instant lost.

"We are told that those who reign in Berlin are second-raters. But who believes that these figure heads acted alone? The troops which should have defended the regular Government went over in a block to the new régime without firing a shot. Can a group of second-raters produce such results? In all Germany, even to the Sarre Basin, the counter-revolution started at the same time. It sprang up in Berlin, Hamburg, Hanover, Cassel and even in Munich. Can second-rats men perform such a feat? Can we not recognize the style of

Foch Going to Rhine Prepared; Is Still Allied Commander

PARIS, March 15.—Marshal Foch is leaving for Mayence tonight to participate in a conference with allied Generals, says the Martin, which asserts the Marshal "shows absolute confidence in the situation."

The Echo de Paris, which says that Foch possesses, as President of the Military Commission at Versailles, his former commission as Commander in Chief of the Allied Armies, remarks: "France's preparations of every kind will be a useful warning to German fermentation."

Fulfillment of the treaty obligations by the new German Government will be insisted upon, said Premier Millerand today. He added:

"Whatever may be the character or extent of the revolution in Germany the Allies are determined that full execution of the Treaty of Versailles shall not be hindered in any way."

BRITISH EXPECT REVOLT TO FAIL

SOCIALIST STRENGTH NOTED

Most Germans Seem to be Apathetic and Waiting on Events.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 14.—All departments of the British Government which are directly interested in German affairs are watching the news carefully and preparing for every eventuality, but the messages that had come through to this afternoon had not convinced them that it was yet certain the revolution would be a success.

A great deal of stress, THE NEW YORK TIMES learns, is placed on the attitude the Independent Socialists will take, and it is believed that both the old and new Governments will bid for their support.

At Berlin, of course, the reactionaries are supreme, and there has been a natural amount of flag waving and singing of "Deutschland Ueber Alles," but it is doubted here whether there have been any such demonstrations of enthusiasm as would indicate real popularity of Kapp and his followers.

On the other hand it is noted that the Socialists seem able still to count on Bavaria, Saxony and Württemberg, and are confident enough to have called together the National Assembly at Stuttgart. There have been strikes at Düsseldorf and Frankfort, with bloodshed at the latter place, but the Rhineland generally seems quiet, and it is believed here that, taking Germany as a whole, people are marking time and are too apathetic to do anything but wait on the course of events.

The proclamation of Dr. Kapp concerning the willingness of the new Government to observe the Versailles Treaty is held to be of no particular value, but the allied mission in Berlin has not reported any direct personal inconvenience so far.

However, it is admitted here that there is no reliable evidence of the policy the reactionaries will adopt. Judging by their names they will favor monarchical institutions, but they have not as yet declared for restoration of the monarchy or put forward a Hohenzollern or any other candidate.

How far the Kaiser is implicated in the coup d'état is another moot point. The Allies in their last note to the Dutch Government warned it in most serious terms that it would be held responsible for Wilhelm's activities as long as he remained in Holland, and any action they take at this time will follow the same lines.

Inquiries at the recently re-established German Legation in this city, brought the statement that Herr St. Helmar, the Chargé d'Affaires, was entirely without information from Germany.

The appointment of Trebitsch Lincoln as press censor is in some quarters regarded as an indication that at the back of the present revolution is the intention to put the Crown Prince or the Crown Prince's son on the throne, for Lincoln was supposed to be in the pay of the party which issued documents purporting to show the Kaiser was mentally deficient.

The British authorities refused to gratify his inordinate vanity by trying him as a spy in 1916. An opportunity to clear out of the country was given him, and he went to New York, where he applied to the German Secret Service for financial assistance, but was turned down. For six months in America he earned a precarious existence publishing in a newspaper accounts of his alleged experiences in European diplomacy.

When he was extradited from the United States and tried in London on BERLIN, March 13.—Without striking a single blow in its defense, the Socialist Democratic Catholic régime has fallen, and as I write Berlin is completely in the hands of the new Government, headed by Dr. Kapp.

It has been an amazing day and an extraordinary revolution. Tonight—I am writing this message at 9 o'clock—the city wears quite a normal aspect, save that there is some barbed wire about the main streets and soldiers with artillery and machine guns are still posted at commanding points in the centre of the city. The restaurants are as full and as gay tonight as ever, and, although the dancing palaces have been closed, the theatres remain open and attract the usual audiences.

But, to go back to the beginning of the coup, the movement had been very carefully prepared. It had its headquarters at Döberitz, where lay the marine division, under Captain Ehrhardt, and other units. Not till yesterday afternoon did the old Government inform the public that it was in possession of any information about the intended move. It then issued a communiqué which was so optimistic and misleading that practically all Berlin went to bed last night thinking that the Government had the situation well in hand.

But toward midnight of Friday and Saturday Herr Noske began distributing his troops. Through and among the sparse night traffic there rolled armored cars and field kitchens. I saw armed troops in full kit marching through the chief thoroughfares, and artillery and machine guns were much in evidence. I have since learned that the plans of the conspirators at Döberitz had been betrayed, but the heads of the movement there decided that they would not postpone their attempt.

An ultimatum was sent the Government—I now write of the old régime—demanding a new Government, and new elections and the withdrawal of the warrants issued against Dr. Kapp and others.

Cabinet Tried to Negotiate.

The Cabinet met to deliberate on the matter and made an attempt to negotiate, sending, according to the Tageblatt, Admiral von Trotha to Döberitz. There, however, the Government's representative met a blank refusal, and a new rebel ultimatum was delivered, demanding the resignation of the entire Ebert Government by 7 o'clock in the morning. Failing that, a force would advance and occupy Berlin.

On the receipt of this information another Cabinet meeting was held at an early hour this morning. It had then become clear that the Government had not a sufficiently strong military force behind it to put up any effective resistance.

When I was in the streets at 2 o'clock this morning I saw several detachments of soldiers leave their posts. It was said that orders had been received to move all troops eastward. I learned later, however, that the Government had ordered its forces to withdraw and to make no resistance.

The Döberitz force set out on its march toward Berlin at midnight and a little before 6 o'clock this morning the main body reached the wide space behind the Brandenburg Gate. There a halt was called till the time limit of the ultimatum had expired.

No Hitch in Rebels' Program.

So far the plans of the new régime have been carried out without a hitch. There has not been the slightest

American Commander Warns Coblenz Socialists No Strike Hampering U. S. Army Will Be Allowed

COBLENZ, March 13 (Associated Press).—The American commander today informed the Socialist leaders that no general strike interfering with the function of the army and no demonstration would be permitted in Coblenz Monday.

The leaders were informed that if they could not control their followers the American Army would do so.

The Independent and Majority Socialists expect to hold a meeting Sunday afternoon to decide upon amalgamating with the Socialists of Coblenz in support of a twenty-four-hour general strike Monday.

It became known today that the railway men in the Rhineland had decided to join a general strike called for Monday in sympathy with the old Government, notwithstanding strict orders by the allied military command against strikes which interfere with the functions of occupation.

DUTCH RECONSIDER KAISER RESIDENCE

Revolution in Germany May Change Plan for Him to Settle Permanently at Doorn.

EXCITEMENT AT HIS CASTLE

Crown Prince Also Shows Great Interest in News — Receives Messenger Direct from Berlin.

LONDON, March 14.—The reactionary movement in Germany makes the Kaiser question an acute one at Rotterdam, says The Times correspondent in that city.

It is learned from reliable sources, he adds, that the decision of the former Emperor's future residence is being seriously considered. Meanwhile, extensive measures are being taken for any eventuality.

The Dutch Government has considered allotting him a residence in one of the Zealand Islands. This was abandoned owing to the possibility of escape by boat, and, further, because the climate is not suitable for the former Empress, whose health gives rise to anxiety lately. Doorn was thought to be more easily guarded.

Though the ex-Kaiser is making elaborate plans for his stay there, it is by no means certain that this will be his permanent residence. The Government considers publicity might defeat the object aimed at. Should the ex-Kaiser know that plans were being considered for his deportation, efforts might be made for his escape.

Evidently the former Kaiser is being well posted on events. Great activity prevails in his neighborhood and a constant stream of cars is going and coming.

THE HAGUE, March 14.—I learn that the news of the reactionary movement in Berlin is looked upon with some concern and anxiety by the German Legation here, which, however, is well known to be "Kaiser-true." Certain sections of the monarchists also consider the action very premature, detrimental to their main cause and likely to have disastrous effect on the economic life of the country. There is no longer doubt here of the idea to make Hindenburg a stepping stone to a future monarchy.

Although the move is unsupported by the monarchist parties, there is a possibility they will unite when the first successes become known, and there always is the question whether the ex-Kaiser will not be tempted to return to the Fatherland. At Amerongen the news caused considerable excitement, but up to a late hour tonight there was no sign of the ex-monarch departing for the Fatherland. Although a considerable number of carriages and automobiles were arriving all day yesterday, these were mostly journalists and curiosity seekers, and I can state that no one has yet arrived from Germany.

The ex-Kaiser did not go out yesterday. At 9 o'clock in the evening the guard around the castle was considerably strengthened by the addition of mounted police under the command of Captain Marechaussée.

I learn, moreover, from an indisputable source that the ex-Kaiser has undertaken obligations to the Netherlands Government not to evade or allow himself to become the centre of monarchist or other intrigues, that the Dutch Government, which has also undertaken certain obligations vis-a-vis the Allied Powers, considers it already has been caused sufficient annoyance by the presence of ex-royalties, that it is to the Netherlands' own interests to see that the efficient measures referred to in the latest note are seriously taken, that the ex-Kaiser keeps the promises he undertook when he was allowed to continue his residence at Amerongen and later at Doorn.

REPORT 15 KILLED IN FRANKFORT FIGHT

Berlin Account Says Police Were Obliged to Leave — Strike Reaches Cologne and Essen.

HAMBURG IS INDEPENDENT

Many Other Districts Disaffected — Kapp Government Claims Some Gains.

LONDON, March 14.—During the fighting in Frankfort fifteen persons were killed and a hundred wounded, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Berlin.

The police were compelled to leave the town in consequence of the mob seizing an arms depot, the dispatch adds.

COLOGNE, March 14 (Associated Press).—The National Party announces that it will have no relations with the Kapp Government.

The workmen of Cologne, Essen and Düsseldorf have adopted resolutions calling for a twenty-four-hour strike in protest against the coup.

BERLIN, March 14 (Associated Press).—August Winning, Governor of East Prussia, and General von Estorff, chief in command of the First Reichswehr, have telegraphed Chancellor Kapp the contents of a manifesto issued by East Prussia recognizing the new Government and declaring that "we of East Prussia, who are surrounded by enemy neighbors, must welcome any development promising our province a chance of peace and work."

The State Governments of Bavaria, Württemberg and Baden have published a joint declaration denouncing it as a crime against the German people that the progressive economic development of the Southern German States, which, it is asserted, produced improved conditions and the rise in German exchange, should be disturbed from Berlin. It proclaims a determination to resist all unconstitutional and reactionary machinations, and says it recognizes only the National Assembly.

Similar proclamations have been issued by the Governments of Darmstadt and Hamburg.

"Occurrences have taken place in Berlin which are of the gravest menace to the German Commonwealth and its Constitution. Mad reactionary insurgents have occupied the Government buildings and presumed, in a proclamation, to declare the National Assembly and the Prussian National Assembly dissolved. The members of the Constitutional Government have left Berlin.

"Germany is threatened with civil war and thereby with complete ruin. In this hour we call upon the entire population to protect the democratic, constitutional and lawful Government.

"The attempt to institute a military dictatorship in Berlin must be prevented by all available means. It is expected that the reactionaries' mad coup will speedily collapse in Berlin as well as elsewhere. The Government, hand in hand with the Liberal Constitutional parties, will see that all further necessary measures are adopted."

EBERT FORCES GATHERING

Opposition to Kapp Government Begins to Assert Itself.

REACTIONARIES HOLD OFF

BERLIN TEST TO COME

City Suffering for Food and Water, but Thus Far Quiet—Kapp Ready to Use Force.

BERLIN, March 14 (Associated Press).—The two governments of Germany are now matching wits and forces to gain control of the republic. Dr. Wolfgang von Kapp, who proclaimed the new order at Berlin and himself Chancellor, is employing all his efforts to assure the German people that government under him and those he selects to administer affairs will mean true democracy, increased productiveness and conservation of the rights of the working people.

Friedrich Ebert, President of the old Government, who with most of his Ministers hastily withdrew from Berlin when the revolting troops marched in and Kapp and von Luttwitz took control, is variously reported to be at Dresden or Stuttgart, and from his point of security, has called upon the Socialists and working classes generally to stand by the old Government and to use the strike weapon so that the counter-revolution may be promptly suppressed.

In response to this appeal a general strike has been proclaimed in many places, but in other parts of Germany the call for a strike has not been received with favor.

The conviction has prevailed from the start among men not identified with the present revolution that it will be short-lived, as it is outwardly without the support of the Conservatives or the Reactionary leaders, and it is viewed in many quarters as a "trial balloon," which will collapse shortly.

The most immediate danger is recognized as a general strike throughout Germany, which has already made progress in many of the principal cities, including Berlin. In the meantime the old Government is recovering its nerve, and seem to have very liberal support from the Federal States.

Real Test to Come.

The city at this hour (midnight) is very quiet.

There were a half million people in Unter den Linden during the day, but no clashes with the troops were reported.

The military patrols seemed to have the situation in hand, but the real test of the situation is expected to come Monday or Tuesday, when the general strike probably will be in full swing.

Chancellor Kapp today told the newspaper correspondents that the Government would not hesitate to forcibly suppress any insurrection by strikers.

As yet there is no visible political support for the Government, but reports indicate that the new Government is winning the support of troops in South Germany and that its prestige has risen considerably since Saturday.

The people are viewing events with that serenity to which they have been accustomed by the occurrences of recent years. There is, however, an undercurrent of anxiety because barbed wire entanglements have been thrown up in front of the great public buildings, near Unter den Linden and Wilhelmstrasse, and cannon and machine guns are posted at the cross streets and other points of vantage and guards heavily armed are throughout the city. This is an ominous sign of possible clashes, when those opposed to the counter-revolution marshal their forces for future action.

There has been constant official reiteration of the statement that the new Government is not reactionary, that it does not desire the restoration of the monarchy, but that it has come into office so that Germany may be rehabilitated. Chancellor Kapp, in a statement to the foreign correspondents, said that the conditions of the Peace Treaty would be fulfilled, so far as they could be reconciled with German honor and Germany's economic condition.

While adherence to the new Government has been promised by some of the outside States, Saxony has declared against it, and Bavaria, Wurttemberg and Baden have joined in denouncing the movement, declaring it a crime against the German people that the progressive development of the Southern German States should be disturbed from Berlin. These States announce their recognition only of the National Assembly.

Conservative Leader Holds Back.

The National Party refuses to have relations with the Kapp Government, and the Conservative leader, Count Posadowsky, asserts that he will not identify himself with the new Chancellor. Hamburg and Darmstadt are said to be irreconcilable.

The Saxon proclamation sets forth that Germany is threatened with civil war on account of the military coup, and therefore complete ruin, and calls upon the people to protect "the democratic, constitutional and lawful Government."

Meanwhile one of the great figures in the German national life, Field Marshal von Hindenburg, has kept himself in the background. His former close associate, General Ludendorff, credited with being the brains and moving spirit of the German Army in its belligerent days, has had a conference with the new Chancellor. What passed between them, of course, is not known. It is possible, however, that von Hindenburg, who is already a candidate for the Presidency, may loom large before events take definite shape.

With the advent of the general strike proclaimed throughout Germany by the Independent Socialists, affiliated with the trade unions and other organizations, Berlin is already beginning to feel the pinch of suffering again. The water supply has been largely cut off, and food is scarce. Hotels are shutting down, and if the strike continues means of transportation, both passenger and freight, will be at an end.

Noske Reported Raising Troops.

Gustave Noske, Minister of Defense in the Ebert Government, is reported to be in Saxony organizing troops. Noske has always been a fighter, and there is reason to believe that he will not accept the present situation without drastic action in opposition to it. That Noske has troops still loyal to him is indicated by the fact that they have repulsed an attack against them in their barracks at Frankfort. Reports have been received from that city of numerous casualties in the fighting, but whether this was between troops and militia, or between troops and workmen is not definitely known.

A semi-official statement issued today says that the Entente commission at Berlin has "agreed" to the new Government.

The semi-official news agency professes to have learned that the South German regiments have espoused the cause of the new Government and that their commander in chief fled.

It asserts also that General Mercker at Dresden declared for the new government, whereupon President Ebert, Minister of Defense Noske and Chancellor Bauer of the old government went to Stuttgart.

According to private reports Konstantin Fehrenbach, President of the National Assembly, has arrived in Stuttgart and has called a meeting of the National Assembly there for Tuesday.

Kapp Promises Elections.

Chancellor Kapp issued a proclamation today promising to order elections for the Reichstag as soon as quiet is restored and adding that drastic emergency decrees would only be issued to an extent requisite for the maintenance of order and the protection of the economic life of the country against usurious exploitation and corruption.

The Government, says the proclamation, will protect the vital services and workers, but will resolutely suppress any resistance. Elections will be held within the next sixty days.

Chancellor Kapp today received the foreign newspaper correspondents in the Bismarck Chamber of the Chancellery and briefly explained to them the Government's policy. He reiterated that the Government loyally would fulfill the Peace Treaty as far as its fulfillment could be reconciled with German honor and the country's economic future, and added:

"The Government is not reactionary. It takes its stand on democracy. We have raised the black, white and red flag to its place of honor, and we will suppress any attempt at a general strike. At Leipzig the trial of war criminals will proceed and the censorship will be relaxed.

"We take the standpoint that a republican form of government is a fact to which Germany must reconcile itself. We believe that there must be the speediest return to constitutional conditions."

One of the main attractions consisted of barbed wire entanglements near Wilhelmstrasse and field guns and machine guns posted in front of the military guard at the Brandenburg Gate. The naval colors were displayed at the Brandenburg Gate, as well as on the Government buildings.

Very few of the numerous promenaders seemed to have thought of a threatened catastrophe. Brightly decorated vehicles conveying hundreds of persons moved in the direction of the Mariendorff race course, while a detachment of marines with band and flying banners marched through the Brandenburg Gate and Wilhelmstrasse. The troops were greeted with the waving of handkerchiefs from buildings along the way.

City Beginning to Suffer.

In Französische Strasse this morning the firecocks were turned on by workmen and water gushed into the gutters. Women and children could be seen hurrying to get supplies. Some of the hotels have their own water supply and electric installations, so the guests scarcely felt the lack of water, which has already begun to cause general suffering. Toward noon, however, the waiters in the hotels ceased to work, and the guests who had not been prudent enough to lunch earlier than usual had to hunt food for themselves. The Central Hotel kitchens closed at noon, and little more than dry bread, coffee, tea and cocoa were served. The waiters left at 1 o'clock.

The Government is making the greatest effort to convince the people that this is a republican and democratic Government. Automobiles rush through the streets carrying soldiers who throw bundles of leaflets among the crowds, while airplanes circle the city dropping leaflets everywhere. One of these, headed "The Monarchist Coup Lie," says:

"We do not want restoration of the monarchy, but fulfillment of the promises made to the people. We do not want revolution, but a reconstruction."

The new cabinet has not yet been formed, but it is definitely known that Dr. Traugott von Jagow, former Chief of Police of Berlin and a notable reactionary, will be Prussian Minister of the Interior.

The other appointments are in abeyance. It is proposed for the present to have only a two-man cabinet, or directorate, composed of Dr. Wolfgang Kapp and Major Gen. Baron von Lüttwitz.

Minister of Transportation Ceser has informed Kapp that the railway employes of Prussia objected to a cabinet in which Kapp and von Jagow are represented, and that if they remain in office the entire railway forces will strike. The Government declined to make a promise.

The general strike is spreading all over Germany. It was effective in Berlin today. All the cafés were closed.

The Socialist Cabinet at Munich has retired and a bourgeois cabinet is being formed.

The censorship has been removed as a result of representations of the foreign correspondents, who called on Kapp and protested against the censorship of Ignatius Tribitch Lincoln, once a member of the British Parliament, but who was deported from England in 1919 after his English naturalization had been revoked. The correspondents claimed that Lincoln was holding dispatches from twelve to eighteen hours.

August Winning, President of East Prussia and a member of the Right Socialist Party, and Dr. Albert C. W. Südekum, former Prussian Minister of Finance, who also is a Socialist, have been in negotiation with the new Government in addition to General Ludendorff.

Conservatives and National Liberals have promised to support Kapp, provided he appoints experts as Ministers and issues writs for new elections within sixty days.

The Imperial Council, which was to have met on Saturday, had to adjourn, as there was no Minister to take the chair. All the representatives of the Federal States attended.

Dr. von Haniel, former Under Secretary for the Foreign Office, has been charged with the provisional direction of the Foreign Office by the new Government.

STEPS FOR ARREST OF EBERT AND BAUER

LONDON, March 14.—The Berlin correspondent of The Central News says that Dr. Kapp is taking steps to have Ebert and Bauer arrested on the charge of high treason.

The Rotterdam Telegraaf's special correspondent at Berlin learns that Herr Heiscke, Minister of Labor in the Ebert Cabinet, and Herr von Berger, former Minister of Public Safety, have been subjected to arrest in their own homes, says a dispatch to The London Times from Rotterdam.

The Landtag, the dispatch adds, has met under the Presidency of the senior member, Vice President Frerzel, and protested against what were termed the surprising measures of the new Government.

The Berlin municipality has been dissolved and Mayor Vermuth deposed and replaced by the Conservative Herr Vonderborght.

The Telegraaf's correspondent reports that attempts are being made in Münster, Westphalia, to get the Majority Socialists and the Independent Socialists to co-operate. The military commander there has invited the leaders of the various workers' unions to discuss the situation with him concerning the formation of a labor guard for the Münster district. The Communist leader, Meinberg, was released from prison in Dortmund and afterward made a speech inciting the workers to strike. Everything is quiet in Leipzig. There has been no strike thus far, and all the newspapers are being issued.

There was looting in some districts of Berlin today, says a dispatch to The London Times from the German capital filed on Sunday evening.

A dispatch to The Exchange Telegraph from Berlin, dated Sunday, says the new Government in Berlin will act conjointly with the Labor Party for the maintenance of order, and that the new Cabinet is endeavoring to persuade labor representatives to take office. The well known labor leader, Richard Koersten, has been suggested for a portfolio. Negotiations are progressing, but their success is doubtful owing to the attitude of the Minister of Defense, General Baron von Lüttwitz.

It is added that negotiations between the Government and representatives of the Independents have resulted in the Independents agreeing to take office under certain conditions.

A wireless dispatch received here today from Berlin says:

"The new men in power definitely declare that they do not intend to restore the monarchy. They are prepared, under certain conditions, to form a coalition Government, in which the Majority Socialists would be included, but they insist on appointing nonpartisan experts as chiefs of certain Ministries, hoping thereby to improve political and economic conditions.

"In all the Government offices yesterday work went on as usual, and business in the city was not interrupted. The new Government warned the Socialists that strong measures would be taken if they interfered with vital industries.

"The typesetters this morning refused to set up the new Government proclamation if that of the old Government and of the Socialist Party were not issued simultaneously with it. Consequently the publication of all the newspapers has been suspended for the time being.

sary to subordinate the liberty of the ex-Emperor to the required limitations." In answering Socialist questions in Parliament as to why the Government had not consulted the people's representatives regarding the replies to the Allies' note the Government states it would have been a breach of diplomatic usage, and announces the intention of publishing an orange book.

The revolution came as a complete surprise to the Dutch, usually well informed on German political events.

AMERONGEN, Holland, March 14 (Associated Press).—The tidings of the German counter-revolution caused a great stir and much tension in Bentinck Castle, where former Emperor William resides, and those in the castle stayed up until a very late hour on Saturday night awaiting further news.

William Hohenzollern spent part of the day in the garden, where he paced up and down, seemingly absorbed in deep thought. His excitement found utterance in the energy with which he sawed wood. The correspondent learns that yesterday he beat his own record in the number of logs cut in twain.

Dutch Government officials say they are convinced the former Emperor is not involved in the counter-revolution which has swept the Ebert Government out of Berlin. Watch is being kept over him, it is declared.

Observers here assert, however, that Count Hohenzollern has been unusually nervous during the last few days, and has shown great impatience at various times. While engaged in his woodsawing, it is said, he has been seen to stop and run to and fro, and give other evidences of nervous tension.

On Tuesday the former Emperor completed the sawing of his 16,000th tree, and there was quite a celebration of the event, members of the household and local authorities of Amerongen being present. The former Empress has been in poor health recently and has kept closely to her apartment.

WIERINGEN, March 14.—The news of the revolution in Germany came as a bombshell to the peaceful island of Wieringen, and the ex-Crown Prince paced up and down in front of his small house to work off the first excitement of the news and went constantly to the telegraph station in an endeavor to learn further news, but the small telegraph and telephone office was closed a large portion of the day. By the evening boat arrived the ex-Crown Prince's former friend, Baron Zedlelitz, who kept the Prince company the first months of his exile on the island. Zedlelitz arrived straight from Berlin and the Prince awaited him at the ferryboat. Immediately began the most animated conversation. The Prince's Adjutant naturally assures the people this visit is not concerned with the latest events in Germany.

GENEVA, March 13.—A telegram from Constance states that the German ex-Crown Prince intends shortly to demand of the German Government that he be interned at Davos, Switzerland, instead of Holland, where he considers life dull and the society restricted. Nothing, however, is known in official circles at Berne concerning the report so far.

It is not improbable, as the Prince and his family visited Switzerland every year before the war. The political side of the transfer may be difficult, as the consent of the Allies would be necessary.

BERLIN UPSET WAS TAME

trouble. In the centre of the city the people treated the day as a holiday. The big crowds which kept on parading the streets till late in the afternoon were not hustled about by the military or police, but were allowed to satisfy their curiosity to the full, and passed their time discussing the dramatic and sudden upheaval. The midday papers issued vast editions, but, with all their efforts to meet the demand, each copy had to serve for a small crowd.

Occasionally in the course of the afternoon there were military demonstrations on a small scale. A small tank, for instance, would go down Unter den Linden, while handbills were distributed to the people; but nothing in the nature of speechmaking to large crowds, as in the revolution of November, 1918, has taken place.

Business went on everywhere practically as usual. On the Boerse there was an inevitable decline in the mark, the quotation for the pound sterling dropping from 260 to about 295.

It is possible that tomorrow will be a somewhat anxious day. It is stated that a general strike will begin and will extend even to the waiters in hotels and restaurants.

Indeed, it is reported that the last act of the Government under Chancellor Bauer was to proclaim a general strike to begin Sunday. The means of communication, however, have not so far been disturbed in any way.

As the day wore on the scenes in the central streets became much more animated. Unter den Linden and the Wilhelmstrasse are commanded at either end by artillery, and on several Government buildings the marine flag has been hoisted. Additional forces continue to arrive, and it is declared that the bulk of Noske's troops have already gone over to the new régime. The Wilhelmplatz, in the centre of the Government quarter of the city, looks like a military encampment.

One of the first acts of the new Government was to issue a proclamation over the name of Dr. Kapp as Imperial Chancellor.

Negotiations are going on between the new régime and the Independent Socialist Party, and much will depend upon the result.

Dr. Kapp, the new Chancellor, has not yet completed his Cabinet. General von Lüttwitz will be Minister of Military Defense, Herr Schiffer Minister of Justice, Herr Bang Minister of Finance, Herr Schiffe Minister of National Economy, and Dr. Traub Minister of Education. It is thought probable that Gottlieb von Jagow will become Minister of the Interior for Prussia.

Rumors have been in circulation during the day that members of the old Government have been arrested in Dresden, but at the moment of telegraphing no confirmation is to hand regarding such reports. In official quarters they are regarded as untrue, and it is declared that the whereabouts of the Ministers who fled is unknown.

Another report has it that Herr Fehrenbach, President of the National Assembly, which the new régime has dissolved, has called upon that body to meet at Stuttgart.

There is not a great deal of news from the country in general. Strikes are reported from the Ruhr region, Frankfort, Hamburg, Breslau and Magdeburg. Details are still lacking regarding the movement in other parts of Germany.

No Papers Till Monday Afternoon.

I learn definitely that no newspapers will be allowed to appear till Monday afternoon.

In circles closely connected with the new régime I have been informed that the first parleys between General von Lüttwitz and the old régime concerned Lüttwitz's demand for the appointment of General Hoffmann as commander in Berlin. The reason for that demand was the fear entertained concerning the Ebert Government's negotiating with Moscow. The representative of the old Government refused to agree to this request, and thereupon those who have now assumed power made up their minds that the time had come to act.

In the same circles it is insisted that the new Government will carry out the terms of the Peace Treaty to the utmost of its powers, and is ready to act in all matters of European concern where joint action is advisable and necessary. Especially does the new régime think a united front is demanded against Bolshevist influences in the present state of Europe.

on Sunday evening, says that during the night Public Security troops favoring the Ebert Government succeeded in taking possession of the Town Hall, the Trades Union Building and other public places, so that the power in Hamburg is in the hands of the Senate and Burgesses.

At Altona Colonel von Wangenheim, an adherent of the new Government, is in authority. A general strike has begun on the tramways, the elevated, suburban and other railways, which have suspended their services.

The Hamburg Senate has issued a counter-proclamation to that issued by the superior garrison officer at Altona on Saturday in announcing the advent of the "Imperial Government," says the Berlingske Tidende's Hamburg correspondent. The proclamation of the Senate says it will continue to direct affairs, regardless of changes in Berlin.

HAMBURG, March 13 (Associated Press).—"We will follow Berlin," said Oberburgomeister Distel to The Associated Press correspondent here today, indicating that the officials of the Free State of Hamburg would line up with the new reactionary Government.

There are no troops in the city at present other than the police and noncommissioned officers from the army and navy who form an effective force for the maintenance of order.

There are 3,000 Government troops stationed in the suburb of Altona. The officers there say they are being held in "alarm readiness" for emergency service.

The proclamation of the new Government had just reached the military authorities when the correspondent arrived at headquarters. Apparently the news of the coup was received by the officers with considerable gratification. The people of Hamburg did not learn of the new state of affairs until late in the forenoon, when extra editions of the newspapers appeared on the streets. There was little excitement and no indication of disorder.

Fighting in Weimar.

MADGEBURG, Saxony, March 14.—A dispatch from Weimar says an attack lasting several hours was made on Saturday night with rifles and hand grenades on the General Post Office, occupied by the Public Security Guard. The building and a number of private houses were damaged, but the Post Office remained in the hands of the Security Guard.

BRESLAU, March 14.—Breslau has adhered to the new Government. About thirty persons, including Oberpresident Philipp, have been arrested. Lieut. Gen. Count Schmeetow has assumed military command.

Several newspapers have suspended publication.

BERNE, March 14.—It is reported that the deposed Berlin Government is receiving addresses of sympathy from the other German Governments expressing the sharpest disapproval of the upheaval. Several of the German garrisons are declared to have stated that their military forces will support the old régime.

SAYS GERMANS SEEK RUSS-TURK AID

COUNT ON ALLIED DIVISION

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Though Government officials refused to comment on the German situation today, it is admitted here in other authoritative quarters that the seizure of power in Berlin by the reactionary forces who executed yesterday's coup d'état against the Ebert Government did not come altogether as a surprise to the American Government. Confidential information has for some time convinced officials here that the Junker, militaristic and imperialistic reactionary elements in Germany have been secretly intriguing to start a counter-revolution at the first favorable opportunity. The overt act at Berlin was anticipated. What the officials are now most anxious to know is whether the overthrow will be temporary and abortive or whether it will be successful.

If the new revolution fails of success it is confidently expected here that at some more favorable opportunity the reactionaries will make the attempt again. If the counter-revolution is successful, the next move, it is expected here, may be a joint alliance with Soviet Russia against the Entente powers, possibly leading to a combination of Berlin and Moscow with the Turkish Nationalist and Pan Turanian movements.

American officials are satisfied that the report which came through news channels last week to the effect that General von Ludendorff has passed through Finland, with a staff of German officers, en route into Soviet Russia was based on actual facts. It has not been fully verified through intelligence channels that Ludendorff is in Moscow, but there has been one verification from another source which is believed by officials here.

Officials do know that the German general staff has been maintaining an echelon of officers in Moscow for some time, and there is no doubt here that they have been at work on military plans for the Soviet leaders. Trotsky, it is believed, has been getting credit for strategic successes won with German staff advice.

It is believed here that the entry of Ludendorff into Soviet Russia is linked up with negotiations between German reactionaries and Lenin and Trotsky, with a view to a joint alliance in the interest of Germany and Soviet Russia, and with the ultimate view of opposing the Entente militarily.

The present serious aspects of the Turkish situation are believed, in well-informed circles here, to be the result of actions timed to synchronize with the plans for a German coup d'état this Spring. The effect of the Turkish developments has been to divert the attention of the Allies toward the Near East.

Enver Pasha is known to have been in Berlin recently in conference with German leaders. He has been active in promoting Armenian massacres and in planning the spread of the Pan Turanian movement of the Turkish Nationalists.

Information reaching Washington is to the effect that the reactionaries in Prussia have interpreted the present moment as being one of distrust and disruption between the Entente Allies, and for that reason favorable to German reactionary plans. Some of the elements in the situation which the Junkers are believed to be interpreting in their own favor at this time are:

First—The failure of the Supreme Council to persuade Holland to surrender the ex-Kaiser for trial, and the effects in Germany of the demand of the Allies for surrender of the German war culprits for trial.

Second—The failure of the American Senate to ratify the Treaty of Versailles, and the fact that the United States is not only not in the League of Nations but there is little prospect now that this country will have a seat at the League Council table for some time.

Third—The industrial situation in France, Italy and England, and the embarrassment of the international exchange situation.

Fourth—Failure of the Allies so far to agree on a definite and precise Russian policy.

Fifth—The signs of friction in the foreign policies of England and France.

Sixth—President Wilson's references to French militarism in his letter to Senator Hitchcock, and its effect upon the French Government and people.

Seventh—The failure of the Allies and America to reach a satisfactory settlement with Italy of the Adriatic question.

Eighth—Failure of the Senate to ratify the treaty of defense by which France would be safeguarded against unprovoked attack by Germany.

Washington believes that if successful the present revolt will be followed by rapid developments in the direction of an understanding between reactionary Germany and Soviet Russia, and that if the revolt should fail, it will be followed later by another counter-revolution by the German reactionaries.

Whether the counter-revolution succeeds or fails there is no doubt in the minds of American Government officials that this move of the German Junkers and imperialists is of much greater consequence for the whole Entente world than a mere change of government in Germany.

It is believed here that the full story of all that has happened in Berlin during the past forty-eight hours has not been told, owing to Junker control of communications.

No evidence, official or press, has yet reached Washington to convince military or civil officials that the reactionary revolt is going to succeed at this time.

ENVOYS INSIST ON TREATY

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

"We are told that the new régime is composed of fanatics. Those who are reassured by that word ought to read the story of Bismarck. Bismarck was taken for a fanatic, and they were still laughing at him when he became President of the Council. When he issued his famous formula, 'By blood and iron,' the Cologne Gazette called it 'fizz.' All Berlin mocked the eleven Deputies who were his only partisans in the Chamber. They used to say you could put all the Bismarck party into an omnibus. Profiting by the ridicule which made his opponents sleep Bismarck went on working with Moltke and Roon, and seven years later France lost two of her provinces.

"We are told that the working classes will revolt. If ever the counter-revolution relights war and costs the lives of French soldiers we hope that an accounting will be demanded of those people who at the moment when a military dictatorship has established itself in Berlin have nothing better to do than to protest against the allied precautions as militaristic. Besides, in counting upon the workers' action in Germany, what do we count upon? Is it a democratic organization? No, for the democratic organization was personified in the Government of the Social Democrat Ebert. We see it has no troops back of it, and no one in Berlin, who came to its aid.

"We must call things by their names. We should be trusting in a Bolshevist uprising in Germany—beautiful hope! If it succeeded, the military chiefs in Berlin would be wearing halos as defenders of the social order, and if they succumbed Bolshevism would be installed. Should we then expect the treaty to be fulfilled?"

Warns Against Repeating Errors.

The Tempe continues:

"We hear murmurs that the military dictatorship in Berlin means spartacism in Bavaria, and that German unity will be destroyed. We heard this same theory propounded after the Prussian annexations in 1866. In this decisive hour let us not forget that other decisive epoch fifty-four years ago, when the fate of half a century was at stake. Two months before the Battle of Sadowa Thiers in the Palais Bourbon spoke this truth: 'The greatest principle of European policy should be that Germany be composed of separate States held by the bond of a simple federation.' He was right, and to forget that has been costly.

"Once more we call on the allied Governments to recognise the gravity of this hour. We beg them not to lose a minute. The régime which has just established itself in Berlin announces that it will make concessions to all. It is ready to execute the 'reasonable clauses' of the treaty. It offers positions to its political adversaries. When it gets in power and has its army ready what it grants today will be forgotten tomorrow. Besides, what does it conceive to be reasonable conditions of peace? Already it says it cannot reduce its army below 250,000 men.

"In face of such a Government talking will not do any good. What good to say that we will invoke the treaty when the prime purpose of the new Government is to destroy the treaty? We must act without delay. The forces in Germany opposed to militarism can stand only if we show now that we are stronger. For the Germans have already forgotten that."

What the Temps is evidently hinting at is the occupation of the Ruhr Basin. Premier Millerand in London asked Premiers Loyd George and Nitti to agree to the occupation of Essen and the rest of the Ruhr Basin by French troops in case Germany did not fulfill the treaty on schedule time. He did not then get their consent; he may now try again.

Furthermore, Millerand has declared that France has lifted the time limit for the evacuation of the Rhine and he wants the Allies to recognize that decision of France as their own. France wants a chance for a military demonstration to show Germany she is still at the mercy of the Allied armies, which at the present time means the French Army.

Not all the papers take the situation so seriously as the Temps. Many editors point to the fact that the presence of Allied troops on the Rhine is the only real guarantee of the execution of the treaty, and that those troops are still there, no matter who reigns in Berlin. It is also argued that if there exists in Germany sufficient reactionary spirit to make the coup a success, that fact might as well come out now as later, especially since, coming now, it may put an end to further concessions to Germany. These writers see in recent developments a promise of Allied support for the French policy regarding Germany.

The Intransigeant pays much attention to the repors that Bavaria, Saxony and parts of the Rhineland refuse to follow, the new leaders, and say that the reactionaries' action will either fail or split Germany in two. La Liberté says:

"We do not know yet if the coup of the Döberitz troops will succeed in breaking down the so-called Socialistic régime, but we do know that it condemns definitely the policy of concessions and kindnesses which was beginning to paralyse our just claims, and that it gives the final blow to the prestige of Mr. Wilson.

Commenting upon the allied policy, La Liberté says:

"If the German counter-revolution remains strictly an internal affair of the Empire the Allies will naturally abstain from all interference in the affairs of Germany. But it is to be feared that the men who have just established themselves audaciously in Berlin do not intend to execute the treaty. Already they say they will execute only its 'reasonable clauses.' We ought to know what that signifies."

La Liberté says Marshal Foch is planning the military measures which may be taken.

In all the French press there is the unanimous thought that recent events in Berlin should convince England and America that France has all along been right in standing firm before Germany. In view of this manifestation of the militaristic spirit, the editors say, France should take a firmer attitude and be absolutely adamant in her demands for the disarmament of Germany, even to the extent of sending troops into the country to enforce disarmament.

The Figaro says it will be better to have some thousands killed now than to have millions killed in a new war with Germany a few years hence. It argues that the concessions made by Premier Lloyd George in the hope of bolstering up the Socialist Government had extetly the opposite effect in fanning into flame the sparks of nationalism and defiance to the Allies.

"The great point now," it says, "is to disarm Germany, to do which the treaty gives us the right. How shall we obtain this disarmament and this payment from a Germany governed by von Lüttwitz and von Kapp, the most irreconcilable of Pan Germanists? If we do not obtain this a new war will start in a few years and it will cost us more than the 1,500,000 dead of the last war. Might it not be better to lose several hundred thousand more men now to settle the question, which despite our victory, has not been settled?

"Certainly, we should consult our allies; but above all we must take counsel with ourselves, and if events force us to take energetic measures France will support the burden without weakening."

The Petit Journal says it hopes Mr. Wilson will now take back his reflection upon the strong policy of France.

The Matin advises the Allies to give aid and comfort to Ebert if he succeeds in maintaining his Government at Dresden. The Eclair, ex-Premier Briand's paper, urges the Allies to occupy the Ruhr Basin at once to show Germany that they mean to stand firm. It says:

"The mask is thrown aside. We know now that the pretended democratisation of Germany was only a comedy designed to soothe us to sleep and to take advantage of our credulous and naïve allies. Mr. Lloyd George ought to know today the exact degree of the repentance of the German people and to know how wrong he was in aiding Mr. Wilson in securing the signing of an armistice which permitted a demoralized and conquered army to go home with fanfares and boasting. Lloyd George and Wilson and all others who deprived us of the possession of the Rhine, at the same time neglecting to disarm Germany and break her unity, ought to be filled today with remorse.

"As for us Frenchmen, who tomorrow, as yesterday, will remain always exposed to the first assault of the enraged beast, we have the right and duty to take measures to protect ourselves. We ought to throw our troops across the Rhine and occupy Essen, the great war factory.

"'Hands up, Germany!' It is in these words that France and her allies ought to greet the military dictatorship which has been established in Berlin, probably with the aid of Noske."

REVOLT CALLED ADVENTURE.

London Papers Say Allies Cannot Tolerate a Monarchy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Monday, March 15.—Commenting on the German coup d'état, The Daily Chronicle in an editorial this morning says:

"The heads of the dispossessed Constitutional Government made their way to Dresden, where they are rallying their forces. Not only the Government of Saxony, but those of Bavaria, Wurtemburg and Baden have declared themselves on their side.

"Their first step has been to call on workmen throughout Germany to cripple the Militarists by a general strike. This has long been understood to have been their intended counterstroke in the event of a Militarist coup d'état, and it remains to be seen whether it will come off, and whether Militarists, who must have foreseen it, are in any way forearmed against it.

"The attitude of the allied Governments is necessarily limited for the moment to watchful waiting. The Kapp Government has hastened to assure them of its intention to abide by the Peace Treaty. The assurance is welcome, as far as it goes, but it does not go far, for until the Militarists have established themselves in the saddle at home they would be unlikely in any case to challenge trouble abroad.

"Should their usurpation be confirmed we may look for different language, first in regard to the war criminals question and afterward regarding others. At present their enterprise is an adventure only, and it may conceivably collapse almost as suddenly as it began. Behind it, uncommitted to it if it fails, stands in all probability General von Ludendorff, and behind Ludendorff Hindenburg. For the latter, no doubt, is reserved the Presidency of the Republic, which the conspirators have been careful so far not to fill. A Hindenburg Presidency is the recognized avenue to Hohenzollern restoration, and so the wheel would come to the full circle.

"It is obvious that such a counter-revolution could not be tolerated by the Allies, for whom it would go far to undo the winning of the war. Unless the democratic elements in Germany itself under the Ebert-Bauer-Noske leadership regained the upper hand we should be compelled eventually to intervene."

Men! Look at This Sale of Suits and Overcoats

—just stop a minute! It's really worth looking at—and looking into. Not because the price is so low—although it is almost phenomenally so. But because the quality of the clothing is so high at the price.

means very little set apart this way. But it means a lot when you see it attached to so good a suit of navy unfinished worsted or smart brown cassimere. For the materials are the correct kind—the tailoring the dependable sort and the models the wearable variety.

Single or double breasted styles. Most of them quarter lined—in other words, just right for present wear. The sizes range from 33 to 46.

Kingly Trousers $8.50

Trousers certainly do wear out before coats—and then the coats are useless. No, not quite. For you may find a suitable pair of trousers in this great group. Pull out that old coat—and come in!

Important Suits $25.00

We say important because these are First Long Trouser Suits—and what could be more important? A close second is the splendid value that this collection offers. And the most fastidious youth will like the materials and the making.

Sloane's Private Designs

JUST arrived. A special Sloane importation. Designed, woven, and printed exclusively for Sloane patrons. So gorgeous in colorings, so original in design, so substantial in quality, so rich and regal hanging in curtains or portieres, so decorative and stimulating as upholstery, that although designed for Summer use, they can be and will be used the year round, bringing to interiors the charm of perennial Summer!

Chinese designs, chanticleer motifs, pastorals, and all-over confusions of impossible flowers!—designs that are quaintly old-fashioned, designs that are new as the minute we live in—and colors that range the whole gamut of the spectrum, from the peace of ineffable blues, to the mirth of irreverent yellows!

All wide widths—50 inches, which of itself is economical.

And quality and originality considered, very inexpensive.

MAURICE SEES KAPP AS A MERE TOOL

Put In to Keep Presidential Chair Warm for Hindenburg, British Observer Thinks.

NOSKE CAUGHT UNPREPARED

Chief Reason for Coup's Success Seen in Dull Despair and Indifference of People.

By Maj. Gen. Sir FREDERICK MAURICE.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 14.—It will surprise no one who has followed events in Germany that a reactionary revolution should have broken out in Prussia.

The long delay in coming to a settlement with the Entente, a steady exhaustion of stocks of material of all kinds and the impossibility of replacing them with the mark at a penny or less, and the growing difficulty of obtaining the ordinary necessities of life as the proceeds of the last harvest are used up, have been for months past added to the count against the Ebert Administration, caused it to lose the confidence of the German people and made them look more and more to the Right for help.

"Then came the crowning folly of the Entente in demanding the surrender of almost all the leading men of the country, including some popular idols, a folly which made the task of the reactionaries far easier than they could have hoped.

"One astonishing feature in the revolution has been that Noske has been so completely caught napping. I believe the chief reason for the success of the coup d'état is that the majority of Germans are today in a state of dull despair and indifferent as to how they are governed, holding that any change might be for the better but could not make matters worse. A comparatively small body of energetic and ambitious men with considerable organizing ability have therefore been able to work their will.

Kapp a Typical Bureaucrat.

Of the protagonists who have so far appeared on the scene Kapp is a typical Prussian bureaucrat, with extreme conservative views, accustomed to issue official decrees without assigning reasons for them, and to see them accepted unhesitatingly by an obedient and well disciplined people. The souls of such men have revolted against the proceedings of the Ebert and Noske administration, and they are therefore convenient tools for the military party, which requires for its purposes men with some knowledge and experience of civil administration.

"I do not believe Kapp is more than a tool. He has been put in to keep the Presidential chair warm for Hindenburg, who, if the revolutionaries manage to carry out their program, will be the nominee of the military party at the Presidential election, which they intend to hold as soon as may be.

"The revolution has been organized by Prussian officers of the old régime, who apparently gained control of the whole of Noske's reichswehr or national defence force. This is the only efficiency organized military body in Germany, and its present strength is believed to be about 250,000 men.

"Noske did not discover any mischief was afoot until the latter part of last week, when he unwittingly put a match to the fire by dismissing two of the commanders of the Reichswehr, Hoffmann and Lüttwitz. It was then too late. The schemes of the soldiers had been worked out with Prussian thoroughness. The movement was, in fact, much more than an enterprise, conducted by troops in the immediate neighborhood of Berlin. Before acting its organizers had got control of the whole of the workable military machinery.

Lüttwitz an Efficient Soldier.

Lüttwitz, who has been made Commander in Chief of the new régime, I knew before the war. He is an officer of the old Prussian Guard infantry, well-trained and efficient soldier of no outstanding capacity. He was promoted to commander of an army corps during the war, and in the great German attack of March, 1918, was in command of the corps which attacked just north of St. Quentin against the left centre of Gough's Fifth Army.

It now appears that his chief assistant has been Captain Pabst, a young Guard cavalryman of great energy and organising capacity and of unbounded ambition, who distinguished himself last year in the suppression of the Spartacides.

There is little doubt, however, that the man behind the scenes who is pulling the strings is Ludendorff, and I do not think it will be long before he appears in the front of the stage.

The men with whom we have to deal are in the main those with whom we dealt during the war. They are energetic and capable in their own limited sphere, but unscrupulous, and have the narrowest political outlook. They are unable to see that there is salvation in any system save in that under which they have been brought up, and they have, I believe, done their country as great an injury as they did in 1914 when they rushed into the war.

Too tardily the Allies have come to see that Europe could not be reconstructed if its centre were allowed to tumble into ruin. Arrangements are actually in hand for aiding Germany to restore her economic life, and there were signs that the worst was over.

Grievous Results Predicted.

The hands of the clock have been set back by a group of men who are incapable of looking beyond what they conceive to be their own interests. At present it is only possible to guess at the consequences of their action, but they must be grievous both to Germany and to the rest of Europe. There can be no talk of aiding Germany while her Government is in the hands of men who are notoriously in sympathy with the Hohenzollerns. Another tragedy has been added to the history of the peace.

If the men who have done this thing are narrow minded and bigoted, they are not fools. They know well that they have no power to resist the Allies. We shall have, I suppose, more talk of Germany's secret army and of her intention to renew the war. That is just as great nonsense today as it was six months ago. The revolution has been possible not because of Germany's strength but because of her weakness and because of the lethargy and exhaustion of the German people.

The revolutionaries know the Allies will not tolerate the restoration of the Hohenzollerns. They know also that the mass of the German people are not prepared to proceed to such lengths. I do not believe there is any immediate danger of an attempt at bringing back William II. or one of his sons. The program of the Junkers will probably be to hold a Presidential and general election as soon as possible. They believe the reaction against the Social Democrats will give them a majority which will enable them to make Hindenburg President and abide their time.

They will give out as the reason for their action the dangers of the spread of Bolshevism into Germany, as I said some time ago would be the case. The Bolsheviki are strengthening their forces on the Polish frontiers. The Junkers know the Bolsheviki could, if they would, walk through Poland, and they are likely to raise the rallying cry that the Fatherland is in danger. So one mistake leads to another, and by delaying a settlement with Russia we have added fuel to the fire of reaction in Germany.

We shall probably be told before long that Hindenburg and Ludendorff have been called to power by the voice of the German people to save them from the Red terror, for if Hindenburg becomes President Ludendorff will be at his elbow as he was during the war.

He is keenly interested in the future of his country and has in this book set forth a strong, clear and interesting plea for Irish Nationalism. $2.00

Poland and the Poles

BY A. BRUCE BOSWELL, M. A.

This book, thoroughly up-to-date, describes the country and people of Poland about which our knowledge is so vague. For many years a very false idea of the Poles and the Polish question has been spread abroad. Mr. Boswell describes the character and customs of these people among whom he lived, outlines the part Poland played in the World War, and summarizes its position and aims at the present time. Illustrated, $4.00

LUETTWITZ TELLS WHY HE REBELLED

Prussia Must Protect Europe From the Advance of Bolshevism, He Asserts.

DEMANDED CABINET ACT

Knew Berlin Troops Would Not Fight—Disclaimer of Monarchist Aims "Not Convincing" to Interviewer.

COPENHAGEN, March 14.—Major Gen. Baron von Lüttwitz, Minister of Defense in the new revolutionary Government in Berlin, has been interviewed by a correspondent of the Politiken. Von Lüttwitz at the time was in the room in the Admiralty once occupied by Gustav Noske, the former Minister of Defense. He said that one ground for overthrowing the old régime was that no serious work was being done under it.

"We considered it an urgent necessity to take action for the protection of Europe against danger from the East," said von Lüttwitz. "England is doing nothing and can do nothing to stay the advance of Bolshevism. Prussia must take a hand in it.

"We must have more than the 100 000 men permitted by the Entente. How are we to combat Bolshevism with that handful of men?"

General von Lüttwitz said the new Government had no monarchist tendencies. The correspondent observed, however, that "his tone was not particularly convincing."

The correspondent gives the following description of von Lüttwitz:

"He is an amiable gentleman of the old type, with short, wiry hair, a mustache clipped in English fashion, and a powerful Roman nose. He looks like a man who knows what he wants. He is not burdened with sentimentality, and is manifestly far stronger than Noske. He does not look bloodthirsty."

Von Lüttwitz expressed great satisfaction that not a shot was fired during the revolt. He said he had between 6,000 and 7,000 troops at his disposal in Döberitz and Berlin.

Asked by the correspondent if he had reckoned that the Berlin troops would go against the old Government, von Lüttwitz said:

"Absolutely. I told the Government that four days ago, and demanded that it should include professional ministers in the Cabinet to oppose Bolshevism. The Government reckoned that the Berlin troops would back it and so objected to my demands and deposed me. Events have shown that I was right."

Asked concerning the general strikes that have been called, von Lüttwitz said:

"I think the workers will come to their senses when they learn what social reforms we are planning. If not, we must intervene."

The correspondent says the revolution is regarded as an eight-day affair in liberal circles in Berlin. The President of the National Assembly is said to have declared that the members have their mandates from the people and cannot regard them as lost.

VIENNA SHOWS ANXIETY.

Newspapers Lament Berlin Outbreak as Crime or Misfortune.

VIENNA, March 13.—The newspapers in their comment on the overthrow of the Ebert Government in Berlin show marked anxiety over the situation. The Neues Wiener Abendblatt says it is a crime "that a handful of blind generals and other officers who organized the plot" can occupy public buildings but cannot compel workers to work. It adds that "a durable military victory is impossible."

The Neues Tag says: "Berlin is not all of Germany, and a successful raid is not a victorious revolution. The Entente still has a word to say."

"It is a great misfortune," comments the Neue Freie Presse, "that strikes Germany. The Entente should not in any circumstances recognize an overthrow that the German people in their entirety do not approve."

The Wiener Allgemeine Zeitung laments that Germany is torn by her own fault, and likens the condition of Germany to that of Austria. "The fate of Central Europe is being decided," says this newspaper.

Timely Measures

Apprised and warned in good season, we have been able to prepare what promises to be a successful defensive against the many elements of both the foreign and domestic situation that threatened our uninterrupted prosperity.

Confidence has been sharply restored, and there can be felt in the community that firmness and purpose characteristic of the business American. It is not to be denied that for the present we must go more slowly, but on the other hand, we shall not now suffer the shock of a sudden check.

The best defense is a well prepared attack and the time has come for such attack, our most potent arms being efficiency and thrift. Their meaning as well as their need have penetrated deeply. As urged upon the community they appeal to the simplest reasoning. Slackers are being marked, not by any direct effort, but by the opinion of their fellows and of the public in general. Improvement in production is noted. The cultivation of thrift will strengthen.

Waste, carelessness and looseness are all the adversaries of thrift, and there is much practical philosophy in a story told of the late E. H. Harriman, who, making a certain inquiry of one of his lieutenants, received the answer, "Oh, two or three cars a week." "Do you mean two or three?" responded Mr. Harriman, "There is a difference of 50%."

The Harriman National Bank thinks that this anecdote is pertinent to the subject of financial thrift, whether dealing in cents or millions of dollars. Think it over.

HOPE LONG NURSED OF A JUNKER COUP

Observers Found Many Evidences of Bitterness Over Their Fall from Power.

REVOLT WAS PREDICTED

By WALTER DURANTY.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 14.—An American business man with whom I talked in Hamburg last November made this reply to my suggestion that the Communists were likely to get control in Germany before the end of the Winter.

"You are wrong. Before a Communist revolution in Germany there will be a blow struck by the reactionaries. When that has failed, as I believe it will, perhaps the Communists may get a chance. Even then it will not be Bolshevism as Russia has known it, but a moderate reform of international Socialism in sympathy, doubtless, with Moscow, but less extreme."

Intimately acquainted with Germany before the war, the speaker had an opportunity to study conditions thoroughly during nine months of last year. He based his opinion particularly on what he had seen in north and northeast Germany, where, he declared, the old Prussian spirit was still strong and widespread.

His judgment was confirmed later by reports of General Nudel's mission. One of its influential members said in Riga last January:

"I wonder whether the Allies fully appreciate the consequences that the driving back of von der Goltz's army into Germany are likely to have. Here is a considerable force, not badly equipped and disciplined in comparison with the troops at the disposal of the German Government, with both leaders and men permeated by the reactionary and militarist spirit. What is more, they are burning to wipe out the disgrace and disappointment of their ignominious retreat from the Baltic before the Letts and Lithuanians, and feel that they have been let down by their own Government. To me it is morally certain that they will attempt a reactionary outbreak in the next three months."

Bitter Over Humiliation.

Later still in early February I had a personal experience of popular sentiment in East Prussia, especially the towns of Königsberg, Insterburg and Danzig. Only a few days before the Poles had taken possession of the strip of territory linking Poland proper with the sea at Danzig and it was evident that the cleavage of the traditional stronghold of Junkerism and militarism, that is, East Prussia, in favor of the despised and hated Poles had driven the iron of humiliation deep into the souls of the inhabitants. At Insterburg my compartment was invaded by a group of Prussians, including a General of division, a prominent city councilor and a young Captain of guards in full uniform with monocle and sabre complete. The latter, a great big fellow with a strong, brutal face, was the living image of the caricature of a Prussian officer as drawn by Hassel.

Though they treated me with a certain grim politeness after learning that I was not a connection of the detested Poles—"Sind sie Polen?" was the query barked at me abruptly before the train had barely got out of the station—they all with one accord proceeded to damn the Versailles Treaty and its alleged iniquitous impossibility of fulfillment during the whole hour and a half of the journey from Insterburg to Königsberg. The burden of their song was that the "Polen Korridor" was the last straw of the outrage on the back of poor, persecuted Germany. It would prove the breaking point of their submissiveness. This time the Allies would learn that they had gone too far.

Restive Under Socialist Rule.

At the Königsberg station was an excited mob, half frightened, half furious, among whom sped wild rumors of Polish brutality and still wilder threats of defiance and resistance. Here and at Danzig, where the train was boarded by three indignant citizens whose chief grievance appeared to be that the detour necessitated by the Polish occupation would take them late for an appointment the next morning, the same bitter condemnation of the "Socialist hounds" of the Ebert-Noske Government who had betrayed Germany to her enemies.

In Berlin one fact was added to the picture. That city was boiling with the first perplexed announcement of the names of the 900 "war culprits" demanded for trial by the Allies. Everywhere it was being said that if the German Government yielded to the allied demand it would be swept away by popular indignation, and this opinion was shared by many allied citizens on the spot.

If this view was correct the allied concessions in regard to further prosecutions were a further postponement of the inevitable outbreak, which on the present occasion finds an alternative pretext in the popular feeling against the Schleswig plebiscite. It is beyond question that the reactionaries have been carried to power on a wave of national, or more particularly North and Northeastern, indignation against certain provisions of the Versailles Treaty. Whether they can hold it is another matter.

The Independent Socialists are exceedingly strong and no one who has been in Lithuania, Latvia or Finland need be told that constant communication is maintained between Moscow and its German friends, bearing a steady stream of propaganda, advice, revolutionary literature and almost unlimited money. For the moment the Independent or Communist Socialists are cowed under, unless there is any truth in the report of a secret compact between them and the reactionary leaders.

In this connection it is worth mentioning that in Berlin I was told by more than one competent allied observer that there were signs of extreme unrest in Germany and that noted reactionaries had been heard to express the belief that a period of communism, naturally in close touch with the Bolshevist masters of Russia, with repudiation both of the internal and external debt, might be the best, if drastic remedy, for Germany's sickness. The Hamburg businessman may prove to be right and the next few weeks or months and the order may pave the way to communism's success.

French Do Not Understand.

French opinion is well summed up in the opening phrase of an article by Phillip Millet in the Paris Matin: "God bless Herr Kapp and his gang." In dispatches the fact has been emphasized that the French are becoming increasingly restive under the tendency of England and Italy towards mitigation of Germany's lot. The French attitude is put much stock in purely economic arguments and lose their stand on a political platform whose key plank was distrust of Germany. They claim to have gauged conditions in Germany more accurately than their allies, and to have foreseen the present coup d'état, or at least to have anticipated something of the kind.

In fact, there is considerable reason to believe that France had about reached the limit of her patience and was on the verge of asserting herself and her viewpoint somewhat vigorously. Marshal Foch's recent conferences with King Albert in Brussels, Sir Henry Wilson at Cologne and General Degoutte at Mayence are not devoid of significance. Nor was it for nothing that before the Berlin outbreak occurred it was announced here on Friday night that the Marshal would be back in Mayence tomorrow. Now, however, the Germans themselves, it is held here, have given triumphant vindication to French judgment.

FLEET SURRENDER REPORTED.

LONDON, March 14.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Hamburg, dated Saturday, states it is reported from Kiel that the naval commander there has handed over the German fleet to the new Berlin Government.

Shots were exchanged between the torpedo boats in the harbor and workmen in the naval dockyard at Kiel on Saturday afternoon, says a dispatch to the Central News quoting the Berlingske Tidende's Kiel correspondent as confirming the surrender of the German fleet.

Marines are now occupying the dockyard. A general strike has been declared by all the workers, except those in the gas and water plants.

BOLSHEVIKI MUTINY ON POLISH FRONT

Warsaw Reports Red Army Demoralized by Decisive Defeat Inflicted Upon It.

WARSAW, March 10 (Associated Press).—Latest official dispatches received here indicate that the Bolshevist army is in disorder behind the line of the Dniester River after its defeat at the important railway junctions of Mozir and Kalenkovits, southeast of Minsk. The dispatches say that several detachments of Bolsheviki mutinied and refused to counter-attack when ordered to do so.

A Polish communique issued today states the Red demoralization is complete, many detachments, having lost contact with their own headquarters, fleeing in panic. Besides war spoils previously announced, the communique reports the capture of thirteen river steamships, six military barges, five heavy guns and a large supply of ammunition.

These reports serve to stir the Warsaw press to enthusiasm. The Courier Poranny, organ of General Pilsudski, says the victory should convince the Western diplomatists that the Red army is not invulnerable and that "there are other things to do than begin commercial relations with the Bolsheviki."

The conversations between the Polish Foreign Office representatives and Finnish delegates came to an end last night, a full agreement having been reached on mutual support in all matters relating to frontiers, commerce and industry.

Conferences will now begin between the Poles and delegates from Latvia, with a view to obtaining a similar arrangement. Negotiations with Rumania will follow, and then all four nations will have final conversations before proceeding to a formal meeting with the Bolsheviki.

The military victory by the Polish forces has given confidence to the delegates, particularly those from Finland, who came to Warsaw avowedly not to talk peace, but to discuss an alliance with Poland which would be of mutual interest to both countries.

It is feared that the Ukrainian Soviet Republic, headed by M. Petrovsky, yesterday sent a note to Warsaw announcing that it is the only Government in the Ukraine competent to sign peace for that territory.

HUSBAND AND WIFE SHOT IN THEIR HOME

Two Men from New York Arrested on Freight Train After Crime in Maine.

GREENVILLE, Me., March 14—Robert C. Moore was believed to be dying tonight and his wife was suffering from serious wounds, as a result of an attack upon them at their home last night.

According to the story told by Mrs. Moore to the authorities, two men entered the house, forced their way upstairs to a room where her husband was sleeping with and opened fire upon him with revolvers.

Five of the bullets took effect, one entering Moore's abdomen, two penetrating his chest and two striking his arms. Mrs. Moore said that as her husband fell unconscious, the men fired at her. She was wounded in the hand, and the bullet entered each of her arms. She was able to get to the outside door and shout for help, and meanwhile the men fled.

Acting upon Mrs. Moore's charge that the two men were William Pomeroy and C. Scott, who came here from New York last Tuesday to work as woodsmen, Deputy Sheriff Rogers started a search for them. He learned that Pomeroy and Scott had boarded a freight train bound for Canada, and wired orders to Deputy Sheriff Armstrong to form a posse, meet the train at Jackman and arrest the men. Late today word was received from Jackman that Pomeroy and Scott had been arrested without resistance.

GERMANS ARE LEADING IN SLESVIG PLEBISCITE

Early Reports for Second Zone Give Them Majorities of Three and Four to One.

COPENHAGEN, March 15.—Unofficial figures of the plebiscite in the Second Slesvig Zone up to midnight, show an overwhelming majority for Germany.

No Danish majority has thus far been recorded in any district. The German majorities are three or four to one.

the charge of forgery he received a sentence of three years' imprisonment. He was deported in 1919 to Budapest, but he went to Berlin and Count Kernstorff, who is believed to have had a hand in sending him to Antwerpen to interview the ex-Kaiser.

COPENHAGEN, March 14 (Associated Press).—Oscar Jeorgensen, editor of the Social Demokraten, who is a personal friend of Friedrich Ebert and Herman Müller and other German Socialist Ministers, returned here from Berlin last night. In an interview today he said:

"The temporary success of the counter-revolution came like a bombshell, no one thinking that the influence of the officers of the Doeberitz garrison was great enough to persuade the 6,000 men to march on Berlin.

"I feel sure that the counter-revolutionists a flash in the pan. The majority of the German people are heartily sick of any kind of military government. The world probably will favor the Ebert Government for not showing fight, but Germany, by fraternizing with German blood has been spilled and are confident that the general strike will soon terminate the life of the military usurpers, apart from the fact that all the non-Prussian Germans seem ready to back the constitutional Government."

BELIEVE BRYAN SEEKS NOMINATION

Men Who Have Talked With Him Say He Wants to Run or Control.

WILL SPEAK IN 7 STATES

Begins Here Friday on Discussion of National Issues—Will Attack Wets.

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, March 14.—In view of his announcement in Lincoln, Neb., that under certain conditions he would consider another nomination for the Presidency, remarks by William Jennings Bryan to a newspaper friend whom he met on a train last night would indicate that the old Democratic leader has started on a whirlwind campaign in which he will thresh out before audiences in seven States, from Massachusetts to California, the political issues which he expects will result in his nomination.

The belief is expressed by men with whom he has conferred that it is Mr. Bryan's ambition to head the ticket, or, barring that, to control the convention and name the candidate.

Mr. Bryan is on the Seaboard Limited, due in Washington at 6:20 tomorrow morning. He will confer there with party leaders, and on his sixtieth birthday (Friday) go to New York, where his first speech of the campaign will be made at a dinner, probably at the Aldine Club, though of this he was not sure last night.

"Just say," said Mr. Bryan, "that I am starting on a tour that will include Washington, New York, Boston, Indiana, Illinois, Nebraska and Los Angeles, and that my first speech will be made at a dinner tendered me in New York on Friday by my Democratic friends. I will be out in Nebraska, where I am a candidate for delegate, in time for the primaries on April 20, and then I am going to California."

"Is this a political campaign you are starting on?" he was asked.

Will Fight Anti-Prohibition.

"I am going to talk politics," said Mr. Bryan. "Some of my engagements are for lectures. Others are not. I am going to discuss national issues. When a man's candidacy for the Presidency has been filed his candidacy becomes a proper matter for public discussion and I am willing to discuss the candidacy of any such man." He added in answer to other questions:

"I am interested in the Peace Treaty. I expect to see it ratified in a very few days. I am interested in prohibition, which New Jersey and Rhode Island are trying to upset. There is one thing which the leaders in this movement for beer and light wines do not seem to comprehend, and that is that the people run the Government and that they are the ones who have decided the constitutionality of the prohibition amendment.

"The point raised that the Constitution reserves as State rights all questions not especially delegated to the Federal Government, and that prohibition not having been so reserved, it is still a matter of State rights, is absurd.

"The Constitution is not greater than the will of the people. In passing the amendment they expressed their will on this subject in accordance with law, and that is all there is to it. Whatever the people want they have a right to have, unless we concede the right of a minority to govern a majority. Constitutions do not restrict rights. They guarantee them and they can be changed by the people at will. Constitutions simply designate the way in which the people may carry out their will. If the people could not amend a constitution the dead would govern the living, which is even more absurd than the claims of a monarchy or of an aristocracy."

Says New York Does Not Rule Now.

Mr. Bryan dwelt at some length upon a favorite topic, that the East, New York in particular, no longer controls the nation and marveled that there were still so many people in that section who thought it did.

"Why," said he, "the average New Yorker thinks he is taking a journey when he goes a hundred miles. He does not know a great deal about the sentiment throughout the rest of the country."

Mr. Bryan said that "no military man" could be elected President for the very reason that war is a military act, regardless of what other facts there might be to consider regarding his candidacy.

At this juncture a woman rushed up with a two-year-old baby. "I want you to shake hands with my baby," said she. Mr. Bryan did, and baby, frightened, turned away with a cry.

"He is a wise boy," said Mr. Bryan. "He knows it is still too early in the campaign to start shaking hands."

H-1 COMMANDER LOST WITH THREE OF CREW

Special to The New York Times.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 14.—Radio reports received by naval officials here today admit that the commander and three members of the crew of the United States submarine H-1 lost their lives when that craft went aground on Redondo Point, near the entrance to Magdalena Bay, Lower California.

The dead are: Lieutenant-Commander James R. Webb, H. N. Giles, machinist, first class; M. H. Deshaus and Joseph Hofman, seamen.

The bodies of Giles and Deshaus were recovered and buried on the sandy beach.

Destroyers have put out from that port to get to the aid of the stranded submarine and another submarine and auxiliary navy ship are standing by.

Details of the disaster were not received here today, and it is not known exactly how the four men lost their lives. It is believed, however, that in some manner water came in contact with the huge storage batteries of the submarine. If this did happen, great clouds of chlorine gas were generated. It is considered a possibility that Commander Webb breathed the H-1 to prevent asphyxiation of the crew.

Commander Webb reported last night that the Shelair succeeded in getting a towline to the H-1 yesterday afternoon, but that the line snapped before the submarine could be refloated. The H-1 was then lying head to the sea with stern tied aground and the bow afloat. Chlorine gas was pouring from the conning tower hatch.

Commander Webb was born in South Carolina and is a graduate of Annapolis.

Sleepers Now Run in the Holy Land.

Leon J. Garcey, the American agent of the International Sleeping Car Company, received a cable dispatch yesterday informing him that sleeping cars had now been put on the Palestine Railroads from Haifa, on the Syrian coast, to Mukteira, in Asiatic Turkey, situated at the junction of the former provinces of Akkora, Dierbekr and Mamlu-

$2,000,000 FIRE SWEEPS TEXAS TOWN

Greater Part of Grand View Destroyed and 1,500 Persons Rendered Homeless.

FORT WORTH, Texas, March 14.—Loss estimated at more than $2,000,000 was caused and 1,500 persons were rendered homeless by fire which swept Grand View this afternoon. The greater part of the business section and residential parts of the city was destroyed. Three persons were injured when a building collapsed.

The fire departments from Cleburne, Itasca and Alvarado responded to the appeals for aid, but were unable to be of assistance in fighting the flames, as the water in the standpipes gave out. Dynamite could not be obtained.

Automobiles, wagons and vehicles of every description were used to carry the homeless people to Alvarado and Itasca. Merchandise valued in the hundreds of thousands of dollars was piled in the streets, and incalculable loss caused by the water and smoke.

Telegraphic advices say: "With the fire swept through the city, and burned more than 200 homes. Every building in the eight blocks of the business section was completely by the flames. The wind blew with such velocity that burning brands were carried for miles. A farm house three miles from Grand View caught fire from such a brand and was destroyed.

COUNCIL HERE BACKS PIER MEN'S STRIKE

International Body Extends Moral and Financial Support to Workers.

WILL SEEK OUTSIDE AID

Lighter Captains and Tow Men Will Be Asked Not to Handle Coastwise Freight.

With no indication of an immediate settlement of the strike of coastwise longshoremen, dockers and foremen, which has tied up coastwise shipping since Saturday morning with the exception of those ships previously made ready for sailing, the New York District Council of the International Longshoremen's Association, in session at the headquarters of the union at 191 Eleventh Avenue, last night followed the action of the Atlantic Coast District Council in declaring a sympathetic strike. John F. Riley, President of the Council, declared that this action meant the enlistment of the moral and financial support of all the longshoremen in this port, numbering about 40,000.

Mr. Riley announced that it was decided to ask the Harbor Craftsmen and Marine Firemen, Oilers and Watchmen's Union to refuse to work on any of the boats of the coastwise steamship companies. Teamsters will be asked to refuse to cart freight to and from the coastwise docks. The district council was attended by delegates from each of the fifty-eight longshoremen's locals in this port.

Joseph Ryan, Vice-President of the International Longshoremen's Association, who arrived here last night, said that there was no definition at present that the dock men's demands would become involved in the strike. T. V. O'Connor, President of the International Longshoremen's Association, who has been here for a week in charge of the affairs of the Atlantic Coast district, was expected here today to take charge of the strike.

Walter Hall, organizer of Longshoremen's Local No. 791, spoke at the Labor Lyceum, Williamsburg, and Morris Avenue, Bronx, last night at a meeting called to organize the coal handlers who work along shore. It was the general opinion that a strike at this time was out of the question, and it was also agreed that the coal handlers must first organize.

Word was received from Boston last night that the greatest longshoremen in that port voted unanimously yesterday to strike today to enforce the demands for an increase in wages. The Eastern Steamship Line, the Old Dominion, the Clyde and Bureau lines will be affected. Between 800 and 1,000 men will be involved in the Boston strike, it was said.

WARSAW PARALYZED BY A GENERAL STRIKE

Railroads Throughout Country Are Affected—Bolsheviki Balked in Move to Make It Political.

WARSAW, March 11 (Associated Press).—The strike situation, which has been menacing for some time, became virtually general today, when there was a walkout of the postal workers and electrical, tramway and water-power employes as a protest against the high cost of living and insufficient wages.

Railway trains are affected throughout the country. A railway strike has begun at Cracow because the Government has suppressed free passes for the families of the workmen. No trouble has been reported except in the iron manufacturing towns in the Government of Lublin, where the entrance has been absolutely without bread for many days.

There have been some attempts on the part of Bolshevist agitators to turn the strike into a political affair, but they have been unsuccessful.

RESCUE REAR ADMIRAL 80 MILES OFF PANAMA

Naval Craft, After Long Search, Locate His Launch, Which Had Been Blown Out to Sea.

PANAMA, March 14.—Rear Admiral Mahlon Johnston, commander of the Fifteenth Naval District, who, while fishing with three companions, was carried out to sea on Friday when his launch was overturned, has reached Balboa safely.

Submarine chasers, seaplanes, destroyers and tugs searched all day yesterday, for the Rear Admiral's launch, which was finally picked up yesterday eighty miles from this port.

Fireman Killed in D. L. & W. Wreck.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., March 14.—James Moran, an Ontario & Western fireman, was killed, and his brother Michael, engineer of the same train, was seriously injured when a passenger train on the Montgomery branch of the Erie dashed into the side of their freight train last night at Campbell Hall. The Rev. Dr. H. B. Wright, Superintendent of the Newburgh district of the New York Methodist Conference, a passenger on the other train, was slightly injured.

"Yes, Hoyt is a Builder of Good Plans"

By Charles W. Hoyt

ONE day a friend of mine asked a representative of one of America's leading advertising agencies what he knew about Hoyt's Service, Inc.

The agency representative paused, looked wise and with the look on his face of a man bound, at any cost, to do a good deed, said:

"It is my opinion that Hoyt's Service are absolutely the best diagnosticians of a marketing problem in the country and that they can, and do, build most complete and intelligent plans."

But he stopped there; and after giving my friend a little time to assimilate all of that, he went along with his own story telling why his agency, after all, might be the best to do my friend's work.

Well, perhaps our reputation as plan builders is bigger or more evident than as executors of plans. The answer I made to my friend, when he told me of this incident, was that he take our entire list of about fifty customers, letting me mark those whom we had served for some years, and ask each of them what they thought of us.

We have two different counts on which we like to be investigated by those who are considering employing us as their advertising agents.

First, we want them to be thoroughly convinced that we know how to build marketing plans and that our method of starting an account by plan building is sound and that it has produced successful results.

But, when we have arrived at that point, we like to change suddenly to another side of the question, by saying:

"But suppose we can build a worthwhile plan, what good is that unless we can prove to you that we are able to execute our plan, in a way that will be satisfactory to you?"

Some years ago, when our business was small, I was puzzled as to the best method to serve customers through the aid of a large organization. Every time I asked why an advertiser had changed his Agent, he replied that he had not received service. Every time I asked an outsider for the reason for the change of an account, I was told that the advertiser thought that he had not secured service.

Next I tried to find out what they meant by service; and then I had to decide how we could give service. It was easy enough to offer service with a small organization; but that meant a sacrifice of the high-class skill made possible by a big organization able to employ many specialists.

Solving the "Service" Problem

I am sure, in view of what we have done with the accounts of some fifty of our present customers, that I found the answer to this problem. I am sure that Hoyt's Service, Inc., having secured an order from an advertiser, can serve him to his satisfaction; and, all things being equal and fair, hold and develop the account.

An inquiring advertiser might ask: "How is it that you have been able to hold the customers that you have, for these many years and develop their advertising accounts; your customers are satisfied with your service,—How do you accomplish it?"

In the first place, a business like ours cannot depend upon a mere system for success; it must first have BRAINS AND MEN.

My observation of the problems of the manufacturers with whom I have worked has led me to believe that you cannot build a human machine—a business organization—in a few months—even by the aid of a fat payroll.

A wise acquaintance of mine, a manufacturer, recently said to me: "Mr. Hoyt, watch us! In four or five years we will be leaders in our line. But it will take at least that time to secure and develop enough men to build our organization so that it can produce the amount of goods that we can sell."

So it was in our business. One of the biggest problems that we have had the past few years was the training of men competent to satisfactorily handle the business of our customers. We are constantly on the lookout for those who will add to the value of our organization; but we believe that the best success will come from those who grow up with us. We are constantly recruiting our forces. We always carry extra men on our payroll in the capacity of learners.

But having built the organization, we know how to serve satisfactorily. We prefer to tell and explain this to you. If you ask us about the second part of our proposition, namely—our ability, having built a correct plan, to execute it, then we will first show you the results, by introducing you to our customers that we have served for many years, and by letting you find out what they think of us. Secondly, we will explain to you the methods by which we have been able to secure these results. Then you can decide for yourself whether our methods are the sort that you want to apply to your own business.

If you employ us you will surely secure what we call "Planned Advertising"—advertising that is carefully thought out in advance—advertising that is carefully prepared according to a plan—advertising that is routed as per schedule—advertising that secures the results that are anticipated and foretold in the plan.

Constructive Imagination

This phrase, "Securing results that are foretold," suggests what, after all, is the biggest thing which we have built into our plans—the biggest benefit which we have brought to the organization of our customers—and that thing is VISION.

Unless an advertising agency possesses VISION, or CONSTRUCTIVE IMAGINATION, then it is nothing but a group of mechanics, concerned merely with the work of this hour and day. Hoyt's Service, Inc., has constantly looked ahead at the problems of its customers, for next year, and the years after. And that is a third qualification by which we like to be judged and investigated.

If you are interested and are willing to talk and listen to us—if you want to find out something about our methods—write, telephone or call on us. We will be glad to meet and talk with you, either in your offices, or in one of ours. If you care to read more in detail about some of our accounts, write for the pamphlet entitled "Four Advertising Successes"—free to any executive applying on his business stationery.

WANT NO MILK CUT, SAYS BORDEN'S CO.

HORTON DEFIES COPELAND

Says He Lacks Economic Knowledge or Misuses Sheffield Farms Notice to Farmers.

Patrick D. Fox, President of the Borden's Farm Products Company, declared yesterday that the production of milk should not be discouraged under any circumstances and that so far as his company was concerned no effort would be made to cause the farmers to curtail their output. He asserted that the consumption of milk should be encouraged so that all the surplus milk may be taken in the flush season and that lower prices may prevail.

"It must be admitted," Mr. Fox said, "that the flush season of milk production will be prolific of a volume of milk greater than the city cares to consume, but it is also obvious that a greater supply means lower prices. If the farmer wants to curtail production to keep his prices up—that is his business. Notwithstanding the fact that the cost of milk is predicated upon the price of butter and cheese, increased milk production must be reflected in lower prices.

A statement given out last night by Loten Horton, President of the Sheffield Farms Company, said:

"In the recent statement given to the press by the Commissioner of Health in which he attacks the Sheffield Farms Company for having advised the farmers to control production during the flush period, he either displays an utter lack of knowledge of the economics of the situation confronting the milk industry or he deliberately misuses the incident he refers to for the purpose of inflaming the public mind toward the Sheffield Farms.

"The Health Commissioner knows or should know that the surplus milk that went to Europe last year in the form of condensed milk is not moving at this time.

"I know from fifty years' experience in the milk business that a drop of a cent or two or more in the price of milk will not change the milk habits of the average consumer, and I know that if milk were sold at half the present price you could not get the consumer to use up the normal surplus produced in this territory.

"I want to make here a public offer to Dr. Copeland to co-operate with him on any workable plan he may suggest to relieve the state of malnutrition existing in needy children of New York and with the surplus milk now in sight I believe he will have little difficulty in arranging a price on milk to be used in that field. This offer is made in good faith and with the hope that he will have some practical suggestion for its acceptance."

FOUR LOST ON SCHOONER.

Two Sailors, Lashed to Rigging, Are Rescued from Stranded Vessel.

CHATHAM, Mass., March 14.—The coast guard cutter Acushnet rescued two men tonight from the three-masted schooner Isaiah K. Stetson, bound from New York for Lunenburg, N. S., with coal, which went aground on Handkerchief Shoal, four miles off Monomoy Point.

Four men were drowned. The schooner was discovered at daylight this morning, but how long she had been aground was not known tonight, as the weather had been thick for two days.

The schooner sailed from Vineyard Haven last Wednesday. No names were available. The vessel registered 371 tons, and hailed from Calais, Maine.

The rescued men are said to have been lashed to the rigging.

Six Barrels of Gin Stolen.

THOMPSONVILLE, Conn., March 14.—Six barrels of gin, valued at $7,200, was stolen within the past four days from the bonded warehouse of the Baird-Daniels Distilling Company here. Following discovery of the robbery today, the Internal Revenue Office in Hartford was notified. The only clue left by the robbers was motor truck tracks near the warehouse.

Gentlemen-

I am glad to say that I have my set of Nelson's Loose-Leaf Encyclopaedia and have read the contents of such subjects in which I am interested, namely, embryology, biology, genetics, evolution, etc.

They cover the subjects thoroughly and intelligently and what is more important, they conform to modern scientific facts. I take it that these are a fair index of the general contents of the books and they are an invaluable addition to my library.

Sincerely yours,

Reflecting the Varied Attractions of the Hour's Vogue

THE VALUES ARE MOST EXTRAORDINARY

The New Suits for Springtime,
Of Incomparable Beauty and Personality

New Braid Trimmed Suit of Tricotine $87.50

VERY ingenious in their simpleness of line but given individuality by style touches characteristic of the Spring vogue such as narrow shoulders, close-fitting sleeves and silk finished inverted pleats are these sport suits and mannish tailormades of Homespuns, Serges and Tweeds, typifying the mode and its most charming ideals. Skirts are box-pleated or circular.

Very Specially Priced
45.00

DIGNITY of line and beauty of modeling characterize these smart tailormades of Vigoreaux, Tricotine, Poiret Twill and Covert with their coats of greater or lesser lengths from the jaunty Eton jacket to graceful finger tip lengths. Ornamentation is provided by way of rich silk embroidery and gilets and waistcoats that are ineffably beautiful in fabric and coloring.

Very Specially Priced
95.00

BREATHING refinement in their perfection of tailored elegance, but essentially feminine in effect, are the new Spring suits of Poiret Twill, Tricotine and Velour Checks with braid binding of a more or less ornate character dividing attention with rich silk embroidery and waistcoats of tinsel brocade. Skirts are either circular or two piece effects.

Very Specially Priced

VERY sumptuous and meeting the requirements for costumes of a more formal character are the luxuriously hand-embroidered suits of Tricotine and Poiret Twill, and in high favor with the women who appreciate beauty of design and ornamentation. Bolero and Eton jackets, box-coats and slenderized effects in longer coat modes are combined with pleated, circular or tunic skirts in a graceful and attractive ensemble.

New Suit of Tricotine Daintily Embroidered $110.00

The Refreshing Daintiness of the New Modes
Is Reflected in These Lovely Frocks

DEVELOPED in interesting variations of the accepted silhouettes and of surpassing beauty of design are the afternoon frocks of Taffeta Silk, Satin, Tricotine and Georgette, portraying the varied phases of the Spring mode in the way of ruffles, frills and pleats, new and novel neck lines, short sleeves and ornamentation of beadwork, braid and embroidery.

Very Specially Priced
30.00

THERE is a refreshing spirit of early Springtime about these bewildering lovely frocks of Satin, Crepe Meteor and Georgette with elaborate embellishments by way of beadwork as their chief decorative motif. The genius for devising new mode effects is displayed at its best by curving waist effects, pronounced hip lines and vestees of metallic brocade or lace.

Very Specially Priced

New Braid Trimmed Suit of Tricotine $85.00

EXPRESSING ideal femininity and charm in every line are these new frocks of Tricotine, Georgette and Satin with fantastic notes in color harmonies produced by wonderful beadwork and embroidery. Individuality of design is given by bodices in basque-like effects and pleated and tunic skirts.

Very Specially Priced
45.00

PARTICULARLY engaging and modish and appealing to the smartly gowned woman of fashion are the more formal frocks of Crepe Georgette, whether used alone or in combination with Taffeta Silk or Satin. Gorgeous effects are produced by jewelled beading in exquisite colortones and striking designs. Panel and tunic skirts add to the incomparable charm of these modish frocks.

Commissioner Delaney Gives Figures Showing When the Greatest Congestion Is Felt.

DAY TRAVEL 75 PER CENT.

Brooklyn Rapid Transit Travel Reaches Its Greatest Discomfort Between 5 and 6 P. M.

An analysis of the traffic on rapid transit lines by Transit Construction Commissioner John H. Delaney shows that 75 per cent. of the traffic is carried in the twelve hours between 7 A. M. and 7 P. M. In the other twelve hours, when the 25 per cent. is carried, the service and the number of men engaged are reduced 50 per cent.

The study by Mr. Delaney is part of the work in connection with coming extensions of the transit systems. Figures are based on actual counts by inspectors.

On Interborough subways 77.5 per cent. of the traffic is handled between 7 A. M. and 7 P. M. and only 22.5 per cent. during the other twelve hours.

On the Manhattan elevated 78 per cent. is carried during the first twelve hours and 22 per cent. during the other twelve.

The subway and elevated lines of the B. R. T. carry 76.5 per cent. during the twelve hours of day and 23.5 per cent. during the twelve hours of night.

The greatest congestion in the Interborough subway is from 8 A. M. to 9 A. M., when ticket sales for a typical day amount to 218,073, or 11.18 per cent. of the total for the twenty-four hours.

The greatest congestion on the Manhattan elevated is from 7 A. M. to 8 A. M., when the ticket sales for a typical day are 127,776, or 12.78 per cent of the total for twenty-four hours.

On the B. R. T. the greatest congestion is from 5 P. M. to 6 P. M., when ticket sales of a typical day were 142,-639, or 14.95 per cent. of the twenty-four-hour traffic.

The hour of least travel on all of the rapid transit lines of the various boroughs is from 3 A. M. to 4 A. M. During that period, on an average day, but 2,583 passengers, or .20 per cent. of the daily traffic, and carried on the Manhattan elevated trains; 4,730, or .23 per cent. of the daily traffic, are in transit on the lines of the Interborough subway; and but 2,896, or .26 per cent. of the daily traffic, on the B. R. T.

In the morning rush of traffic, from 7 to 10 o'clock, 311,000, or 26.9 per cent of the total traffic, are carried on the subway, and during the evening rush-hour period, between 4 and 7 o'clock, the average traffic is 400,000, or 24.4 per cent. of the business of each twenty-four hours. On the elevated lines during the three hours of greatest traffic, 28.2 per cent. of the traffic is carried, as against 25 per cent during the evening rush hours between 4 and 7 o'clock.

Concluding his statement as to the results of his studies, Mr. Delaney says:

"Traffic on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit elevated and subway lines is to about the same daily volume as on the Manhattan elevated lines of the Interborough Rapid Transit system.

SAYS I. R. T. AIDED CITY.

Made Sacrifices to Help Service Plans, Declares Hedley.

That the Interborough Rapid Transit Company made many sacrifices in order to help the city extend its rapid transit service, and that without the assistance the city would not have been able to make the needed extensions, was the gist of a statement issued yesterday by Frank Hedley, President of the company. Attention is called to the fact that the city sought the help of the company because:

"The city had neither the necessary funds nor available credit under the constitutional debt limit to undertake the project of building new rapid transit lines. The co-operation of private capital was absolutely necessary in getting the new subways built and equipped."

Mr. Hedley then cites as a specific sacrifice the giving up of its long-time leases, one for fifty years and the other for thirty-five, each with a twenty-five-year renewal privilege and with no provision for acquisition by the city. The certainty of growing profits were cast aside, he said, for a "preferential" and "took links the reality of which the present situation fully demonstrates."

BOND THEFTS ONLY $700,000

Total of Brokers' Losses Exaggerated, Says Surety Official.

Bernard J. McGinn, manager of the claim department of the American Surety Company, in a statement yesterday asserted that the total losses by surety companies through thefts of securities from brokerage houses had been greatly exaggerated. McGinn contends that the total does not reach $700,-000, which is considerably less than the amount stated by John T. Dooling, Assistant District Attorney, and Detectives Mayer and Brown of the Police Bond Squad, who have been investigating such thefts.

Actor Thornton Accuses Woman.

James Thornton, the vaudeville actor, last night caused the arrest of Miss Elisabeth Smith, another guest at the Hotel Argonne, in West Forty-eighth Street, charging her with the theft of a fur coat, the property of his wife, Bonnie Thornton, who died Saturday night in Bellevue Hospital. Miss Smith declared, according to the detectives of the West Forty-seventh Street Station, that Mrs. Thornton, just before going to the hospital, asked her to take care of the coat and other property.

NEW YORK CENTRAL LINES

Men Who Run Our Railroad's Mechanism

A RAILROAD is more than a thing of road-bed and rails and rolling-stock. It is more than mechanism. It is men. It is safe, swift, sure, because of the brain and brawn of an army of men who labor, day and night, to give you the transportation service you have a right to expect for your money. It is a good road if the men are good workers. They must have character, ability, proper training; they must work under a system which perceives merit and rewards it adequately; they must be filled with a spirit of loyalty to the institution they work for and devotion to the public they serve.

Our workers are good men. With some of them you come into personal contact. Many more of them you never see or think about—the train dispatchers, the track-walkers, the men in the repair shops, the purchasers of supplies and equipment, the scientists who set up standards for material and test it, the keepers of records, the officers and men who keep the mechanism running. Yet the work of every one of them has a direct bearing on the service you receive.

Our employes are carefully chosen, especially trained in the lesser jobs for the responsibilities of the greater ones, advanced as their capabilities and records prove they deserve advancement, and always inspired with the spirit of our policy that whatever best serves the interests of the public best serves us.

Important Express Announcement

Owing to conditions resulting from recent storms throughout the eastern section of the country, it is found necessary, in the interest of expedited service and to avoid congestion, to limit the weight on all shipments by express to not exceeding 200 pounds to the piece or package.

This restriction will apply until further notice, on all business between points in the following states:

Maine	New York
New Hampshire	New Jersey
Vermont	Pennsylvania
Massachusetts	Delaware
Rhode Island	Maryland
Connecticut

This action is taken with reluctance in order that the express service may function in a manner that will result in the greatest good to the greatest number.

Immediate notice will be given as soon as conditions will permit of this restriction being removed.

The embargo on New York to Chicago traffic has been lifted.

The Hand of business feels its goodness!

A SCIENTIST has estimated, the Esterbrook Pen people say, that in a year's writing the hand and pen of the average clerk could easily travel 10,000 miles.

If the hand of the average clerk travels 10,000 miles in a year think of the millions of miles the Great Hand of Business travels, in New York alone, in the course of twelve months!

Can you imagine 1,000 round trips from the earth to the sun traced with Signet Ink?

And with every inch of that permanent line the Great Hand of Business can feel Signet's goodness. Its use proclaims its superiority.

You can feel Signet's efficiency. You can see its clear, clean-cut figures and letters. It makes the pen "talk" so easily. It turns an everlasting black. It's a safe ink because it's a permanent ink.

The Great Hand of Business can put its name to documents of priceless value and know that that name will testify as long as the paper lasts.

Dealers everywhere sell Signet. They sell it because it has proved its worth. They sell it because it is guaranteed by the Company that makes LePage's Glue, the standard world-known adhesive. Only standard products will ever carry the quality mark—"LePage's".

Order Signet, the "LePage's" product, and know what a good ink really is.

DRY AGENT'S PICTURE RESEMBLES CONVICT

LOOKS LIKE JOHN CONWAY

Case of Federal Prohibition Agent Charged with Murder Comes Up Today.

Efforts were made yesterday by the District Attorney's office to investigate the charge that Stewart N. McMullin, the prohibition enforcement agent, who killed Henry Carlton, a chauffeur, in a raid in a tenement house at 234 East Seventy-sixth Street last Thursday night, had a previous criminal record. McMullin, who is out on $10,000 bail, will be arraigned before Magistrate Harris in the Yorkville Court on a charge of homicide today. John F. Joyce, Assistant District Attorney of New York County, will insist that McMullin shall be held, and has announced his intention of presenting the case at once to the Grand Jury and asking for an indictment.

A photograph of McMullin was shown to officers at Sing Sing Prison yesterday, and they said that it bore a striking resemblance to John Conway, who served a term for robbery and who is still on parole and subject to being returned to prison at any time by the State Parole Board. Comparison of the fingerprints of Conway and McMullin will be sought today.

The prison records show that Conway, with another man, was arrested for robbing the station agent in the North Pelham depot of the Boston & Westchester Railroad seven years ago and received a sentence of from six to nine years. Conway was said to have been regarded as a "stool pigeon" by the other inmates and was believed by them to have acted as a spy for officers of the Prison Department. In November, 1914, he was transferred to Auburn Prison.

District Attorney Lee P. Davis of Yonkers, who prosecuted Conway, said that there were two indictments hanging over the latter while he was in Sing Sing. It was also stated that two warrants were filed against Conway while he was in prison. Whether these were served when he was freed from Auburn Prison more than a year ago was not known at Sing Sing.

Under the terms of his maximum sentence Conway could have been kept in prison until July, 1922. The State Parole Board, it was said, has wide latitude in rearresting a prisoner on probation and could reimprison Conway at any time if it should be shown that he had violated his parole.

State Senator James J. Walker, to whose influence McMullin said he owed his appointment as prohibition enforcement agent, said he had only a casual acquaintance with McMullin. The letter, he said, had given his name as a reference when seeking the appointment, and he had merely given him a formal letter, stating that he had little personal knowledge of McMullin. Senator Walker said he first met McMullin a little more than a year ago and had only wished to help a man out of a job.

Efforts to reach McMullin at the Hotel Claridge, where he is stopping, failed last night. A note was left for him stating that he could have an opportunity to say anything that he might wish for publication, but no reply was received.

SEES PALESTINE CROWDED.

Norman Hapgood Anticipates Flood of Refugees from Eastern Europe.

Norman Hapgood, former United States Minister to Denmark, speaking yesterday before the Intercollegiate Zionist Association at 132 West Seventy-second Street, at the firm of its regular Sunday afternoon forums and teas, said that while he had not familiarized himself to any great extent with Palestinian affairs since 1917, most of his time being taken up with the Russian situation, there would be no difficulty on the part of the Zionists to get Jews to go to Palestine and establish a Jewish national homeland.

The trouble, he asserted, would be to develop the country sufficiently to accommodate the thousands of refugees from Russia, Poland, Germany and other countries who will want to immigrate.

TAFT SAYS CONTROL OF COAL IS ILLEGAL

Denies in Opinion Right of Railroad Administration to Divert Shipments.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, March 14.—Confiscation of coal by the Railroad Administration and the fixing of prices at which coal may be sold by the Government is held to be illegal in an opinion rendered to the Smokeless Coal Operators' Association by former President Taft.

For some time past the coal operators of West Virginia have protested against the seizing of coal by the Railroad Administration and the Regional Boards. Protests have also been sent to Washington by operators and coal dealers from the Middle West. The smokeless operators decided "in order to be sure of their ground in attacking the Government's orders, to place the whole question before the former President."

Mr. Taft first reviews the various actions taken by former Fuel Administrator Garfield and then the continuation by the Railroad Administration of the power of diverting coal, and also the power granted by Congress to fix the price of coal as a war emergency.

In regard to the second question, regarding the right of the Railroad Administration to divert coal de novo orders or regulations for the diversion he declares that the first answer likewise is a reply to that question.

Further he declares that even the first order restoring the Government price on coal had no relation to the prosecution of the war.

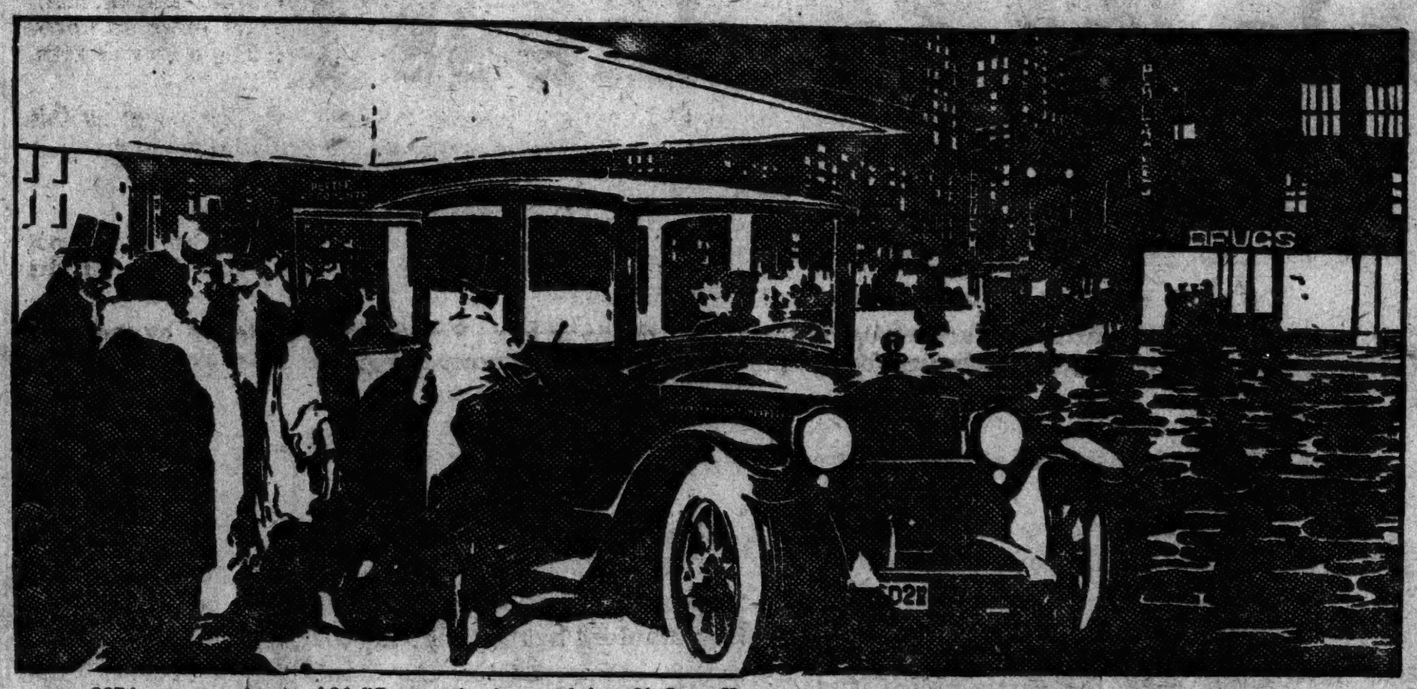
CHICAGO ST. LOUIS TORONTO



3274 passengers in cars of 31 different makes drove up before this Opera House entrance one evening last month. Many of them are traveling in second-class comfort, not realizing that they pay first-class prices for it

Does it Really Cost any more to Travel First Class

YOU will often hear people say, with an air of resignation, how much they would rather ride in a Packard, if they could only afford it.

Putting the Packard owner in a class apart, with special comforts and privileges—assuming that he pays more for his motoring than they do.

A GREAT many people would be less resigned to their own inconveniences of travel, if they knew how little the Packard owner pays for the comfort they speak of.

The gasoline mileage of the Packard is from 10 to 14, according to road conditions. The oil mileage, 1,000 to the gallon. Tires, properly cared for, 12,000 to 16,000 miles.

The Packard exclusive heat-treating process adds greatly to the strength of the steel, reducing repairs and depreciation.

The longer life and greater used value of the Packard more than takes care of the difference in initial investment.

FOR twenty years the Packard Company has been studying motor cars from the standpoint of Transportation Experts. Time after time it has proved that trying to save on the initial investment costs a man more in the long run than buying a Packard.

Transportation facts are not a matter of compromise, but absolute—as the Packard Transportation Experts can show any man who really wants the facts.

"Drugged" Food vs. Pure Food

Read What Mr. Alfred W. McCann Said About Benzoate of Soda in the New York Globe of January 31st, 1920

'Ware Benzoate of Soda Food Label, Warns McCann

High-Grade Raw Materials, When Clean and Free From Infection, Need No Chemical Preserving Agent, He Says

By ALFRED W. McCANN

The statement that the United States government endorses the use of benzoate of soda in food products is a lie.

The statement that the United States government recommends the use of benzoate of soda in food products is a lie.

The United States government merely tolerates benzoate of soda and compels the food manufacturer who uses it to warn the public against it by declaring its presence on the label.

This official toleration, brought about by terrific political pressure, compromise, and subterfuge, developed such a foul odor at the time of its application that its stench still assails in the nostrils of decency.

The food manufacturers who resort to its use are ashamed of it. Under the law they have to confess its presence in their products, but they make their confession in a whisper, using the smallest type permissible.

If benzoate of soda were a virtue which the writers of advertising copy could be proud of, they would loudly proclaim it in the boldest type.

Why, then, do they never refer to it in their advertisements? Why are the designers of labels instructed to hide the phrase, "Contains one-tenth of 1 per cent benzoate of soda," along the border in inconspicuously as possible?

Have these subterfuges no meaning for the consumer? Has the consumer forgotten that the government officials who so vigorously opposed the use of benzoate of soda were compelled to resign from office to make place for a group of soft pedal, "safe and sane" officials who could be depended upon to stir up no more controversy on the subject?

Benzoate of soda is a substitute for high-grade raw materials; a substitute for clean hands; a substitute for clean kettles; a substitute for clean methods of manufacturing.

Low-grade raw materials handled slovenly, shifted, shovelled, poured in bulk, can be kept from rotting by the use of benzoate or any other embalming agent.

High grade raw materials handled under clean and wholesome surroundings, free from infection, with self-respect and decency on guard, require no germicide or other chemical preservative to keep them fit.

To the manufacturers who use it benzoate of soda is commercially important and they derive great benefit from it.

The public derives no benefit from it. Why should the public pay for it when at its best the only claim that can be made in its defense is that it promotes salvage and rescues from the dump foodstuffs that would surely go there without the protection of dope.

When Dr. Harvey W. Wiley and Dr. Floyd W. Robinson disobeyed orders from their superiors by continuing to prove through repeated experiments that benzoate of soda is a real poison when consumed with acids, tomatoes, orange juice, grape juice, cider or any other fruit or vegetable product containing acids they had to get out of the service "for the good of the service."

Even when benzoate of soda is consumed in alkaline foods, such alkaline foods are invariably consumed with other foods of acid nature, whether the benzoate be in them or not. It is quite impossible on a mixed diet to consume non-acid foods.

If benzoate of soda could be legitimately used in dairy products, including milk and butter, it would solve a problem that has vexed the scientific world for years.

The government will not permit the use of benzoate of soda in milk. Why? Let the food manufacturers who use it in butter or other table fats churned with milk answer this question.

Some day these facts, with all the scandals which led to them and which have flowed from them, will be fully exposed, and the American people will learn that benzoate of soda is not only bad, but that it has a bad history.

The American people will learn that as this bad history is understood by decent food manufacturers, they promptly abhor benzoate, which is not a food, but a drug, which has no food value, but a chemical value, and that in shunning it they boast of the fact as they should boast of it.

The surprise is that Americans have been slow to learn that benzoate is merely a substitute for sanitation and decency, and that all the risks attendant upon its use and all the inferior makeshifts, nondescripts, and compounds consumed under its protection, are suffered, not by the man who makes a profit out of it, but by the people and their children who eat it.

Benzoate of soda has never been used except to cover questionable quality or to prolong unnaturally the life of a product that would quickly rot without it. Hence, the government warning, "Contains one-tenth of 1 per cent benzoate of soda."

For your own sake, before you buy food of any kind, examine the label carefully. Look for the fine print, the microscopic phrase deftly concealed along the fringe of the cheap ornamentation with which the cheap label is adorned, striving to cover its sneak-thief humiliation in a squeaky little fine-print voice.

When you hear that voice make up your mind that the food it describes could not stand up by itself, for which reason it must lean on chemical crutches.

Pure food, properly prepared, doesn't need benzoate of soda, or any other dope. When you buy it you buy it on your own responsibility with your eyes open, though they may not be open wide enough to catch a glimpse of the tell-tale phrase, "Contains one-tenth of 1 per cent benzoate of soda."

NUT MARGARINE

[ASHBY PROCESS]

The Perfected Nut Butter—BEST or Your Money Back

Made By a New Exclusive Process

The Nut Margarine industry is new in the United States and, until our discovery, Nut Margarine was made by the same process used in making oleomargarine (from animal fats). Because the results of using the oleomargarine process to make nut butter were so undependable, we decided it was not good enough for us and set about developing a new process. We were successful. We called our new discovery the Ashby Process.

Goody is different from other nut butters—better—because it is the only one made by this new process—the Ashby Process—which enables us to make a dependable product.

No Benzoate of Soda

Goody is made from such pure ingredients by such a skillful, cleanly method that it does not need to be preserved. The only purpose of a preservative in nut butter is to cover up the carelessness or the ignorance of the manufacturer.

Look closely at the label of the food product you buy. You are fully protected by the laws in regard to labelling food products if you will only use your eyes.

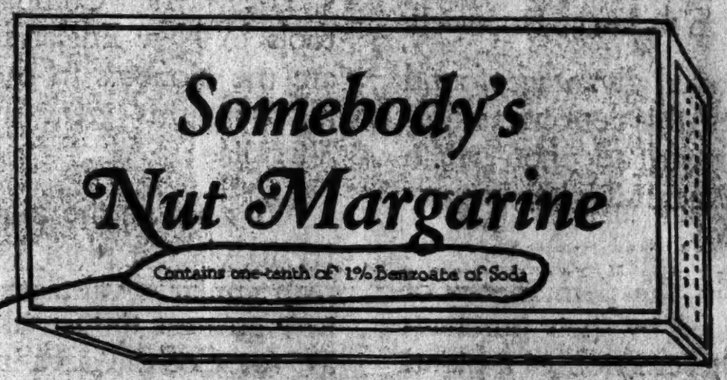
Does the butter you use contain chemical preservatives?



No Animal Fats

Goody contains nothing but the white meat of the cocoanut, peanut oil, pasteurized milk and butter salt. Can you imagine a more appetizing food? You can depend upon Goody. It is always good when it is kept as a butter ought to be kept.

If you are really interested in pure foods, if you want to economize without sacrificing quality, please remember that every package of Goody is sold under our guarantee—

Best or Your Money Back

"Buy a pound package of Goody from your dealer. Serve it on the table. Use it in your cooking. Try it in any way you please. Then, if you do not like Goody as well as the choicest creamery butter you ever ate, your money will be refunded without a word."

ELEVATED STATION AND 3 CARS BURNED

Passengers on Third Avenue Line Alarmed When Fire Starts at 18th Street.

POLICEMEN AVERT PANIC

Journal Drops Off and Short Circuit Ignites Train Carrying 300 Passengers.

Passengers on a Third Avenue elevated train were alarmed yesterday afternoon when a car burst into flame at the Eighteenth Street station. Prompt action by two policemen averted a panic, and none of the 300 travelers was seriously hurt.

The seven-car train had just stopped on its way downtown at 1:45 o'clock when a journal box on the rear truck of the third car dropped off, making a short circuit with the third rail. Patrolman Edward Devine of the East Twenty-second street Station, heard an explosion and looked up to see flames creeping up the car's side. He turned in an alarm, and running up the elevated stairs with Patrolman William Waters, of the same Precinct, succeeding in restoring order.

Some windows were raised to permit passengers to wriggle and kick their way through the openings. Others, which would not budge were broken. Some passengers climbed to the station platform and some to the footpath, where they walked in opposite directions to the Fourteenth and Twenty-third Street stations.

Many of the passengers, young men and boys, lowered themselves down elevated railroad uprights to the street. Others dropped to the broad top of a huge automobile and then to the street.

The exit of passengers and their escape were made reasonably safe by Patrolman Devine, who, after turning in a fire alarm, dropped to the trestle between the tracks and made his way to a cut-off switch between Seventeenth and Eighteenth Streets, where he turned off the power from the third rail in the section wherein the accident had occurred.

The blaze wrecked the third car and damaged those in front and rear. Spreading rapidly to the station, it consumed the wooden superstructure, except for the platforms at each end. Three engines and two trucks under Deputy Chief "Smoky" Joe Martin soon extinguished the fire, and by 4 o'clock traffic was resumed on both the northbound and southbound tracks.

Patrolman Devine, after helping the passengers, was accidentally pushed from the platform by the crowd, suffering injuries to his back when he struck the roadbed. Nathan Hirschfield, 230 East Ninety-eighth Street, one of those on board the train, was cut on the hand by flying glass. Joseph P. Mahon, a cripple, who was riding in the fourth car, was carried out of harm's way by Henry Basserman, 180 Third Avenue. The train was in charge of Motorman James Wood and Conductor Arthur Bond.

Two onlookers were arrested by Patrolman Devine and taken to the East Twenty-second Street Police Station. There it was stated by the policeman that they had attempted to break through the fire lines. The men, who said they were Max Raeder, 27 years old, of 65 First Street, and Jacob Brown, 24 years of 165 Suffolk Street, declared that they had only tried to get to the elevated railroad pillars to help escaping passengers in their descent.

WAR SURPLUS PLANT SITES

Big Tool Plant Goes to Hopewell

New location gives old-established New England concern lower freight rates, satisfied labor and cheaper power.

The Mayhew Steel Products, Inc., manufacturers of mechanics' tools and automobile tool kits, is among the latest of America's industries to locate at Hopewell.

The unusual and varied advantages found at Hopewell prompted this concern to purchase a ten-acre tract of land upon which they will erect a structural steel factory building.

Their confidence in the permanency of Hopewell can be judged by their purchase of bare ground for the erection of a plant.

Mayhew Steel Products, Inc., established a plant at Hopewell to take advantage of the low freight rates on raw material and the finished product which goes to the South, Middle West and the largest distribution centres of the East.

Mayhew gets low-cost fuel and power at Hopewell. They also get a plentiful supply of satisfied American labor with excellent housing and recreation facilities for that labor.

They also get at Hopewell deep water shipping facilities for a greater export business.

The Mayhew Company has been making tools in New England since 1856. They are the pioneers in their trade to locate a plant in this great industrial district of Virginia.

Why not be the pioneer in your industry to place a plant here? You, too, can reap similar advantages at Hopewell, America's greatest industrial opportunity. Here are some of the advantages it offers:

Factory buildings ready for occupancy.
Plant sites with railway sidings.
Low-priced power.
Plentiful supply of contented labor.
Homes for 12,000 families.
Abundance of pure water.
Best rail and water transportation.
No harmful municipal restrictions.
Climate mild and healthful.

Investigate Hopewell. Find out more about its advantages. It may mean the most important move you ever made to solve your production problems. Write, wire or phone to

A Cow Must Be Sound and Healthy to make

SHEFFIELD MILK

YOU can't make good milk out of bad milk. It must be good at the source. To meet the standard of Sheffield Quality milk must come from a healthy cow. Sheffield veterinarians insure this. In our organization we have a corps of trained specialists who regularly examine the animals that produce our supply. An important factor in Sheffield service. It is an essential link in the chain of safeguards with which Sheffield Quality is maintained.

These veterinarians are public health workers maintained without Municipal, State or Federal aid. In no other line of food production and distribution will you find such an organization. Thus, Sheffield supervision begins before the cow is milked. It continues until the milk reaches you.

Babel on Broadway.

The Messrs. Dodge & Pogany, a new firm of produce, made their first Manhattan appearance in this capacity on Saturday night when they presented at the Punch & Judy Theatre a play of uncertain origin called "Musk," which may be briefly described as "Jane Clegg" gone wild.

It tells in moderately dramatic fashion the story of a sweetly patient and forgiving wife who stands for all sorts of slides from her husband until she finds he has been unfaithful to her, when she suddenly resorts to gun play—shooting, however, not him but herself. Her body and the final curtain fall simultaneously. The title refers specifically to the pervading perfume worn by the hussy in the play and, in general, to the sickish sweet and corrupting odor of city life, as opposed to the bracing fresh air and purifying breezes in the well-known open spaces of the country.

If one or more of the suicides which punctuate the action of "Musk" seem a little purposeless, and if the characters in general seem to behave oddly, it may be because it is hard for the minds of an American audience to go along with a production that is not only alien, but so seriously alien as the Peace Conference. The program is silent on the subject of the origins of "Musk," but it seems to be one of those Scandinavian dramas from the banks of the blue Danube. It is accredited to Leonie de Soutay, who, it is rumored, worked from a Hungarian original, which had had some success in Vienna before the war. The scene, however, is scrupulously laid in Sweden, with a few Scandinavian names sprinkled through the text and a copy of the Stockholm Gazette brandished among the props to banish all doubts.

Some subsequent confusion of this laboriously induced impression is, however, attributable to the company of players, which is quite international. Bohemian, Russian, English, French and American tongues was throughout the three acts, spoken. A Russian actor playing the part of a Swedish boy and an English actor playing the part of the Russian villain, just to make it harder. A Russian musician named Vadim Uraneff directed the performance.

He is young and gentle in manner and there is a good deal of evidence in the performance that he was insufficiently terrifying during rehearsals. Certainly a fiercer and more dominating fellow would have moderated more what might be called the individualism of the actors, would have checked the accomplished Blanche Yurka at this or that point and would have told pretty Mlle. Yvonne Garrick, late of the local French Theatre, not to wiggle so much. He was probably distracted, by the sudden emergency which obliged him to enter the cast himself, understudying the part of one of the suicides and doing it very well.

The text of "Musk" is a curious mixture of the colloquial and the spuriously literary. It swings between a sentence rather like this: "I always have my suspicions of a man what spoons with his wife" to onewherein a business man will go on somewhat as follows: "I was pure once, but soon my senses were swayed by the insinuating rhythms of the seductive maelstrom and I floated on the mauve harmonies of the corrupt and the pellucid." That is not the exact language, but rather the general effect of "Musk," as recalled next day by a playgoer who has seen much worse in his time.

CONCERTS OF A DAY.

Tetrazzini, Titta Ruffo, Godowsky and Many Others Heard.

There were many concerts of serious music yesterday, more than will perhaps occur again at one time in the season's remaining weeks. The Sunday night program at the Metropolitan repeated two favorite works, "Gallia" of Gounod and the "Stabat Mater" of Rossini, with Setti's chorus assisted by Sundelius, Ponselle, Matzenauer, Kingston and Mardones. At Aeolian Hall, a sold-out house greeted Conductor Damrosch's second performance of an all-Wagner program. The Philharmonic Society in Carnegie Hall turned many away, the music for the day including Brahms's second symphony and a concerto of Liszt, played by Mr. Godowsky. Katharine Hyman, pianist, gave a successful matinee at the Princess Theatre.

Mme. Tetrazzini returned to the Hippodrome after travelling to California and back since she opened her tour, was in fine spirits and voice as she gave airs from "Semiramide" and "Mignon." The Italian singer encored another number with "Just as the Shadows Gather," a locally popular song, while Clarence Whitehill was heard in the Credo from "Otello." A second vast throng filled the Hippodrome last night for the famous baritone, Titta Ruffo, who was assisted in his program by Anna Fitziu.

Mr. Ruffo's admirers, 6,000 strong, shouted themselves hoarse for popular encores, among which Figaro's air from "The Barber" and the prologue to "Pagliacci" seemed to be the most in demand, though the hero of the evening long refused them, giving instead his "Hamlet" battlehorse and light Neapolitan songs.

TO SING RUSSIAN OPERA.

Tschaikovsky's Work in New Form at Metropolitan, March 24.

Tschaikovsky's "Eugene Onyegin" will be presented in its operatic form for the first time in this country on Wednesday evening of next week at the Metropolitan. Mr. Gatti-Casazza's cast will include, as Tatiana, Claudia Muzio; Olga, Frances Ingram; Lenina, Flora Perini; Filipievna, Kathleen Howard; Onyegin, Giuseppe de Luca; Lenski, Giovanni Martinelli; Prince Gremine, Adamo Didur; Triquet, Angelo Bada; Zaretski, Millo Picco; a Captain, Louis d'Angelo.

The Russian composer's music, familiar to many in concert hitherto, will be conducted by Bodansky. The stage director is Ordynski and the pictures are by Joseph Urban.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Harry Durant, well known as a writer for the screen, is the author of a number of plays which will probably be produced next season. These include "The Beautiful Virgin," which George Broadhurst will produce; "The Man Within," a Napoleonic drama to be staged by Oliver D. Bailey, with Jose Ruben as Napoleon; "Neither Do They Spin," which L. Lawrence Weber will produce, and an unnamed play to be presented by A. H. Woods.

Beginning tonight, Florenz Ziegfeld's "Girls of 1920," on the New Amsterdam Roof, will begin at 8:30 o'clock, instead of 9. The new edition of the "Midnight Frolic," with many newcomers in the company, also will be revealed tonight for the first time.

Owen Davis is conducting rehearsals of his own comedy, "A Week-End Marriage," which the Shuberts will present. In the company will be Fay Wallace, Marjorie Gateson, Katharine La Salle, Robert Ober, Maude Granger, Emily Alden, Hayward Gibbs, Charles Gotthold and Guy Nichols.

Beatrice Maude, last seen here in Dunsany's "The Tents of the Arabs," will act Ophelia in Walter Hampden's production of "Hamlet" at the Lyric tonight.

The American rights to "L'Aventuriere," by Alfred Capus, have been acquired by James K. Hackett, who will appear in the play, following his tour in "The Rise of Miles Lapham."

Joseph Santley and Ivy Sawyer will soon enter vaudeville in a musical offering now being prepared by Mr. Santley and Hassard Short.

"Sir Harry," a farce by Elde Dudley, will be produced in Far Rockaway on March 29 by Theodore C. Dietrich, and will be brought to New York about the middle of April. In the cast will be Dallas Welford, William Roselle, Florence Carpenter, Ben Gordon, Percy Benton, Vira Rial, Catherine Carroll and others.

St. John Ervine will be the speaker at the seventh annual meeting of the New York Drama League, to be held at the Garden Theatre next Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Ervine's address will be on "Contemporary Dramatists of England." The league has finished the most successful year of its career.

Harold C. Chapin's comedy, "Beyond the Horizon," running at the Little Theatre, is now obtainable in book form.

THE SCREEN

"Alarm Clock Andy" is the title of a photoplay at the Rivoli this week which serves, and serves well, to present the same old Charles Ray with variations. It is partly because Ray is capable of infinite, or at least, so far, limitless, variations that he is invariably so fresh and refreshing. Almost all of his characters are fundamentally the same or closely akin, yet each is importantly original and different. To any one who enjoys the best in screen acting, with comedy subtle, human and real, Ray is a joy forever. And especially when, as now, he has a story that fits him as his own suit of clothes.

It is often impossible to tell just who is responsible for a photoplay or any part of it, whether the scenarist, director or star, but when a story as a whole is consistently bright and all of its incidents, while exactly suited to the talent of its star, brings him into the narrative rather than break with him away from it, it is reasonable to assume that the author is really the one to whom authorship is ascribed. And in the present instance it is Agnes Christine Johnson, the pleasing quality of whose work in "Daddy Long Legs" and "Twenty-three and a Half Hours' Leave" has been noticed, but who, apparently, has had better opportunities and done more with them in "Alarm Clock Andy" than in any of her previous works—perhaps, because her present scenario is not an adaptation, but hers from the beginning.

Above a general level of excellence there are special bits in the picture that seem typical examples of Miss Johnson's wit, and in them Ray is at his best—so in each there is a happy coincidence of talent. Nor must Jerome Storm be overlooked, for as Ray's director he has contributed much to former productions and undoubtedly would have been missed from the present one.

Ray's latest role is that of a timid, stuttering young man who is the slave of an alarm clock, an office, a boarding house and a girl whom he worships from afar anonymously. He lives in a constant state of embarrassment, anxiety and apologetic intensity. Every one runs over him, and he lies down to be run over whenever anyone comes his way. But through a conjunction of incidents and influences he suddenly asserts himself and most emphatically asserted. A succession of friendly accidents gives him a start, stimulated hope spurs him to efforts of his own, fortune continues her favors, and, in the end, like his brother Bunker Bean, he comes through triumphantly.

Of those in the cast George Webb is most satisfactory. He is the hero's enemy and opposite, but nevertheless is largely responsible for his ascendancy. Little is required of the other characters, which are played by Millicent Fisher, Tom Guise and Andrew Robson. "Haunted Spooks," a boisterous Harold Lloyd farce, is also at the Rivoli.

A screen version of "My Lady's Garter," which was one of the latest stories written by Jacques Futrelle before his death in the Titanic disaster, is at the Capitol this week. It was made more than a year ago by Maurice Tourneur, and for some reason was withheld from exhibition until the present. Certainly its proprietor could not have feared that it was dated, for it is an unusually interesting picture, combining the work of Mr. Tourneur with a good story. This is a combination not always effected. Mr. Tourneur is a skillful cinematician, and his productions are invariably excellent if considered by separate scenes from the pictorial point of view; but a number of them have been lacking in continuity; their stories and characters have not been made plausible and have failed to hold the interest. In the present case, however, Mr. Tourneur had a story that was well worked out originally and has been well adapted to the screen.

Also the picture has the benefit of good acting. Wyndham Standing has the leading rôle, that of a man suspected of being "The Hawk," who stole the famous garter from the British Museum, but who is really after the thief and finally exposes him. Holmes E. Herbert is the Hawk and Warner Richmond and Paul Clerger are Secret Service men who spend most of their time pursuing him and the hero. Sylvia Breamer is the very attractive heroine, and others in the cast are Warren Cook, Louise Dergney and Charles Craig. All of the cast are good. Mr. Standing's work is well known, and also Miss Breamer's. A word, then, about two others, Richmond and Clerger. The former has been seen in a number of Mr. Tourneur's pictures, and in each he has made his part count for something of value to the story. The latter is the man who was the inimitable Pierrot, Sr., in "Pierrot the Prodigal," staged in 1916 by Winthrop Ames. He is a rare pantomimist and it is to be regretted that he has not been given full opportunity to try his talent on the screen. In "My Lady's Garter" he has a minor rôle, of which he makes the most, but which does not permit him to do anything extraordinary. Presumably he has by now returned to his home in Belgium, so, unless he acts before the camera, owners of theaters have no opportunity for determining what his genius for pantomime is worth to motion pictures has been lost.

"The Madonna of the Slums," one of the State Women's War Relief films, with Gail Kane, Holbrook Blinn, Jeanne Eagles and other well-known folk in the cast, is also at the Capitol.

Mary Roberts Rinehart's "Dangerous Days" is at the Strand; "The Deadlier Sex," with Blanche Sweet, is at the Broadway, and "Huckleberry Finn," which was at the Rivoli recently, has come to the Rialto.

Future Actors to Graduate.

Graduation exercises for the thirty-sixth class of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts will take place at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Lyceum Theatre. The speakers will be Blanche Bates and Bruce McRae. On Friday afternoon, at the same theatre, the students will offer Thompson Buchanan's "A Woman's Way" at their final matinée of the season.

MUSIC

By Richard Aldrich

The Friends of Music

The Society of the Friends of Music gave the last concert of its present season yesterday afternoon in the ballroom of the Ritz Carlton Hotel. The program, like so many of the society's programs, presented matter that was doubtless unfamiliar to most of those who were present. It comprised the overture to Mendelssohn's youthful comic opera called in English "Son and Stranger"—which is not a translation of the German title; the same composer's attempt at a dramatic Italian aria, "Infelice, gia dal mio sguardo," and Schumann's cantata, "The Pilgrimage of the Rose," for solo voices, chorus and orchestra. Mr. Bodanzky conducted.

The program cannot be called exciting. Though probably few of the listeners, who were many, had a knowledge of the music, its disclosure failed to stir them deeply, even those most anxious to make acquaintance with unfamiliar music of two romantics whose place is now among the classics. It may in truth be said that there has been in all these years very good reason why these compositions have not been appearing on concert programs. They make but little appeal today, and would not be performed except through some unusual effort, such as the Friends of Music have made.

Mendelssohn's operetta of "The Son and Stranger" was composed for his parents' golden wedding in 1829. The overture is pleasing in its double-distilled Mendelssohnianism; some may have recalled it as a favorite exercise in four-hand playing in childhood's happy hours. The aria—originally written for Mme. Caradori—is not so nearly in the Italian style as to be likely to deceive the most trusting into believing that it might be from some unknown Italian opera. It comes nearer the oratorio style. Large parts of it might be discarded matter from "Elijah" or "St. Paul." It was sung by Miss Frieda Klink in a voice not remarkable for beauty or style.

Schumann's "Pilgrimage of the Rose" belongs in those last few years of his life when so many of his compositions show the failing power, the coming of night. The poem by one Moritz Horn, adjusted largely in accordance with Schumann's suggestions, is delicately imaginative. There are beautiful pages in Schumann's score, some passages characteristic of his romantic and poetic vein; but not many. There are more that are plainly dull; that show the vagueness, the wearied imagination of those fatal years. Schumann himself thought the work was like "Paradise and the Peri," only more German" and "more countrified." The dirge-like chorus, with soprano solo, "Let Leaves on the Tree", the chorus, "O Blessed Time," recall something of Schumann's old power and tenderness. The solos are rarely grateful or especially effective. They were sung commendably by Misses Marie Sundelius, Jeanne Gordon and Mary Ellis, and Messrs. Rafaelo Diaz and Carl Schlegel. The chorus was from the Metropolitan Opera House.

Catalonian Music Heard.

Catalonian citizens of New York gathered in large numbers at the Belmont Theatre yesterday afternoon at an "inaugural festival" of the "National Catalonian Centre" of this city. There were Catalonian songs by the chorus of the Schola Cantorum, violin solos by Mr. Cugat, piano solos by Paquita Madriguerra, and speeches. Mr. Kurt Schindler, conductor of the Schola Cantorum, who had brought out many Catalonian songs in this country, was presented with a baton in recognition of his work in this direction and was made an honorary member.

GERMAN TREATY RESERVATIONS.

Chancellor KAPP of the newest Berlin Government joins Major Gen. VON LUETTWITZ in proclaiming to the world the high purpose of the military and imperialist coup d'état which drove out the Ebert Government without a blow struck. It is "an overdue "attempt to lay the foundations for "the economic resuscitation of Ger- "many, enabling her to fulfill those "conditions of the Peace Treaty "which are reasonable and not self- "destructive." This means that the Treaty is to be Germanized by reservations appropriate to that end, for all the world just like the Senate's undertaking to Americanize that instrument by the Lodge reservations.

The Kapp-Luettwitz seizure of power may come to nothing or to very little. It may have momentous consequences. There is no convincing evidence that the German people, aside from the Socialists, prefer a republic to government by an Emperor under the nominal restraints of a constitution. If they support the reaction, if they permit or aid it to become the established Government of Germany, we may expect at no distant day to see a Hohenzollern again upon the throne. That would be a challenge to the Allies which they would have to accept instantly or worse would befall them. France has an army, and she will need it. In the attempt to create a British army to meet the new danger Mr. LLOYD GEORGE would encounter the opposition of the Labor Party, but Britain would respond as she always does. Italy would be a doubtful factor, because of her economic exhaustion and of her politics. If the Jugoslavs and the Poles joined in the fray they would show great magnanimity—helping friends who have been sparing of help to them; and they would incur grave risks. There would be a r l renewal of the war, but it could not well be a long war.

The United States, of course, would keep out of it. Eloquent Republican Senators have taught the country that it must hold itself aloof from European broils; the admonitions of the fathers against entanglements were never so fashionable. Thousands of Americans would, as individuals, enlist with foreign armies to finish the destruction of German militarism, but the first demand of Mr. BORAH would be that the 15,000 American troops now on the Rhine be recalled. "America first in the talk, last in the procession," as Dr. VAN DYKE puts it. All the same, a renewal of the war against Germany would have American consequences. We should have to lend more money to the Allies—to refuse it would be an unspeakable disgrace; there would be new bond issues, more inflation; prices would rise, for we should have to export all the commodities we could spare, and more, creating a new war scarcity for ourselves. We should have war bread again, rationing, denial, privation, all the conditions of 1918—only we should not be in the fight for the safety of freedom and civilization.

These calamities, if by great good fortune they be not averted, we have invited by the incredibly wicked way in which we have behaved with the Treaty of Versailles and the covenant of the League of Nations. Those imperialists in Berlin would have been something less than Prussian if they had not seized the opportunity and the advantage the Senate Treaty wreckers have brought into their view and put into their hands. Our delay with the Treaty has not merely kept us out of the great association for security against war—it has sundered the bond that made the Allies one in heart, mind and purpose. Sharp differences have arisen. Ambassador and the clash of interests have succeeded to the harmony born of a common peril. No great nation prostrate in defeat ever received from its conquerors so clear an invitation to prepare its revange as we have issued to Germany.

In a letter published in THE TIMES yesterday morning, Mr. THEODORE MARBURG supports the view we have advanced of the Senate's hostility to the Treaty as the responsible cause of these dangers and backslidings, and speaks with the utmost directness of the man who is the conspicuous leader in obstruction:

"WILLIAM of Hohenzollern has revealed to us what disaster may follow one man's inability to think true. He used his place to heredity and seniority. Next to the Hohenzollern, Senator LODGE, who happens to be in a position of power, owing to the second of these blind processes, is responsible for more suffering in the world today than any other living man. And to what end? In order to inject into the Treaty of Peace pronouncements every one of which is either unnecessary or damaging.

The world is startled by the news from Berlin, but not even the return to power of Prussian Junkerdom, impenitent, arrogant, knowing perfectly what it wants to accomplish, halts these men in their vindictive assaults upon the peace and safety of nations. Mr. LODGE submits the most reasonable reservation in respect to Article X. that has yet been proposed, submits it with plausible words of approval and support. Instantly from out the well-drilled army of his Republican supporters a division advances to block the path to agreement on that reservation. No commands are issued, none is necessary. Every man of the legion knows what is expected of him. And today a vote is to be had, this week is to be decisive for or against ratification. No thought is given to the new danger in Berlin, to the demand of our own millions or the prayers of other millions in countries again imperiled. Obstruction never swerves for a moment from its fixed purpose to destroy Mr. WILSON'S work, whatever may happen. With the world again threatened by consuming flames, NERO buses himself, not with a fiddle, but with the can of petrol.

A GOOD APPOINTMENT.

Mr. EDWARD J. MCGOLDRICK, appointed by Governor SMITH to succeed the late PHILIP HENRY DUGRO as a Justice of the Supreme Court, has a fine and trained mind, relentless industry, the capability and the habit of studying and mastering facts and the application of the law thereto.

An Assistant Corporation Counsel for many years, he has done admirably the thorny and thankless task of scrutinizing the multitude of bills introduced into the Legislature that affect in any way the interests of this city. In that task he has shown remarkable penetration, judgment, sagacity. He has a kind of dispassionate mathematical clearness of reasoning and demonstration. Modest, quiet, dignified, of high character, Mr. MCGOLDRICK'S summons to the Bench is commended by his fitness for judicial service.

CAVEAT VENDOR.

The State Department is now considering a plan by which Americans who want to trade with Bolshevist Russia may do so, but at their own risk. We continue to refuse to recognize the Lenin Government, we maintain no Consuls in Russian territory; we shall have no means of taking action if there is failure of payment for American goods. This is not likely to deter any of those American business men who are so enthusiastic to ship the goods for which they have contracted with Mr. MARTENS'S office. They know the hazards and they probably feel that just at present the needs of the Bolshevist Government are so great that it is not likely to default upon payments or otherwise scare away foreign manufacturers whose goods it needs. And it is possible, of course, that some of these prudent gentlemen have marked up their prices to a point where a profit can be counted on despite accidents and mishaps of our hazardous time.

More serious is the warning that this Government will give no guarantee against action which might be taken by the Rumanians to recover from American manufacturers gold stolen from Rumania and paid by the Bolsheviki to those who trade with Russia. There might be some difficulty in proving that a given gold shipment was Rumanian and not Russian, but the courts would decide, and Americans whose enthusiasm for profit is so eager that they would gladly coerce those in charge of our foreign affairs would have to respect the decision of the courts.

What good will come of all this is another matter. "The war-worn "countries need Russia's resources to "relieve the rather desperate condi- "tions that exist in Europe," says a Washington dispatch. Rather desperate conditions exist in the cities of Russia, if we may believe most of the correspondents now writing on Russian conditions. It is not a question of Russian resources, but of getting them out. The Soviet Government has trouble getting food from Russian farms to Russian cities; there would be as much trouble, if not more, involved in getting it to British and Italian cities. Railroad reconstruction is the first need of Russia, and we have no guarantee as yet that reconstructed railroads will not be used by the Red army rather than by trainloads of grain for export.

OBREGON'S RENUNCIATION.

General ALVARO OBREGON, the one-armed military hero of Mexico, has set PABLO GONZALES and other soldiers who aspire to the Presidency of Mexico an example by announcing that if he should fail to be called to that high office this year he would not take the field as a rebel. The manifesto is so un-Mexican that it is bound to attract attention. The precedents are the other way, and General OBREGON would have been applauded by his partisans if he had said that it was a candidate's duty to revolt when the success of a rival put the Constitution in danger or threatened any one of a number of Plans upon which the liberties of the country depended.

Insurgency is second nature to a Mexican politician. No other Spanish-American country has had so many "revolutions"; the count is almost lost in the hundred years that have elapsed since the downfall of Spanish sovereignty. Excluding the iron dictatorship of DIAZ, Mexico has always been distracted by the ambitions of rival candidates for the Presidency. Has the soil of any other country known more bloodshed? There may, of course, be method in OBREGON'S renunciation. There are civilian aspirants to the office, and the country is weary of war. A popular General who would promise to be peaceful under disappointment might expect to grow in popularity. His military rivals will be expected to make a similar announcement of pacific intentions. The leopard, however, does not change his spots when he sleeps. OBREGON may purr placidly, but the average Mexican will be incredulous. He recognizes the right to revolt.

AN AMERICAN ARMY SURGEON.

The United States Army has never had a more faithful soldier of the Medical Corps than Colonel LOUIS A. LA GARDE, who died recently. As a surgeon his fame was international; he attended many congresses as a representative of the army, and he wrote many valuable text-books. There was perhaps no greater authority on gunshot wounds. He was in much demand as a lecturer at the universities. In all kinds of operating work he was eminent. But Colonel LA GARDE was seen at his best in the field. There he was soldier as well as surgeon, strenuous, indefatigable, faithful.

In Cuba and in the Philippines a base hospital with the untiring LA GARDE in charge was a place of energy, well-directed effort and orderliness. Whether he was organizing or operating, he inspired others to do their utmost, and skillful and busy as he was his humanity and thoughtfulness impressed everybody. In the most exciting situations he was calm; in the most difficult, patient and resourceful. Yet, quiet as his methods were, he accomplished much. He was willing to work twenty-four hours a day, or until he broke down, as he did at Siboney with yellow fever. No one ever saw him show irritation even when tempers were frayed because supplies had failed and everything seemed to be going wrong. His low voice, his gentle smile, his serene self-possession conquered difficulties. One of the most modest of men, he could not help being heroic in emergencies.

For twenty years LA GARDE served on the frontier. Two years after becoming a contract surgeon he was mentioned in dispatches for gallantry in the Sioux war of 1876 by General MACKENZIE; but LA GARDE was content to be a surgeon, and it may be doubted whether the army has had a better one. Honors never before conferred upon any army surgeon came to him. He earned the dignity of Surgeon General, but never received it. The whole army esteemed him. He had troops of friends, no man could be his enemy. In a long and eventful career a fine character shone through his work, and by his charming personality he was always remembered.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE COMMISSION.

The first and most important step of all toward the restoration of railroad credit was taken by Congress in the enactment of the Esch-Cummins law, which provides a policy of regulation to be followed by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The second step in the process of restoration of credit must be taken by the agent of Congress, the Interstate Commerce Commission. The third step, and one of equal importance with the other two, remains to be taken by the railway managers themselves. After private operation has been made possible by wise laws, fairly interpreted, it remains for the railway managers to operate the properties in such a manner that the public will be satisfied with the policy which Congress has declared, and not demand a change.

In view of the added duties and enlarged responsibilities placed upon the Interstate Commerce Commission, the law provides that its number shall be increased from nine to eleven. Inasmuch as there is already one vacancy, it will be necessary for the President to appoint three new members, and it is very important that the men chosen should be qualified by experience and understanding properly to perform the important duties which will devolve upon them. This also is a matter of prime public importance, because it should be kept in mind that, while Congress has provided a plan of regulation under private operation, it has done so not in the interest of the railroads themselves, but primarily in the interest of the public.

That the President recognized the paramount interest of the public in the successful and continued operation of the railroads was clearly indicated by him in his address to Congress in August, 1916, which resulted in the passage of the so-called Adamson law. The President at that time very clearly pointed out that not only was it in his opinion desirable that eight hours be established as the basic day in railroad operations, but he also recommended that Congress provide for the enlargement and the reorganization of the Interstate Commerce Commission so that it might deal more promptly and effectively with its many duties; and he also recognized the intimate relations which naturally exist between wages paid by the carriers and the rates which they should receive. This thought has been definitely embodied in the Esch-Cummins law in instructions to the Commission concerning the things which they shall take into consideration in establishing a basis of rates.

If the recommendations in full which were made by the President in August, 1916, had been acted upon at that time, many of the difficulties that have since arisen in connection with the railroad problem would not have occurred, or, if they had arisen, they could have been more readily dealt with. Undoubtedly the Esch-Cummins law is broader and more comprehensive than any legislation which would have been likely to emerge at an earlier period, based upon a less thorough investigation; nevertheless, it is in line with the President's recommendations in August, 1916.

It must be constantly kept in mind that, whether the country continues the policy of private ownership and operation of the railroads or eventually adopts some other policy, it will in any event be necessary to raise approximately $1,000,000,000 of new capital each year to provide the additional equipment and facilities required to keep up with the growth of commerce. Under private ownership and operation there is only one way in which that money can be raised, and that is by means of voluntary investment by individuals, and the ability of the railroads to raise $1,000,000,000 of new capital each year will be the ultimate test of the plan.

THE BUILDING PROGRAM.

Mayor HYLAN'S attack upon the housing problem is both fundamental and practical. So long as the present shortage of dwellings continues the most effective measure against profiteering landlords can barely scratch the surface. According to EDWARD P. DOYLE of the Real Estate Board, the city requires 40,000 new apartments every year. The war has left us far in arrears, so that the present need is for little short of 100,000 new apartments. The crisis can be met only by the most liberal and far-sighted co-operation among all the interests involved. It is the Mayor's intention that the meeting to be held at the City Hall this morning shall result in at least a tentative program, and he has hope of arriving at a definite solution of the difficulty.

Mr. DOYLE is authority for the statement that the financiers of real estate operations stand ready to advance from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000. The contractors may be similarly relied on. Both may be expected to offer highly favorable terms. The situation of dealers in building materials presents some little difficulty. Supplies are limited and are conditioned upon unstable factors of production and delivery. The proposed operation would require at least eighteen months and would probably extend over two years. What may happen to wages and rates in that time is a problem quite indeterminable. The uncertainty is, however, of a kind thoroughly familiar, and with a tithe of the public spirit which inspired business men in wartime it should offer no insurmountable difficulty. A great service is to be rendered—a service not only to the thousands who are without proper homes or are burdened with excessive rents, but to the city which is the metropolis and chief port of the nation.

The crux of the problem lies in the labor difficulty. In the local building trades the question of wages is complicated with political and social questions, questions of unionism. Already wages have reached a pinnacle hitherto undreamed of, and meantime production and general efficiency have ebbed. To put through the proposed program, terms will have to be agreed upon and obligations assumed by both labor and capital which shall virtually prevent strikes and insure steady, hard work. Mayor HYLAN sounds the right note when he says that in a good cause American workmen are never found wanting in loyalty. His shrewdness is evidenced in his further statement that in serving the good cause they will be only helping themselves. The laborer is not the least of sufferers from the shortage of housing. The Mayor omitted, however, one very important qualification. It is sometimes necessary to convince labor of the virtue of a cause and even of its own enlightened self-interest. That is the most formidable undertaking before today's counsel.

The men who are to meet, as Mr. DOYLE very happily says, are those best qualified to find a remedy. They should enter the conference with a fixed determination to emerge from it with a fixed and definite plan.

THE TRAFFIC LIGHTS.

New toys are always acceptable whether they are obviously intended for children or ingeniously disguised so as not to offend the dignity of adults, but it has been a long time since New York has had a toy with such infinite possibilities as the traffic tower stations on Fifth Avenue. The way the public has taken up the new game of red, yellow and green lights must assuredly have exceeded the fondest hopes of the inventor. The idea of the thing is quite simple and, what is more, it is thoroughly democratic. Everybody has to play whether he likes it or not. Pedestrians, trucks, automobiles—they must all play the game of the lights.

Occasionally one may forget the rules and start to cross the Avenue at Forty-second Street, but the umpires will be on him at once. Of course, the object of the game is not merely to provide amusement, but to inculcate the spirit of team play throughout Manhattan Island. If we can once get the man in Harlem to realize that he should not want to cross the Avenue at 125th Street until his brother evinces some inclination to do the same thing at Fourteenth Street, a whole lot will have been accomplished. Just at present the game is in its infancy and no really fine players have been developed, but anybody who watches the chauffeur expression when the light turns from green to red and from red to yellow will know that the old fighting spirit of the Argonne is still alive. Every man is out to make his half dozen blocks before the lights are changed, and woe betide the east or west bound car that does not know the rules. As soon as the crowds are thoroughly well drilled one man will operate the lights from the top of the Woolworth Building. By that time we shall have Brooklyn and Hoboken in the game, and a false move in Prospect Park will mean havoc on upper Broadway.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Obvious When Mentioned.

Sir AUCKLAND GEDDES, who is soon to be here as British Ambassador, made at the luncheon given to him in London last week by the Americans living there one of the statements that are always a little irritating to those who hear or read them. The irritation is not due to disagreement with the statement, but to the feeling that can, and often does, find expression in something like "Why, I could have said that! Why didn't I?"

It seems that when Sir AUCKLAND first came here, years ago, he was surprised to find the people not only much different from those whom he had known at home—which is the same thing as saying much different from himself—but more different than he had found dwellers on the Continent of Europe. This phenomenon at first puzzled him deeply, for he had thought of Americans as of the same origin, language and ambition as the inhabitants of Great Britain, while, of course, the Continental nations were far removed in all these particulars. He soon solved the mystery, however, deciding that in the one case he had expected to discover only differences and had found many similarities, while in the other his expectation of entire likeness had been so confident that the considerable number of differences he came across acquired an exaggerated importance and hid from him the more numerous and much more important points of likeness.

That is a theory at least highly plausible. As not everybody would look further and longer, as Sir AUCKLAND did, and decide that the first impressions in both instances were wrong or out of proportion, here or hereabout may be an explanation of the unquestionable fact, not that the English and Americans, as individuals, hate or dislike each other—as such they certainly do not—but that the national peculiarities of each are more fretting to the other than are the peculiarities of peoples whose "queerness" is viewed as natural and therefore to be pardoned or even found pleasant and interesting.

Lingering Reasons for Friction.

Plausible, however, as is the theory of Sir AUCKLAND GEDDES, and much of truth as it evidently contains, it is not enough to explain the whole nature of Anglo-American relations of the personal sort. The inclination to be pleasant and friendly is strong in both countries among all except the least intelligent, but underlying that inclination is the subconscious memory of ancient wars. The descendants of "rebels" and those of "oppressors" can say snappish things to each other on slight provocation, and neither feels as much obligation to be considerate as would either when dealing with strangers more alien.

There is, too, on one side something of the superiority over "colonials" that used to be so strongly felt, and, on the other, the touchiness of those who resent any intimation of inferiority.

All this is vague and dim, nowadays, but it still has a sort of reality—quite enough to make highly inexpedient the pinpricking that too often goes on when Britons and Americans come together. It is human nature for relatives to quarrel easily and to nurse small grievances into larger ones.

If our school histories were revised, the risks of disagreement over trifles might be decreased. It would be well, for example, if more American boys were told, not only that the British burned the public buildings at Washington, but that only a little while before all the public buildings at York, now Toronto, had been burned by Americans. That and other secrets like it have been concealed too sedulously from our youth.

Write to Albany at Once.

There should not need to be any notification of our State legislators that an enormous majority of the State's inhabitants believe in, want and demand what has come to be known as daylight saving. The legislators know it already. They have not received, however, the sort of information on the subject which they are accustomed always to consider deeply and usually to act upon—the information that comes from a more or less organized "vote."

The farmers constitute, or in legislative circles are supposed to constitute, such a "vote," and some of the farmers—nobody knows just how many—have taken the trouble clearly to reveal that they are against the continuation of daylight saving. They have, of course, a right to their opinion, and to get, if they can, the repeal of the State daylight saving law, but it is equally the right of other people to make their wishes known to the Senators and Assemblymen, and they ought to do so at once.

If they do not, the chances are that the law will be repealed. It can be saved easily enough by a lot of letters sent to Albany from every district where daylight savers abound. Of course New York City can save its daylight, no matter what happens at the capital, but without a State law there will be inconveniences and annoyances of various sorts, and they should be avoided.

They Seem a Little Inconsiderate.

Why is it that only the few hundred or thousand people who happen to be near when a Broadway jewelry store is robbed are allowed to see a transaction which, whatever else might be said about it, is interesting and in several ways informative?

With more of public spirit, the young men who practice this form of industry—or this substitute for it—would make advance announcement of their purpose and of where and when it is to be executed. Then everybody who wanted to do so could be present. As recent happenings have proved, there would be no real danger of interference by the spectators. "Live and let live"—or is it "Rob and let rob"?—seems to be the motto of New York crowds just now.

The erection of grand stands from which to view jewelry store robberies could not reasonably be expected, with lumber at its present price, but a chance for all with leisure to see one of these high achievements is not too much to ask of those who undertake them.

Venezuela and the League.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of today I notice that of the thirteen nations, non-signatories of the Versailles Treaty, invited to become original members of the league, all have accepted with the exception of my country, Venezuela. This hesitation on her part is no doubt due to the fact that the present government of Venezuela, viz., that of President Gomez, considers it impossible to comply with the conditions of Article XXIII., whereby the members of the league agree to treat with justice and fairness the peoples under their control, for such compliance would involve the relinquishment of our dictator of his self-asserted and maintained right to imprison at will and without trial of any kind, for no given reason or specified time, all and every one of our citizens. Upward of 5,000 political prisoners are today consuming their emaciated bodies in pestiferous and dingy cells, and many of them have been there for years. Some of those victims of our mediaeval system of government belong to our best society, and their only crime is perhaps to have tried to raise their heads at free men are wont to do, forgetting that they are nothing else than the slaves of an autocracy. This fact alone will show how awkward the present government of my country must feel when perusing Article XXIII., and how much cynicism it will require on its part to agree to carry through the humanitarian conditions that such article conveys, counting on the non-fulfillment of the promise being overlooked by other nations in their zeal for country.

Marie Depage Memorial.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Just before sailing for Belgium I have received a letter from Dr. Paul Heger, President of the University of Brussels and uncle of Marie Depage, who lost her life on the Lusitania, after she had appealed from New York to San Francisco for support of the great hospital her husband, Dr. Depage, had established at the ocean's edge at La Panne, the hospital where Queen Elisabeth was serving as nurse.

The body of Marie Depage was recovered on the coast of Ireland and buried in the sand dunes close to the hospital for which she gave her life, and all the world thought it was fitting that she should rest there by the sea within the little wooden railing, with the sand grasses growing above her.

But since the close of the war La Panne has changed. It is now again only a Summer pleasure resort. The great hospital is closed. And Dr. Depage and Dr. Heger felt that they must bring back the body to Brussels and the family burial plot. The coffin has now been placed in the Depage plot in the cemetery at Boitsfort. Her husband and her uncle have gone back to their task of planning the great hospital to be built as a part of Brussels University and in memory of Edith Cavell and Marie Depage.

The Man and the Office.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Hoover's recent letter offers considerable food for thought. Among other things it would seem to suggest that in our coming Presidential election we are to elect issues rather than men. But issues change rapidly, whereas men, if they are men of principle, are stable in their course. Who knew, when he voted for Wilson in 1916, that his candidate was being elected to pass upon a League of Nations or the Adriatic issue? If any one votes for Hoover he will have to vote for Hoover and not for four years of "issues." It appears to me that when we elect a President we elect first of all a party; secondly, a leader of that party, and, thirdly, the man himself. This party, this leader, as influenced by other leaders, and this man are elected to deal with all the issues that arise during the next four years.

And does not Mr. Hoover's letter compel us to conclude that Roosevelt and Wilson were self-seekers, and that Wood and Palmer are now such, all vigorously negating the "right American instinct"? And what of Lincoln—or have times changed?

Overruling the People.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Voting in West Virginia is a farce. Twice the people by direct vote defeated woman suffrage; now the Legislature ratifies it.

SPRING NOISES.

There is a splendid clamor in the wood,
That is not known among the city marts,
A crying language never understood
Save by unthralled, untrammeled woodland hearts.
The oak trees shout against the close of day,
And there are cries from flowers still unborn,
From ferns, rocks, hills, and all the fine array
Of colors that announce a sounding morn.
And ponderous beeches swell the hymn along;
The latent sap makes music as it stirs;
And far away the moss-clad cliffs are strong
To echo back to woodland choristers
"Awake, awake, O World, awake and sing

URGES US TO SHARE ARMENIAN BURDEN

Arthur J. Balfour Cables That He Fears Charity Without Political Aid Is Futile.

ANSWERS PLEA BY GERARD

Chairman of American Committee Protested Against Partitioning the Country.

Cable correspondence between James W. Gerard, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the American Committee for the Independence of Armenia, and Arthur J. Balfour, Lord President of the Council in the British Government, was made public here yesterday by Mr. Gerard. The interchange of cablegrams shows that Mr. Gerard protested, in the name of many Americans, against the proposed allied partition of Armenia, and sought to hold Great Britain responsible, while Mr. Balfour held that Great Britain's only interest in that country was humanitarian, disclaimed his country's responsibility, and called upon the United States to take its share of the burden in the pre-war territories of the Turkish Empire.

"New York, Feb. 12, 1920.

"Right Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, London:

"Treaties for partition of Armenia have been concluded during your incumbency of post of Foreign Minister and at a time when Allied leaders and statesmen had adopted principle of self-determination of peoples as their principal war cry. We attached particular significance to reference to six Armenian vilayets in British-Turkish armistice, and we are naturally distressed over news that Allies may cut up Armenia. We consider it a duty as friends of Britain to state that 20,000 ministers, eighty-five bishops, 250 college and university presidents and forty Governors, who have gone on record in favor of integral Armenia, will be asked to join in condemnation of decimation of Armenia.

"Americans have already given $30,000,000, and are now being asked another $30,000,000 for Armenian relief. There exists here preponderant opinion favoring America's aiding Armenia during her formative period. Ten members of our committee, including Hughes and Root and with approval of Lodge, telegraphed the President that America aid Armenia. We are earnestly anxious that Britain seriously consider American opinion on Armenian case.

GERARD."

Urges America's Help.

"LONDON, Feb. 26, 1920.

"The Hon. James W. Gerard, 1 Madison Avenue, New York:

"First—In reply to your telegram of Feb. 15 I should observe that the first paragraph seems written under a misapprehension. I concluded no treaties about Armenia at all.

"Second—I do not understand why Great Britain will be held responsible by 20,000 ministers of religion, eighty-five bishops, 250 university presidents and forty governors, if a Greater Armenia is not forthwith created, including Russian Armenia on the north and stretching to the Mediterranean on the south. Permit me to remind you of the facts: (1) Great Britain has no interests in Armenia except those based on humanitarian grounds; in this respect her position is precisely that of the United States. (2) I have always urged whenever I had an opportunity that the United States should take its share in the burden of improving conditions in the pre-war territories of the Turkish Empire and in particular that it should become the mandatary in Armenia. Events over which Great Britain had no control have prevented this consummation and have delayed with most unhappy results the settlement of the Turkish peace.

"Third—There appears to be great misconception as to the condition of affairs in Armenia. You make appeal for your first sentence to the principle of self-determination. If this is taken in its ordinary meaning as referring to the wishes of the majority actually inhabiting a district, it must be remembered that in vast regions of Greater Armenia the inhabitants are overwhelmingly Mussuimans and if allowed to vote would certainly vote against the Armenians. I do not think this conclusive, but it must not be forgotten whoever undertakes, in your own words, to aid Armenia during the formative period must, I fear, be prepared to use military force. Great Britain finds the utmost difficulty in carrying out the responsibilities she has already undertaken. She cannot add Armenia to their number.

"America, with her vast population and undiminished resources and no fresh responsibilities thrown upon her by the war, is much more fortunately situated. She has shown herself most generous toward these much-oppressed people, but I greatly fear that even the most lavish charity unsupported by political and military assistance will prove quite insufficient to deal with the unhappy consequences of Turkish cruelty and misrule. If I am right in inferring from your telegram that my attitude on this question has been somewhat misunderstood in America, I shall be grateful if you would give publicity to this reply.

"New York, Feb. 27, 1920.

"Right Hon. Arthur James Balfour, London:

"We appreciate generous spirit of your reply. When I referred to treaties for partition of Armenia concluded during your incumbency of post of Foreign Minister I had in mind Sykes-Picot compact. We feel that Great Britain and France cannot be justified in requiring American aid to Armenia as condition precedent to their doing justice to Armenia. Principle of self-determination may not be invoked by Turks and Kurds who by massacre and deportation have denuded considerable portion of Armenia of its Armenian inhabitants, nor may enslavement or spoliation of Armenia be justified on ground of reduced capacity brought about by sufferings of powers. We believe Armenia's rights since 1878 is not unrelated to series of arrangements, well meant, no doubt, in which Great Britain played directive rôle.

"We feel that if we approach the Armenian case with sympathy and resolved to atone for past failings and each with due regard to the other's peculiar difficulties, which are only temporary, we can save Armenia. On subject of population, existing artificial conditions must be cured by repatriation, emigration and immigration. In 1914 there was an Armenian population of 1,400,000 in Turkish Armenia. Armenians then constituted plurality, or about 40 per cent. of population, and Turks and Kurds combined about 40 per cent.

"One-half of Armenians has been destroyed and possibly 30 per cent. of Moslems have perished. With repatriation of refugees, union of Russian Armenia with Turkish Armenia, immigration into Armenia of hundreds of thousands of Armenians from eastern and western Transcaucasus, southeastern Europe, Anatolia, America and elsewhere, Armenians will constitute majority of population within area claimed by them.

"Assumption that America is unwilling to lend practical aid to Armenia is contradicted by advocacy of Republican and Democratic members of our committee, including Hughes, Root, Lodge, Parker, Williams, Eliot, Butler, Hibben, Schurman, and others that America give Armenia necessary aid during her formative period under definite continuing policy. Our official inaction is only due to obvious necessity of focusing attention on consideration of questions of more pressing international import. In view of these facts I must say should Armenia be deprived of her legitimate territories by being excluded from outlets to the seas, which would discourage repatriation of her exiled people and make impossible her attaining self-support as a nation, American friends of Armenia could not honorably accept any such settlement.

"I urge that any provisional arrangement you may make should secure for Armenia outlets on Black and Mediterranean Seas with due regard to economic claims of France in Southern Armenia, but recognizing Armenian nationality of entire region. Our faith in chivalry of Great Britain and France and our deliberate conviction as to ultimate inexpediency of allowing Turkish threats to override concerted will of western civilization, through further sacrifice of Armenia, inspire us to plead with you to plan to construe every disadvantage in favor of Armenia and urge you to plan to aid her toward fulfillment of her legitimate aspirations, meanwhile depending on us to do our share in due time, and always bearing in mind imperative necessity of continued concord that must exist between our democracies for our respective benefit and for that of the world.

Issue Before Council.

"Hon. James W. Gerard, 1 Madison Avenue, New York:

"I have to thank you for your telegram of Feb. 28, which I have communicated to the Foreign Office. As you know, whole matter is receiving anxious consideration in Peace Conference. If you have no objection, I propose to publish your two telegrams and my replies.

To Appeal for a Free Armenia.

Former Ambassador James W. Gerard, Senator King of Utah, Samuel Gompers, Governor Bartlett of New Hampshire, the Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, Walter George Smith and Captain George B. Hyde will speak tonight at Carnegie Hall at a mass meeting of the American Committee for the Independence of Armenia to urge that the Administration use its influence to prevent the partition of Armenia and also that the Armenian Republic be recognized. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock.

AWAIT ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

Marchers Ready for Parade in Fifth Avenue Wednesday.

Plans for the St. Patrick's Day parade in Fifth Avenue have been virtually completed, according to Roderick P. Kennedy, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, who said yesterday that Eamonn de Valera, so-called "President of the Irish Republic," would be with Archbishop Hayes in the reviewing stand in front of the cathedral. Other reviewing officers will include Governor Smith, former Governor Martin H. Glynn and Major Francis P. Duffy.

Following Grand Marshal Daniel F. Cohalan will be about 1,000 veterans of the 165th Infantry, marching in the outfits they wore in the Rainbow Division. Then will come a delegation from the Protestant Friends of Irish Freedom, and the Veteran Corps of the 69th Infantry, New York State Guard, including men who served in the Philippines, at the Mexican border and in the Boxer troubles. Colonel Charles Healy will head the corps. The Friends of Freedom for India will line up back of Captain Besanta Koomar Roy. Next will come the cadets from Classon Point Military Academy, and then delegations of various societies.

PLEADS FOR GOD IN LIVES.

Rabbi Franklin of Detroit Says Religion Has Become Too Easy.

Religion has become too easy and too passive a thing, according to Rabbi Leo M. Franklin of Detroit, Mich., who preached yesterday morning in Temple Beth-El, Fifth Avenue and Seventy-sixth Street.

"Religion, some one has said, should be easy to understand but difficult to practice," he declared. "But men have made it easy to practice; they have followed the line of least resistance.

"The great need of the day in which we live, my friends, is that God shall be brought back into our lives. An age that has been glutted with prosperity has come too much to depend upon the might of men.

"We build altars to success, to fame, to pleasure and to passion. Before them we lay as our offerings not only the substance that through years of toil we have laid up, but as well the brightest flowers of our minds and our souls. But the God of our fathers we know not. Our work is godless, our pleasure is godless, our homes are godless, our hearts, alas, are godless."

FLOWER SHOW IS ON TODAY

Mrs. Wilson to Signal Start—Pershing to Attend.

With General John J. Pershing and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson assisting, the Flower Show will open in Grand Central Palace this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Wilson, by telephone from Washington, will signal the opening, while General Pershing will attend the show at 4 o'clock. Every exhibit has been installed.

On General Pershing's arrival he will be met by Mrs. Charles Childs, chairman of the day's Reception Committee. In the General's party will be Major Gen. Robert L. Bullard, commander of the Department of the East. From the Navy will be Rear Admiral J. H. Glennon and his staff; Captain G. L. Stone, of the receiving ship at Bay Ridge; Captain O. P. Jackson, of the Morale Department, and Chaplain John J. Brady of the New York Navy Yard.

Music in the Tea Garden during the afternoon and evening will be furnished by the United States Navy Band, the Bay Ridge Orchestra and the Bay Ridge Hawaiian Orchestra in native costumes. The Tea Garden is in charge of the Allied Loyalty League.

Thousands of Women Go Over to Bolsheviki to Escape Starvation.

"Russia's Women and Their Problem in Facing Bolshevism" was the subject of a talk given by Mrs. Nina N. Selivanova of Petrograd at the Harlem Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Selivanova, who was in Russia up to last Fall and who has been connected with the work of the Y. M. C. A. in Siberia, said that thousands of Russian

NEW CANCER THEORY BY PARIS SCIENTIST

Champy, Continuing Carrel's Experiments, Comes to Some Different Conclusions.

STUDY OF THE CAUSES

An Equilibrium in the Body the Breaking Down of Which May Bring About Cancerous Growths.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 13.—Experiments which appear to go far to elucidate the mystery of the origin and nature of cancer have just been completed and reported by M. Champy, the well-known physiologist of the College of France.

The conclusions to which M. Champy has come are that cancer is not produced by an invisible microbe, as has formerly been believed. He has shown by experiments that the disease is engendered by functional disequilibrium of the organism attacked.

Champy's experiments were made in continuation of those of Professor Carrel in the cultivation of living tissues and the indefinite multiplication of cells apart from the body. When a microscopic examination was made of the multiplication and growth of the part of the organ detached in this way it was found that former theories were unsound. Professor Carrel's early experiments had led to the conclusion that cells went on reproducing their own species. Thus the fragments of a kidney or of a thyroid gland were thought to reproduce renal or thyroid glands. This, however, it has been established, is not the case. The cultures used by Champy lost their specific nature and became modified. In his own words they become "differentiative" and form cells which have all the properties of cancerous cells.

After making this discovery Champy confirmed it in large measure. It is known that cancer frequently forms on a tumor formed of ordinary cells. But in cultivating the fragment of such a tumor taken from a body it was found that the cells formed by the multiplication of the normal cells of the tumor formed a cancerous mass identical with that in which the tumor had formed in the body of the patient. The circle was in this way completed.

Attacking the problem from another angle Champy began the investigation of the reason why a cancer more frequently occurs in the old than the young. He had found that fragments of organisms had the power of developing cancerous cells when detached from the body. In the body these organisms, however, preserve an equilibrium. For instance, a kidney maintains the weight and size proportionate to the body in which it lives. On the other hand, when one of the kidneys is removed the other develops abnormally as if in compensation. It has the power of growth in this way, and the deduction is that it holds in check the other organisms. Experiments with other organs show the same result and prove that in a living organism there is an equilibrizing action preventing the indefinite growth of any organism. This harmony is naturally stronger in the young than in the old, as when the body becomes old one or the other of its organisms tends to become atrophied and cease to perform its functions. The result is hypertrophy of some other organ and the creation of cancerous cells such as were developed in cultures separated from the body.

Though having in this way established the nature of the disease, Champy offers no suggestion for its prevention or cure unless it is in preservation of natural equilibrium of the body or more simply strict attention to organic health.

$25,000 FOR HUNGARIANS.

Ball and Pageant at the Hotel Commodore Raise That Amount.

The American Relief Committee for Hungarian Sufferers gave a ball and pageant at the Hotel Commodore last night, at which $25,000 was raised for the relief fund. "The Forgotten Village" was the title of the pageant, and the scene was laid in Hungary just after the war. It was written by S. Jay Kaufman and staged by F. H. Burnside of the Hippodrome. Twenty-five children from the Rimingi School took part. Among those attending were Ethel Barrymore, Francine Larrimore, Vivienne Segal, Jack Morris and Frank Monroe. The committee was composed of Blanche Bates, Ina Claire, Amelia Bingham, Jane Cowl, Julia Dean, Nance O'Neil and Laurette Taylor. Five donors whose names were not announced, gave $1,000 each to the relief fund.

Miss Ruth Heiman Engaged.

Dr. Henry Heiman and Mrs. Heiman of 64 West Eighty-fifth Street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ruth Heiman, to Dr. Daniel Poll, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Poll of Brooklyn. Dr. Poll went overseas with the Mt. Sinai Hospital Unit and served two years with the rank of Major. The marriage will probably be solemnized in the near future.

Greenwich House Ball April 12.

Greenwich House, one of our largest settlements, is planning a large ball and vaudeville performance at the Waldorf-Astoria on April 12 to raise funds to meet a large deficit. A number of well-known actresses and actors have volunteered their services. The committee in charge of the ball and entertainment includes Mrs. William Spinney, Miss Anna Burton, Arthur Levi and Michael Rubino.

ENGAGEMENTS.

The engagement is announced of Miss Margaret Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Davis of Altoona, Pa., to Edward W. Stitt, Jr., a son of Dr. Edward W. Stitt and Mrs. Stitt of 1,545 St. Nicholas Avenue, New York. Miss Davis is a Mount Holyoke graduate, class of 1918. Mr. Stitt was graduated from the College of the City of New York and the Columbia University Law School. He served twenty-one months with the A. E. F. and was commissioned overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Marks of 209 West End Avenue, New York, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Phyllis Marks, to Edgar K. Simon of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Scheuer of Yonkers, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Beatrice Scheuer, to Lieutenant Lawrence Wechsler, a graduate of Columbia University.

SOCIAL NOTES.

New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Livingston, Jr., who have been spending the last few months with Archibald R. Livingston and Miss Anna P. Livingston at their villa in La Jolla, Cal., will soon start on a motor trip through California before returning to New York.

Mrs. Charles Henderson Bradley, Jr., will give an informal reception Saturday evening at her residence, 167 West Seventy-ninth Street, for Mrs. Owen Tyler of Paris and Philadelphia.

The last meeting of the class that sews for the Fresh Air Association of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, Mrs. F. H. Potter, President, will be held tomorrow morning at the home of Mrs. E. R. Stettinius, 1,021 Park Avenue. Miss Llewellyn will sing Slav songs.

Mrs. John King Van Rensselaer is leaving for Philadelphia today to spend several weeks.

Miss Sylvia Grinnell Van Rensselaer, daughter of Mrs. Robert Stewart Smith, is passing the early Spring in Bermuda.

Miss Marion Hollins, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Hollins, is at Del Monte, Cal., where she will probably remain until after the polo tournament, which begins there March 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Mulqueen and Miss Madeleine Mulqueen have returned from Miami, Fla., where they spent five weeks, and are in their apartment at the Vanderbilt.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorillard Spencer entertained a party of guests at dinner last evening at Delmonico's.

Washington.

After her address at the New Willard yesterday on the Russian Relief the Princess Cantacuzene was at home with Mrs. Henry F. Dimock at the latter's residence on Scott Circle. This evening Mrs. Dimock will entertain at dinner in compliment to the Prince and Princess, who are her guests during their present visit.

Mrs. John B. Henderson entertained at dinner last evening at her home in Sixteenth Street.

Major Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, U. S. A., and Mrs. Bliss will take up their residence at the United States Soldiers' Home about April 1, when General Bliss will enter on his service as Chief of the Board of Commissioners of the home.

Mrs. Charles S. Bromwell was hostess at a tea this afternoon at her home in Q Street, when her friends had the opportunity of meeting her for the first time since her recent illness.

Palm Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Aldrich of New York, who have returned from a yachting trip to spend the rest of the season here, entertained a large party at luncheon yesterday at the Country Club.

Cornelius Fox, Jr., left yesterday for Havana to return later in the week.

Frederick T. Freilnghuysen of New York and Joseph R. Dilworth of Pittsburgh have chartered the yacht Maurslette, which William K. Vanderbilt had the early part of the season. They will spend the rest of the month cruising among the keys.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Payne Bingham of Cleveland left yesterday for a cruise on the Cocoapomelo, which they recently chartered.

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Comstock of Providence arrived yesterday.

St. Augustine.

Mr. and Mrs. Huntington W. Jackson of New York arrived yesterday.

Mrs. Charles Hallam Keep of Buffalo came on from Palm Beach yesterday with Mr. and Mrs. William R. Kenan, Jr., of Lockport, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Worrell Clarkson of St. Paul, with Miss Helma W. Clarkson, have returned from Miami and will remain until April.

Hot Springs.

Mrs. J. Bertram Lippincott, with Mrs. Joseph Wharton Lippincott, left last night for Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Miller returned to Baltimore yesterday after a visit here of several weeks.

Mrs. Arthur Biddle of Philadelphia drove over to the Cascades yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Francis E. Warren and Mrs. Lawrence J. Phipps of Washington were among yesterday's arrivals.

Mr. and Mrs. Darwin D. Martin are here from Buffalo.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Mrs. James Robert McKee and Mrs. Henry Clinton Backus of New York arrived yesterday and will remain until after Easter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Edwards Barbour and Mr. and Mrs. Garret A. Hobart of Paterson, N. J., are here for a month.

Mrs. M. E. Trembie of Washington arrived yesterday to join Mrs. L. Trembie Bradley.

Mrs. Frank M. Sloan and Mrs. M. B. Whyte of Toronto are here for a fortnight's visit.

STILL ANOTHER THEATRE.

Times Square Section to Have a Beautiful "Music Box."

The property at 239 to 247 West Forty-fifth Street, it was announced yesterday, has been bought by Sam H. Harris and Irving Berlin, who will take possession on May 1 and immediately begin the construction of a theatre. The house will be known as The Music Box, and its first attraction will be a revue by Mr. Berlin. It is planned to make the theatre one of the most beautiful in the city.

The site, which is west of Broadway and on the northern side of Forty-fifth Street, was bought at the Astor realty auction last week by L. and A. Pincus and M. F. Goldstone, who resold it to Messrs. Harris and Berlin.

Educators to Meet in Salt Lake City.

The annual meeting of the National Education Association will be held in Salt Lake City July 4-10 and will be marked by discussions on the shortage of teachers and the necessity for the profession to unite on legislation to obtain wage increases, according to announcement last night. The Council of State School Superintendents will hold a two-days' conference preceding the general meeting.

Italy Decorates Justice Freschi.

In recognition of his work in helping to maintain the morale of the Italian people in this country during the World War, Justice John J. Freschi of the Court of Special Sessions was decorated yesterday with the Italian royal decoration of Chevalier Officer of the Order of the Crown of Italy. The decoration was presented by Romolo Tritoni, Italian Consul General.

SAYS LAW COMPELS RENEWAL OF LEASES

Attorney Holds That Court Can Give Tenant New Contract as Matter of Equity.

HOUSING HEARING TODAY

Conference Starting at 10 o'Clock This Morning Will Lay Subject Before Mayor.

The Supreme Court has adequate power to decree that a desirable tenant who has fully lived up to his lease is entitled to hold over for a further term unless the landlord has a reasonable cause, "except a cold-blooded purpose to get all the traffic will bear by taking advantage of existing conditions," according to Harold J. Gallagher, a realty lawyer, of 50 Pine Street, who will represent twenty-three tenants of the Gardens Apartments, Forest Hills, in an injunction suit to be brought today against the lessor corporation.

The lease proposed to the tenants, said Mr. Aron yesterday, was the harshest he has ever seen. An injunction will be sought against enforcement of the clause requiring the tenants to elect now whether they will renew their leases at increases said to range as high as 200 per cent.

On the facts as stated to him the Forest Hills tenants have a strong case, Mr. Aron said, as the "sole cause of their threatened removal" was a demand for higher rents, which total more than 14 per cent. of the assessed valuation; it is common knowledge that a 14 per cent. gross return from all rents is considered good, and here I am informed the increase alone amounts to that. He continued:

"While it is not necessary to go to the full length in this case, I believe there is adequate power in our Supreme Court to decree that a desirable tenant, who has fully lived up to his lease, is entitled to hold over for a further term, unless the landlord can show a sale of the premises made in good faith, a bona fide requirement for the space for himself or family, an actual present intent to demolish the building or some other reasonable cause except a cold-blooded purpose to get all the traffic will bear by taking advantage of existing conditions.

Wants Rent Fixed by Court.

"Such a right would depend on the tenant's willingness and ability to pay such increase as the court might deem just. Courts have been fixing reasonable rents for centuries on existing tenancies, and there is no reason why they can not do it in this case.

"The issue can be brought to trial immediately, as the lease speaks for itself and the facts on which we shall rely are largely a matter of record. As an issue of law it can be tried as quickly as the defendant wishes.

"The suit will be novel, as far as I am able to ascertain, and under these circumstances it will be for the court to determine rather than for me to predict whether there remains in the court of equity sufficient of the vigor and flexibility which called it into existence centuries ago as a court of conscience, to provide a remedy against unconscionable bargains now being forced on tenants through a virtual duress of the housing shortage. Under the civil law our suit would be technically an arbitrary action because addressed to the discretion of the Judge.

"While specific precedents are lacking, the situation of the present day tenants presents an injustice analogous to that which moved the Chancellor of England to create, likewise without precedent, the equity of redemption to save mortgageors from money lenders. Earlier precedents are found in the Praetorian decrees of the Roman law in developing the tenancy known as emphyteusis, and in dealing with contracts arising in equity and good conscience as distinguished from those which were strictly legal and interpreted according to the letter of the law. Similar powers reside in our Supreme Court, and I intend to invoke them."

A summary of pending housing legislation has been made public by Senator C. C. Lockwood and Assemblyman Thomas A. McWhinney, of the Joint Legislative Committee on Housing. The list includes measures for the revival of verbal leases, modification of dispossess proceedings and tax exemption on mortgage holdings to stimulate building.

Mayor's Hearing Today.

Mayor Hylan will begin a public hearing of men interested in the housing problem at the City Hall at 10 o'clock this morning. The meeting will be an all-day conference and will be attended by all branches of the real estate interests, including organizations lending money. It is expected that all phases of the situation will be laid before the Mayor, who desires to have quick action follow the conference.

Among the labor representatives will be Ernest Bohm and Edward I. Hanna of the Central Federated Union. Mr. Bohm said last night he was confident that labor would co-operate in full measure to make Mayor's $100,000,000 building plan a success.

"Let us hope that word will go out of the conference that the housing deadlock has at last been broken and that the people of this city will soon obtain the relief for which they have been asking and to which they are entitled," said Mr. Bohm. "New York City, and by this I mean its public-spirited citizens of wealth, power and influence and of all walks of life, is now confronted with the opportunity of a decade. If the conference is successful, and there is no reason why it should not be, the news will go out to the entire country which is, I am safe to say, awaiting the decision of this momentous gathering.

"The conference has it in its power to alleviate the burdens of thousands of families in this city. I am sure that this spirit will animate its proceedings and confident that only the best results will follow the deliberations."

WILSON SUMMONS COAL ARBITRATORS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—President Wilson has called H. M. Robinson and Rembrandt Peale back to Washington to confer with him tomorrow in regard to their settlement in the controversy involving the operators and miners in the central competitive bituminous coal field. Mr. Robinson and Mr. Peale have suggested an advance of from 25 pr cent. to 50 per cent. to the miners without change in working conditions or hours. John T. White, the labor representative on the Arbitration Commission, has opposed this decision.

It is understood that Mr. White, while willing to accept the wage increase, believes that the miners should be granted a seven-hour day. On that point, it is said, settlement of the controversy hinges.

President Wilson wants to talk it over with the three members of the commission before he makes an announcement. He is said to believe that the decision of Robinson and Peale is fair, so far as present conditions are concerned, and their finding will probably be accepted.

SAYS SUPREME COUNCIL 'NEGLECTED' WILSON

Poincare Characterizes President's First Adriatic Note as a Reminder of the Error.

PARIS, March 14.—In an article in the Revue des Deux Mondes, ex-President Poincaré, discussing the withdrawal of the United States from participation in the Peace Conference, says:

"The day came when the Supreme Council lost, first by his going away and later by his illness, the illustrious representative of the United States. However, it continued its work with indefatigable zeal, believing itself able thenceforth to dispense with the presence of America, and it was only President Wilson's note dated Feb. 14 (with regard to the Adriatic situation) that reminded the surviving factions of the Council that the absent member from the United States had been neglected."

Premier Lloyd George, says M. Poincaré, complained of being in Paris as often as he was in London and, desiring to hold in Great Britain meetings to consider Turkish affairs, "he employed his great talent for persuasion" to transfer the Council, but "M. Clemenceau resisted, pointing out to Lloyd George that the distance from Paris to London was much the same as from London to Paris, and that it was as difficult for the French Premier as for the British Premier to multiply visits abroad."

The article says the absorption of the statesmen caused them to lose touch with their countries, leaving them to face vital problems while the Council members isolated themselves more and more, and the Council adopted a regrettable habit of domineering in tones that were sometimes very offensive.

Regarding Constantinople, M. Poincaré says:

"The road followed is nothing but turns and twists and returns. Incredible controversy occurred between London and the Quai d'Orsay."

PREMIERS ASK LEAGUE TO TAKE ON ARMENIA

But League Asks Premiers Where It Can Find Ways and Means.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 14.—The Supreme Council has asked the League of Nations to assume the mandate for Armenia.

Following the open session yesterday afternoon, at which the Executive Council of the league adopted in public decisions relative to the Russian investigation it had previously adopted in private, the Council held another secret session, as there was new business to transact.

The new business was a letter signed by Lloyd George on behalf of the council of Premiers, suggesting that the league take Armenia under its wing. The Council decided to send a note to the Premiers asking where they thought the League could find ways and means to assume the Armenia mandate, since the League possesses no troops.

Leon Bourgeois, Chairman of the Council, is said to have remarked that the generosity of the Premiers toward the League was "touching."

WILSON REJECTS LODGE PROPOSALS

plea for the ratification of the treaty with the Lodge reservations, but Administration leaders said tonight that this would make no difference in the outcome of the fight.

Mr. Bryan announced yesterday that he was a candidate for the Presidency in the event that he was called by the people, and this is accepted here as indicating that he does not believe that the treaty will be ratified by the Senate and that the issue will go into the campaign. Bryan's activity is not looked upon as of much importance here, as he is making practically a lone fight and has not the support of any substantial leader of the Democratic Party.

When Senator Hitchcock was asked tonight regarding the latest exchange of correspondence between himself and the President, he would not deny that he had received a letter from the President within the last forty-eight hours in which the latter had flatly rejected the latest proposed compromises and revised versions of the Lodge reservation. The Senator, however, would not comment further on the matter, and would not make public the letter.

Unless the correspondence is made public at the White House, it is not believed that Senator Hitchcock will give out the letters exchanged, probably because they are regarded by him as of a private character.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina, who has been very active in the negotiations between the Democrats and the Republicans in an effort to reach a compromise over Article X. such as would be satisfactory to the President, has lost hope for the ratification of the treaty along those lines. Both Democratic and Republican Senators declared without hesitancy tonight their belief that the defeat of the treaty is now only a matter of a few days.

Simmons's Hopes Fade.

"It looks," said Senator Simmons tonight, "as if the Republicans were determined from the beginning to kill the treaty by indirect means. I have felt from the early stages of the treaty fight that it would be impossible to ratify the treaty without reservations, but at no time have I thought that the Democrats should accept the Lodge reservations.

"I could not vote for the Lodge reservation on Article X under any circumstances. If that is adhered to by the Republican leaders the treaty will not be ratified.

"We were polling the Senate yesterday on the Lodge substitute for the original reservation on Article X. But before we knew what could be done we were confronted with an amendment to it which made it worse than the original reservation."

WASHINGTON, March 14 (Associated Press).—A new topic which it was suggested might be brought into the discussion of the Peace Treaty in the Senate tomorrow, was the revolution in Germany and steps of the Allies to deal with it. On both sides it was conceded, however that European developments of the last few days probably would have no effect on the treaty outcome, merely raising again and in a new way the same questions of policy which have been debated for months in connection with the obligations of Article X.

JUDGE PHILBIN DIES; HIS ILLNESS BRIEF

WAS BORN HERE IN 1857

Justice's Life Marked by Public Service, Especially in Protecting Parks.

Justice Eugene A. Philbin of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court died yesterday afternoon of pneumonia, at his home, 63 West Fifty-second Street, in his sixty-third year. He had been ill only a few days, the illness first appearing Tuesday, and many of his friends were ignorant of his condition.

Justice Philbin was born in this city in 1857, the son of Stephen Philbin, a prominent Catholic. After leaving Seton Hall College he spent several years in business, but at the age of 26 felt the call of the law and entered Columbia to study for the bar. The law firm with which he learned his profession was Beekman & Ogden. He remained in that office until a reorganization took place in 1894, when he became senior member of the new firm, Philbin, Beekman & Menken, his partners being Charles K. Beekman and S. Stanwood Menken. This connection he retained until April, 1913, when Governor Sulzer appointed him to the Supreme Court. He was elected that Autumn for a term ending in 1927.

Much valuable public service marked the years before Mr. Philbin ascended the bench. As Commissioner of the State Board of Charities in 1898 he attracted the attention of Governor Roosevelt by his investigation of the Soldiers and Sailors' Home in Bath, N. Y., which resulted in the removal of the superintendent of the institution and radical changes in its policy. The next year Governor Roosevelt appointed Mr. Philbin District Attorney of New York County to fill the vacancy caused by the removal of Asa Bird Gardiner. He served as District Attorney until January, 1901.

Governor Roosevelt again appointed him on a committee of five to investigate conditions at Ellis Island. In 1904 he was made a State Regent, holding the office for ten years. Last May Governor Smith selected him for the Appellate Division.

Justice Philbin was long identified with Catholic societies in this city, appearing on many important occasions as their counsel. In 1908 Pope Pius X. made him a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Gregory the Great. Three years later, when Controller Prendergast instituted an a rigorous investigation of certain Catholic philanthropic societies, he took an active part in their defense.

As head of the Parks and Playgrounds Association Justice Philbin lead the opposition to various plans to alter the present treatment and use of Central Park, such as the plans to install the old Lenox Library building there and to turn the Arsenal into a museum of safety.

In 1887 he was married to Miss Jessie Holliday of Chicago, who survives him, together with four sons and a daughter. Funeral services will be held at St. Patrick's Cathedral tomorrow morning at eleven o'clock.

Pay Tributes to Jacob Goldstein.

Samuel Marks, Judge Joseph F. Mulqueen and Assistant District Attorney Alfred J. Talley paid tributes last night to the memory of the late Jacob Goldstein, an Assistant District Attorney, at a memorial service at the Temple Ohab-Zedek, 18 West 116th Street.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 14.—Henry W. Blair, formerly United States Senator from New Hampshire, from 1879 to 1891, died here today. Death was ascribed to his age, 85 years.

NASSAU PROSECUTOR LEADS GAMBLING RAID

Three Prisoners and $5,000 Paraphernalia Taken in East Rockaway.

MINEOLA, L. I., March 14.—District Attorney Charles R. Weeks of Nassau County, with a score of local officers, made a raid on an alleged gambling house—or, rather, cottage—in Waverly Avenue, East Rockaway, before midnight last night, arrested three men and interrupted games in what the District Attorney called the most luxuriously furnished gaming place he ever entered.

With Mr. Weeks was Assistant District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards, County Detective Carman Plant, Allen O. Myers, a detective, and Deputy Sheriffs. The posse surrounded the house at the height of a heavy snowstorm. Several raiders forced a door leading to a corridor outside the gambling room proper. In this were found a number of electric light push buttons used as signals to warn the management and players of approaching danger. From this corridor the raiders got into a room fitted up with a roulette table and poker tables. They found evidence that play had been carried on recently but no players were visible. It is supposed an alarm had been given earlier.

The three men placed under arrest gave their names as William G. Thompson of 268 West Forty-third Street, New York; Thomas Brown and William Williams, said to live in the cottage. Thompson is charged with being the manager of the place. The prisoners were taken to District Attorney Weeks's office here and then arraigned before Justice Neu, who held them in $1,000 each for examination next Saturday. They were released on a collateral bond and furnished by a surety company.

BUDAPEST NOW PREY OF WHITE TERROR

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERNE, March 14.—Owing to the rigid censorship it is impossible to cable anything but untruths direct from Hungary.

Admiral Horthy's dictatorship and terrorism exceed those of Bela Kun, and the Red terror is now supplanted by the White terror. The acts of Horthy's White Army excel in brutality any excesses of the Bolsheviki. The White Army is composed mostly of officers, living in the best hotels and on the fat of the land, while the masses and middle classes are slowly dying of cold and hunger.

No independent expression of opinion is allowed in the Hungarian newspapers, and editors are compelled to fill in censorial blanks on pain of suppression of their newspapers or imprisonment. The rashest insurance company would hardly give a life policy to a Budapest editor now, for every journalist carries his life in his hands.

Last night a mass protest meeting against the terror in Budapest was held in Parliament Square here in Berne calling on all nations to put a stop to the present Hungarian Government, which does nothing to relieve the country's untold misery and is guilty of countless political murders. The speakers belonged to the Swiss Socialist party and included members of the Swiss Parliament. The meeting demanded the release of twenty-nine Hungarian trade-union and Socialist leaders who are imprisoned, as are all working class leaders who attempt defend the people's interests.

TO FILL 20 NEW NICHES IN THE HALL OF FAME

Nominations of Famous Americans by Public at Large Now Open.

Additional selections of famous Americans for the Hall of Fame are to be made this year, in accordance with the rules of the foundation providing for an election every five years. Nominations by the public at large are now open and will continue until May 1. The election will be held Oct. 1.

Robert Underwood Johnson, director of the Hall of Fame, will sail soon as Ambassador to Italy. During his absence Mrs. William Vanamee will be acting director and secretary. Twenty-one new electors have been chosen to replace those who have died or resigned since the last meeting. They include Dr. John H. Finley, Charles st. Miller, Elihu Root, Major Gen. Leonard Wood and Melville E. Stone.

Twenty vacancies are to be filled this year. The board already has 110 names held over from the last election in 1915. Only persons who have been dead ten or more years are eligible to be chosen. Any person may send in a nomination. One hundred and fifty panels in all are to be inscribed, for which the following have already been chosen:

EGBERT E. WOODBURY DIES.

Was Attorney General of New York from 1914 to 1917.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., March 14.—Egbert E. Woodbury, former State Attorney General, died at his home here early today after an illness of three years. After serving as member of Assembly, Surrogate of Chautauqua County and State Tax Commissioner, he was elected Attorney General in 1914 and re-elected in 1916. He resigned in 1917 because of illness. He was 58 years old.

In February, 1915, Mr. Woodbury began suit against The New York Tribune to recover $50,000 for alleged libel, based on an editorial appearing in that paper which he claimed impugned his motives in dispensing with the services of William Travers Jerome as counsel for the State in the Thaw case in 1915. The action was withdrawn after the Tribune said editorially it never intended to assail the integrity of the Attorney General.

Charles H. Merriman Dies.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 14.—Charles H. Merriman, for more than half a century one of the leading textile manufacturers in Rhode Island, died here today in his 87th year. He was Treasurer of the Manville Company, a cotton manufacturing corporation which controls several large mills in the Blackstone Valley. He enlisted as a volunteer at the opening of the civil war. Later he served as a member of the staff of General A. E. Burnside.

Miss Julia Livingston.

Miss Julia Livingston, a descendant of Morgan L. Lewis, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, died late Thursday night at her home, 2,020 Broadway, in her eighty-first year. Her father was Morgan Lewis Livingston. Services will be held this morning at 10 o'clock at Grace Church.

HELD IN GERMANY, HE BLAMES U. S. AGENTS

R. P. Williams Says It Took Him a Year After the Armistice to Get Passports.

TO PROTEST IN WASHINGTON

Albert Mamatey Brings Good Reports of Czechoslovakia—King Alfonso Coming.

Robert P. Williams, son of former Supreme Court Justice Pardon C. Williams, accompanied by his wife, formerly Miss Ethel Moran of Brooklyn, and their three children, came home yesterday on the French liner France after being detained in West Baden, Germany, since the United States entered the war, and even a year after the armistice. Mr. Williams blamed the stupidity of American consular agents for his plight, and said he intended to complain to the State Department.

"We were traveling in Europe when the war began, and had stopped in West Baden on our way from Paris to Switzerland when the United States entered the war," Mr. Williams said. "Permission to leave was then denied us for military reasons, until the armistice was signed. We were compelled to stay in a restricted area within the city, and went through hell because of the food shortage. The food situation is still very bad there, so you can imagine what it was during the war. We lived on turnips an entire Winter. My wife's health is broken because of these conditions.

"As soon as the armistice was signed I made application for a passport through the American military authorities in Coblenz, the Spanish Embassy in Berlin and the American Passport Bureau in Paris. The only satisfaction I got was an immense collection of letters giving every possible excuse in the world for a lack of action. It took from February, 1919, until January, 1920, to get our passports and then they were sent us because friends took the matter up with the State Department personally.

"I intend to offer the evidence I have on hand as proof of the inefficiency of our State Department which is making the United States the laughing stock of the world."

Albert Mamatey, President of the Slovak League of America, with headquarters in Pittsburgh, returned from a three months' trip through Czechoslovakia. He said the new republic was doing better than its sisters because the people were all going to work peacefully, to do their best for the country. Food was dear, but there was enough for every one, and the factories would start as soon as raw material could be got. There was plenty of coal, and some of the fuel was being supplied to Austria, but rolling stock was short because the Hungarian Bolsheviki took the cars and locomotives away and the Rumanians seized them again from the Bolsheviki.

An air mail service was organized between the capital and the city of Pressburg, formerly in Hungaria, Mr. Mamatey said. Exchange was better than in the other new republics. President Massaryk was suffering from a mild attack of influenza. The Germans were contented to remain, and did not wish to be repatriated. Some Government members wished to seize the German theatre and the university in Prague, but President Massaryk said it was no use trying to start a new nation by encouraging hatred.

"I was not surprised to hear of the revolution in Germany, because the people are accustomed to being governed by an iron hand, and cannot realise what a free country means. They are not ready for a republic yet," Mr. Mamatey added.

The Count de Torrubia, a Spanish grandee from the Court at Madrid, came on a special mission from King Alfonso which he said was private.

"There is one thing that I can tell you personally but not officially," the Count said, "and that is that before I left Madrid the King told me himself that he had decided to visit America this year and I expect it will be some time in the Summer."

HOLDUP VICTIM DYING.

Man Who Resisted Attempt to Rob Card Players Shot in Stomach.

Joseph Murray entered the backroom of a saloon at 183 Calyer Street, Brooklyn, just after last midnight, liend sixteen men playing cards, and started to collect their valuables. One of them, Charles Healy of 216 Calyer Street, kicked Murray and Murray shot him in the stomach. Healy is dying in the Greenpoint Hospital.

Murray ran to the street where the players pursued him, joined by policemen summoned with whistles. Murray emptied his pistol at his pursuers but was caught, beaten to the ground and locked up on a charge of felonious assault and attempting highway robbery.

Patrolman George Ruhiman of the West Thirty-seventh Street police station, in Manhattan, saw Joseph Kelly of 439 West Thirty-ninth Street, on a fire escape outside the offices of the U. S. Alcohol Company, 536 West Thirty-sixth Street, early this morning and arrested him. Two confederates tried to rescue Kelly and Ruhiman beat them off with his club. In the fray he shot Kelly through the hand. The confederates escaped. Kelly was taken to Bellevue Hospital, charged with attempted burglary.

GOES DOWN WITH BARGE.

Captain of Coal Vessel Drowns and Others Probably Lost.

BLOCK ISLAND, R. I., March 14.—Captain James MacWeeney of Charlestown, Mass., was drowned and four or five other men probably were lost when barges No. 7 and No. 10, laden with coal from Norfolk for Boston and owned by the Consolidated Coal Company of Boston, broke clear of a three barge tow and sank six miles northwest of here early today.

Four survivors from No. 10 said that Captain MacWeeney refused to leave his vessel.

The survivors rowed to the West Harbor Breakwater, where they landed in an exhausted condition. They reported that the barges parted tow soon after 1 A. M., and that No. 10 sank within a few minutes, but No. 7 remained afloat until 7 A. M. They last sighted the tug Georges Creek with No. 18, the other barge in tow, proceeding northward about 2 A. M. A sixty-mile northwest gale was blowing at the time.

LEGION LARGELY FOR BONUS PLAN

ALL WOULD AID DISABLED

Opponents Object to Increasing Government Expenses and Fear Public Sentiment.

NO OFFICIAL ACTION YET

State Organizations to Vote on Matter Before National Executive Committee Meets, March 22.

Although none of the State organizations of the American Legion has taken official action on the question of the soldiers' bonus, reports gathered in all States by THE NEW YORK TIMES indicate that a large proportion of the veterans themselves favor some additional compensation for their war service and especially for those who were overseas. The veterans, however, are divided on the question, and in some States bitter controversies have arisen in the posts.

In virtually every State a faction of former officers and soldiers is urging the Legion members to adopt resolutions putting the posts on record as not seeking any bonus or additional compensation except for those disabled in the war. They argue that it would be unwise to increase Government expenditures to such an amount and that payment of the bonus so long after the end of the war might create an undesirable public sentiment against the Legion.

Another large faction in the Legion posts, including those of this State, take the stand that while it would be unwise for the organization to take any action that might be construed as a demand for a bonus some additional compensation ought not to be rejected. It is the fear of many in this faction that the bonus question will take the Legion too far into politics.

FOR THE CASH BONUS.

Believe Nation Should Reward Them.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 14.—There seems to be a general feeling among the former service men of this section that the Government should do something for them.

North Dakota for It.

BISMARCK, N. D., March 14.—Sentiment in North Dakota among ex-service men seems to be overwhelming in favor of a Federal bonus.

Indorses the Campaign.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 14.—A circular letter has been sent out by the State commander of the American Legion, Major Earle Smith, asking that the various posts of the legion pass upon the matter of indorsing the action of the national officers now at Washington urging Congress to grant bonuses to the returned service men.

Suggests Way to Raise Money.

CONCORD, N. H., March 14.—Concord Post of the American Legion established a precedent Thursday night when it went on record as unanimously in favor of a bonus for ex-service men. Resolutions adopted flayed the "propagandists" attempting to defeat the National Bonus bills, and also suggested a plan whereby the nation may raise the money necessary to a bonus bond issue.

Connecticut First to Approve.

HARTFORD, Conn., March 14.—Connecticut was the first State in the Union to advocate a bonus for service men, and an investigation by THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent shows that nearly all the ex-service men in the State favor the bonus plan before Congress.

Tennessee Wants Bonus.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 14.—Sentiment almost universally favorable to the proposed added compensation of $50 a month to ex-service men has crystallized among former soldiers of Tennessee.

California Posts 9 to 1.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 14.—Among posts in the State that have taken a vote on the bonus, the results have shown nine to one in favor of it.

Missouri Generally in Favor.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 14.—Six thousand men attended a mass meeting here called to demand $50 a month bonus for each month spent in the service. The soldiers present seemed to be very much in favor of getting any bonus.

Favored in Oregon.

SALEM, Ore., March 14.—What is probably the majority sentiment among ex-service men of Oregon, particularly members of the American Legion, was expressed at a mass meeting of former soldiers held at Eugene, Ore., Thursday night when the meeting went on record favoring the proposal before Congress to pay soldiers $50 a month for each month they were in service.

Utah for Cash Payment.

SALT LAKE, Utah, March 14.—Sentiment of service men in Utah has been favorable toward bonus legislation.

Upholds National Officers.

MONTPELIER, Vt., March 14.—Delegates from thirty-one of the eighty American Legion posts of Vermont adopted a resolution yesterday by a vote of 64 to 10 that the Vermont delegate to the National Executive Committee meeting in Washington, March 22, be instructed to uphold the position of the national commander and the Legislative Committee on the soldiers' bonuses.

Maryland 90 Per Cent. for Bonus.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 14.—There is little doubt that 90 per cent. of the ex-service men who live in Maryland favor some form of adjusted compensation from the Federal Government.

Ohio Men Favor $30 a Month.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 14.—Although there is some division of sentiment among the former service men of Ohio as to the proposed bonus to be paid for their service by the United States Government, sentiment generally favors the payment. This is less true of the officers than of the enlisted men.

Pennsylvania Favors a Bonus.

PHILADELPHIA, March 14.—Sentiment is strongly in favor of a form of "bonus" or adjusted compensation for ex-service men among the members and officers of the American Legion throughout Pennsylvania.

Want a Bonus System.

HELENA, Mont., March 14.—Sentiment in this State among former service men seems to be in favor of the proposed bonus system.

Says It Is Due Them.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 14.—The members of the American Legion in Nebraska are overwhelming in favor of the bonus in the opinion of Frank B. O'Connell of Lincoln, who as State Adjutant is in close touch with Legion sentiment throughout the State.

Kentucky Men Want Several Options.

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 14.—The American Legion of Kentucky has indorsed measures providing a bonus to ex-service men and individual posts have taken action approving separate bills, one of the most popular of these being the home loan for purchasing country and city property.

Kansas Has Fed Bonus Advocates.

TOPEKA, Kan., March 14.—The ex-service men of the A. E. F. in Kansas are not generally advocating a Government bonus. Many returned soldiers say that not more than 15 per cent of them are demanding Federal aid.

Indiana Men for $50 a Month.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 14.—The majority of Legion posts seem to favor the plan proposed by the National Executive Committee to the Ways and Means Committee to the House of Representatives for a cash bonus of $50 for each month of service.

Strong for Bonus in Colorado.

DENVER, Col., March 14.—Former service men in this State strongly approve the plan for the payment of bonuses to soldiers, which has the backing of the several American Legion posts in Denver and vicinity.

AGAINST THE BONUS.

Wants No Reward or Charity.

RICHMAND, Va., March 14.—General sentiment in Virginia among ex-service men, as expressed by the American Legion, is against any form of bonus that would savor of a reward for services rendered or of charity. A more comprehensive rehabilitation plan for wounded or injured veterans, however, is demanded by both local posts and the State organization.

Takes Opposition Stand.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 14.—The South Carolina department of the American Legion has taken the position that the Legion should not make a fight for the bonus and holds that the matter rests entirely with Congress.

Opposed on Financial Grounds.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 14.—That the United States is tottering on the brink of financial disaster and that ex-service men cannot afford to push it over, and thereby lose the tremendous prestige they gained for their work in the World War, is the position taken by the Cheyenne Post of the American Legion.

Ask Vocational Training.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 14.—Most of the American Legion posts in Louisiana have gone on record as opposed to the plan to grant bonuses to former soldiers.

Only Disabled Ones Need Aid.

JACKSON, Miss., March 14.—Ex-service men in Mississippi are expressing strong opposition to the legislation now pending before Congress proposing a bonus distribution among veterans of the World War.

Some for, Some Against, in North Carolina.

RALEIGH, N. C., March 14.—Expressions by organizations of ex-service men of this State have in the past generally opposed the granting of an additional bonus by the Government, but lately a number of the posts of the American Legion have recorded themselves as favoring the bonus.

Bay State Veterans Oppose Scheme.

DIVIDED ON BONUS PLAN.

Iowa Refuses to Ask.

DES MOINES, Iowa, March 14.—The American Legion in Iowa has for nearly a year had before it the question of a bonus for its members to be paid by the State or the nation. So far every post that has voted on the question has refused to take any stand that might be interpreted as demanding additional compensation.

State Bonus in Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 14.—Ex-service men in Minnesota are divided on the question of a national bonus, according to Harrison Fuller, Department Commander of the American Legion, who announces that a poll of the 450 Legion posts in the State will be taken during the coming week to ascertain the sentiment among former soldiers and sailors.

South Dakota Sentiment.

PIERRE, S. D., March 14.—Ex-service men in the State are divided on the issue of a bonus to the soldiers of the World War.

Views Clash in Rhode Island.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 14.—Unofficially, the sentiment is that the service men in the State will be strong for the bonus.

First Opposed, Now Shifting.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 14.—Opposition in Oklahoma to the proposed cash bonus for former service men developed early, when Horace Hagan, State Commander, came out unreservedly against the plan. At a state conference of Legion executives held in Muskogee March 8, the bonus question discussion nearly resulted in a riot. Subsequent developments have strengthened rather than weakened sentiment for the proposed bonuses.

Majority Probably Favor It.

LITTLE ROCK, March 14.—Ex-service men of Arkansas are divided on the bonus proposition, but the majority of them probably desire a cash payment of $30 for each month of service.

Texas Divided on Plan.

AUSTIN, Texas, March 14.—While no action has been taken by any of the Legion posts in Texas on the proposition of Congress granting bonuses to former soldiers, it is the expressed opinion of many of the ex-service men that the rank and file favor the plan. Former officers are for the most part opposed to such aid being given them.

Illinois Service Men Divided.

CHICAGO, March 14.—Differences in opinion which have arisen in Congress over the proposition of paying a soldiers' bonus are reflected among ex-service men in this State.

Britain Sells 10,000 Planes and Material Worth £100,000,000

LONDON, March 14.—A deal has been completed between the Government Disposal Board and a London financial combine for the sale of £100,000,000 worth of airplanes and aircraft material. The negotiations had been in progress for some time and now about 10,000 airplanes and 30,000 new engines, together with an enormous quantity of spare parts and material of all kinds, including sheds, hangars, and repairing depots, will be taken over by the syndicate.

Several large houses, financial and industrial, are interested in this gigantic purchase. A representative of one of these firms says that it is with the object of getting British aircraft building into the same position as British ship building that this enterprise has been undertaken. The syndicate will be in position to accept orders for any number of engines or machines which any foreign country, private firms or individuals may want.

No airships are involved in the transaction, which is concerned only with the surplus airplane stock.

SEEKING PERSHING AS PARTY NOMINEE

AIM TO SWING CONVENTION

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—General John J. Pershing, supported by some influential Republicans, is expected to enter the race for the Republican nomination for President as a compromise candidate.

A movement directed by the Nebraska Soldiers and Sailors' Pershing Club, which has been active for many months, has kept General Pershing prominent in the public eye as a Presidential possibility, with the result, according to those who expect a free-for-all race at Chicago, that General Pershing will enter the convention with a goodly number of delegates, including Nebraska's sixteen.

By the middle of next month, it is predicted by some Republican leaders, the situation will be considerably clarified, and the failure of any of the aspirants supported by the Old Guard to gain headway will be apparent. Then it is proposed by those behind General Pershing to promote his cause with vigor in the hope that he will gain the support of States where sentiment is divided between Lowden and Harding.

The significance of General Pershing's prospects lies in the belief of certain Republican leaders that neither Lowden nor Harding will be considered progressive enough to command the independents' or women's votes, and that there will be a divided sentiment in the ranks of the so-called progressive wing between Wood and Johnson.

Want to Arouse Voters.

The opinion was expressed by one of the Republican leaders, who thus far has refused to commit himself, but is inclined toward Harding or Lowden, that the avowed candidates have not yet made any lasting impression upon the electorate. This political leader, who has been one of the dominant factors in the last three Republican conventions, has informed friends who have consulted him upon the political drift recently that the situation is favorable to a compromise candidate who can command not only conservative support, but can win over scattering delegates from the progressive States. The conclusion of this leader from the candidacy of Herbert Hoover has stirred up interest in a new type of candidate, and that this leaven is working among Republican voters to the disadvantage of Harding and Lowden.

"The drift in the last ten days has indicated the probability of a vigorous test at Chicago, with the Progressives, as represented by the candidacies of Wood and Johnson, strong enough either to force the selection of West or able to compel the Old Guard leaders to agree upon a nominee who stands on middle ground between the two wings. Friends of General Pershing are counting upon such a development, and while they will not force his cause to such an extent in the primaries as to gain the animosity of avowed candidates they will endeavor to capture a few delegates so as to make him a factor when the convention begins consideration of a nominee.

"In this same category of compromise possibilities are Governor Sproul and Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, both of whom, it is said, are looking forward to a possible convention deadlock, in which case the choice may centre upon one of them as a dark horse. They might be classed as of the conservative wing in the party.

"The outstanding prospect, it is said here, is that the Republican convention is not going to be a boss-dominated gathering and that there is every indication that the leaders are determined to submerge their own preferences with the purpose of nominating the strongest man.

Strength Claimed for McAdoo.

In Democratic circles those favorable to former Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo are asserting tonight that his chances are the best so far as the Democratic nomination for the Presidency is concerned, but admittedly everything is very much muddled since William J. Bryan issued his statement from Lincoln, Neb., that he was a receptive candidate. There is a feeling of certainty here among party leaders that Mr. Bryan cannot get the nomination unless he is prepared to overturn the existing organization.

According to advices received here, Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, and Roger Sullivan of Illinois, who are accredited with dominating the two strongest delegations to the National Convention, are opposed to any movement which would return Mr. Wilson to the White House or place Hoover, Bryan or any so-called autocrat in power for another four years. They would rather be defeated, it is said, and wait four years than aid in the support of any nominee for the Presidency who would not work with them. There is a report that McAdoo has been attempting to snatch the support of Tammany and the Illinois delegation from Palmer.

Mr. McAdoo has been spending a good deal of time in New York lately. His supporters say that Murphy is not antagonistic to him any longer, being convinced that Palmer cannot be elected and that there is a possibility that McAdoo can win.

Political leaders in Washington tonight were of the opinion that the statement of Bryan that he would accept the nomination under certain conditions would not materially alter the situation. It is not felt here that Bryan can hope to get the nomination.

A much more complete lineup will be possible after the Senate has acted on the Peace Treaty this week. If the Democrats are able to defeat ratification under the conditions proposed by Senator Lodge, Mr. Bryan will appear as an opponent of President Wilson on treaty policy, but in the end, if such a situation develops, it is believed here that Mr. Bryan will fall in his efforts to be a controlling factor in the Democratic Party.

Either McAdoo or Palmer, it is said, would be pleased to have Governor Cox of Ohio run as the Vice Presidential candidate. Both scoff at Mr. Bryan's candidacy at present and say he represents elements which cannot control the national convention.

PERSHING AIDS LANE'S COMMUNITY PROGRAM

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Asserting that to lose the fine spirit of co-operation which the American people showed in the service of their country during the war would be a great misfortune, General John Pershing today appealed to the country to stand behind the movement launched by Franklin K. Lane, who has called a conference in Washington for March 20 as a first step in promoting a nationwide program of community organizations.

"In calling this conference Mr. Lane has added one more great service to his splendid record of achievement for the American people," said General Pershing.

"Bringing together community representatives into a permanent body on a non-partisan basis will have great possibilities for good.

"To meet the problems of this critical period we need effective community organizations. The great questions which confront us all must be solved from the bottom if we would have any lasting improvement. And to effect this we must have a conscientiously co-operating citizenship."

Soviet Russia Bars Offers of American Trade Until Restrictions Are Removed

Announcement was made last night by the Commercial Department of the Russian Soviet Government Bureau (the Bolshevist organization here headed by L. C. K. Martens), that in accordance with definite instructions received from the Soviet Government the bureau would not entertain any offers from American firms or manufacturers for export to Soviet Russia until such time as commercial intercourse between the United States and Russia had been fully established.

"It is obvious that no trade between the two countries can be carried on with freedom and mutual representation without free communication by mail and wire and without a definite understanding between the two countries concerning the exchange of commodities and security for all Russian funds in the United States," the statement said.

The only deviation for the present from this policy, it was said, was that the bureau had been authorized to place orders in the United States for 2,000 locomotives and the corresponding amount of railroad cars and equipment, for which payment would be made in gold or its equivalent "upon delivery at ports in Soviet Russia" as soon as these were open to foreign trade.

TAFT'S OLD CABINET FRIENDLY TO WOOD

Johnson's Managers Dispute Wood Claim to Indiana — Butler Going to Chicago.

Nearly all the Republicans who were members of President Taft's Cabinet have espoused the cause of Major General Leonard Wood, candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination. It was declared yesterday by the Wood campaign managers in this city. The latest addition to this number is Franklin MacVeagh, who was Secretary of the Treasury under President Taft. Other former Cabinet officials who have announced their support of General Wood are Henry L. Stimson, former Secretary of War; James Wilson, former Secretary of Agriculture; Frank H. Hitchcock, former Postmaster General, and George Wickersham, former Attorney General.

George Von L. Meyer, son of the late Mr. Meyer, who was Secretary of the Navy under President Taft, William Loeb, former secretary to President Roosevelt, and Assemblyman Theodore Roosevelt are also enthusiastic Wood supporters. In announcing his support of General Wood Mr. MacVeagh said yesterday:

MacVeagh Supports Wood.

"Practically the only objection made to Leonard Wood as a Presidential candidate is that he is a military man.

"There are two conclusive replies to this: The first is, that it would be no matter if he were. The wide experience of this country with soldiers in the Presidency, from Washington down, definitely shows this. No one of them ever thought as a soldier; and none left a trace of militarism in his wake.

"The other answer is that General Wood is a soldier but not a 'military man.' He is not even a professional soldier. The traditions of the profession eluded him; for he was not educated a soldier. He probably never saw West Point until he was a matured man. He is a volunteer.

"He was born in New England and received its highly developed civil education. His bringing up was free to make him a public man and to engage in it later realization his gifts of statesmanship.

"Finally, let me correct another misapprehension. I mean the belief that it was Roosevelt, Wood's personal friend, who made Wood a Brigadier General and placed him far toward the top of the army. It was not Roosevelt who thus picked Leonard Wood out for high service. It was McKinley. He was the President who first saw and appreciated the large abilities, the constructive spirit and the vivid patriotism of Leonard Wood."

Representative Norman J. Gould, one of the Eastern managers of General Wood's campaign, said a new element of political support of his candidacy was developing among the women Republican voters of New York State. These voters are organizing in Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Oswego and other cities and towns on similar lines to the New York City women voters, to be affiliated with the Women's State Branch of the Leonard Wood League.

The friends of General Wood who served with him when he commanded the Second Brigade in the Indian campaigns, and in the Cuban expedition, are said to be trying to get the delegation for him at the New Mexico primaries on March 26, and they are also predicting success at the Oklahoma primaries.

At the headquarters of Senator Hiram Johnson it was announced he would start his personal campaign here with a speech at Cooper Union on March 25. This will be succeeded by a tour of New Jersey and a week of campaigning in Indiana. The Johnson managers asserted that it was absurd for the Wood supporters to claim the entire Indiana delegation.

The Nicholas Murray Butler Campaign Committee announced late last night the completion of arrangements for opening Chicago headquarters in the Congress Hotel. Dr. Butler will make his first political visit to Chicago when he begins his Western tour. Judge Davis, campaign manager for Butler, said that written pledges of support for him from the Columbia University Alumni Association had been received from 11,000 members, representing forty-three States.

DOG FINDS DEAD MAN.

Pistol with One Bullet Gone Beside Body in Bronx Woods.

The body of an unidentified man, apparently a suicide, was found in the woods near Pelham Parkway and St. Paul's Avenue, the Bronx, yesterday, by a collie dog owned by Philip Appell of 2,688 Middletown Road.

Policeman Joseph Higgins of the Westchester Station, who was notified by Appell, found an automatic pistol from which one bullet had been fired. Death was caused by a bullet wound in the right temple. The dead man, whose body was taken to the Fordham Morgue, was about 35 years old, of medium height and build and of dark complexion. He wore a gray suit, gray soft hat and a blue chinchilla overcoat.

SULTAN TOO LATE TO FOIL YOUNG TURKS

PAN-ISLAMIC MOVEMENT

Kemel Started Agitation Among Afghans, Persians and Tartars, Planned Alliance with Bolsheviki.

WASHINGTON, March 14 (Associated Press).—The ascendancy to power of the old pro-German Nationalist Party in Turkey, which has resulted in the present Turkish crisis, is described for the first time in confidential reports received here from Constantinople by Professor Der Hagopian of the Armenian National Delegation to the Peace Conference. Copies of the reports have been submitted to the State Department.

The Nationalist Party was supposed to have been crushed by the operation of the armistice terms, but its present movement, under the leadership of Mustapha Kemel, the famous defender of the Dardanelles, is described as rivaling that of the "Committee of Union and Progress" which in 1908 dethroned Sultan Abdul Hamid and proceeded to the systematic repression of alien races in the Ottoman Empire.

According to the reports from Constantinople, the reorganization of the Nationalists was started immediately after the signing of the armistice, Mustapha being assisted by Enver Pasha, Talaat Pasha and others among the "Young Turks" who were supposed to have fled to Germany after Turkey surrendered.

The party began its activities outside the immediate sphere of the Government in Constantinople, and had as its objects the reconquering of the territory of the empire held by the Allies, the preservation of all the old Ottoman Empire north of a line drawn from Alexandretta to Mosul, along Northern Arabia, and extermination of the non-Moslem population of the empire.

To bring about these ends, the reports declare, there was begun the organization of a new Pan-Islamic movement among Afghans, Persians and Tartars in an effort to embarrass the Occidental powers in possession of Moslem colonies. Co-operation with the Russian Bolsheviki also was planned.

When the Supreme Council at London approached the question of settlement of the Turkish treaty of peace, the Nationalist plot, the reports declare, suddenly took form with the massacres in Cilicia and the military activity of Mustapha Kemel in Anatolia.

Describing the rise of the Nationalist Party, the reports say that soon after the armistice Mustapha, by his activities in organizing civil and military officials favorable to the old Committee of Union and Progress" of the "Young Turk" Party, excited the anxiety of the Sultan, who ordered him to the provinces as Inspector General of the Third Army Corps. There he continued his work of fomenting anti-Christian and anti-Ally propaganda.

On April 23, 1919, a congress of "Young Turks" and elements attracted to the Nationalist movement, presided over by Mustapha, was assembled at Erzeroum. According to the reports, it passed resolutions calling upon the "Young Turks" to "resist all attempts made by the allied powers to occupy territories inhabited by Armenians and Greeks or to intervene in favor of Greeks or Armenians."

A thorough administrative organization was built up in the towns and villages of the Turkish provinces and machinery for the election of a General Assembly and a representative committee was established.

Confronted by a movement which was disquieting as well as unwise," the reports say, "Damad Ferrid Pasha, in accord with the Sultan, decided to react against it with energy. But these measures were belated. Mustapha was acting in the provinces like a supreme despot. Of those who did not submit to his will of the National forces were persecuted and mercilessly dealt with.

"Mustapha appointed and discharged public officials of all ranks. Governors were shot. Most of the military commanders belonged to the 'Young Turk' Party, and so they espoused the cause of the National forces."

ALLIES TO SEIZE TURKISH WAR OFFICE

Also Central Telegraph Office in Constantinople and Occupy Strategic Points.

ARMED BANDITS ROB BAKERY OF $5,400

POOL ROOM ALSO HELD UP

Masked Robbers Take $500 from Customers—Apartment Burglaries Concealed by Police.

Robbers and burglars are renewing their activities in the city. Two holdups and four cases of apartment thefts were brought to light yesterday. In the cases of the apartments the Police Department followed its policy of concealing the crimes from the public. The biggest booty obtained was in the Pechter Baking Company's plant at 468 Cherry Street, where $5,400 was stolen by three armed men at the point of pistols. The other holdup was in the pool room of Isaac Barman at 4,235 Third Avenue, where masked men got $500 from patrons. The apartments robbed included those of J. Peyton Clark at 411 West 114th Street, where property worth $3,000 was taken; B. J. Greenhut of 36 West Seventy-second Street, who lost between $5,000 and $10,000 worth of jewelry; Diosmer J. Barrett of 52 West Fifty-second Street, loss unknown, and Samuel Weller, 244 West Fifty-first Street, where $10,000 worth of furs and other clothing were stolen.

The facts of the Pechter robbery became known yesterday when two suspects were arraigned before Magistrate Nolan in the Essex Market Court. The men, who gave their names as Frank Schiafani, 24 years old, of 12 Delancey Street, and Leo Joseph, 22, of 29 Hester Street, were held in $10,000 bail each for examination tomorrow on a charge of robbery.

Robbing of Bakery.

According to Benjamin Pechter, head of the company, his clerks had just completed the payroll of the night shift when three men entered the office. One of them, addressing Herman Fischer, the cashier, wanted to know if a man named Brown was employed in the bakery. While Fischer was looking up the information the three intruders produced revolvers and ordered the cashier and four other employes to line up against the wall with their hands up.

Mr. Pechter said he entered the office at this juncture and he, too, was ordered to join the others. One of the robbers then entered the cashier's cage and took possession of a box containing the pay envelopes with $400 inclosed. With their revolvers leveled toward Mr. Pechter and his employes the three men backed toward the exit and ran downstairs. A fourth man, who had been stationed just outside the exit as a lookout, followed the others to the street, where, joined by a fifth man, they all entered a waiting automobile and escaped.

Mr. Pechter said there were two revolvers in the cashier's cage, but so quickly and quickly did the robbers work that no one had time to reach the weapons. There were more than fifty people working in various parts of the bakery, but no one was attracted to the office.

Detective Thomas Kemp of the First Detective Branch Bureau, who was assigned to the case, arrested Schiafani and Joseph late Saturday night.

The apartment of J. Peyton Clark in the Columbia Co-operative Apartments at 411 West 114th Street was entered and rifled on Feb. 24, it was learned yesterday. Mr. Clark confirmed the robbery, but refused to go into details. It was said he lost property worth $3,000.

It was reported yesterday that between $5,000 and $10,000 worth of jewelry had been stolen from the home of B. J. Greenhut at 36 West Seventy-second Street on Feb. 26. Mrs. Greenhut yesterday said that she had no statement to make at this time. Included among the gems taken was a set of pearls valued at $4,500, it was said. No information was made public by the police on this robbery.

COMPERS SAYS PEOPLE 'DAMN PROHIBITION.'

Hasn't Found One Man Who Favors It as It Stands Today, He Asserts.

TRENTON, N. J., March 14.—A presentation of labor's cause against men in public life was made by Samuel Gompers at a mass meeting under the auspices of the Mercer County Central Labor Union at Taylor's Opera House this afternoon. He declared that the men in office who have not carried out labor's wishes should be elected a vacation. Mr. Gompers said he did not think New Jersey was going to forget the injunctions of United States Attorney General Palmer against the coal miners.

Referring to prohibition, Mr. Gompers said there was little doubt of what would happen to the Eighteenth Amendment if it were submitted to the people. In his journey through the United States he said he had yet to come in contact with anyone who did not "damn prohibition up hill and down dale."

"I have not met one man," he said, "who has said to me that he was in favor of prohibition just as it stands today. We are the object of the ridicule and contempt of the people of other countries, who cannot understand why 100,000,000 people have been subjected to the wishes of a few fanatics who have attempted to make people good by law."

Rome in Coal Crisis Limits Gas and Adopts Daylight Saving

ROME, March 12.—Beginning Monday gas for cooking, heating and lighting purposes will be supplied for only a half hour in the morning, an hour and a half at midday and one hour in the evening. These restrictions, which are more severe than those applied during the war, are made to bring about a lessening in the use of coal.

It has also been decided to set the clocks forward one hour beginning March 21.

GILLETT WARNS OF DRY 'AUTOCRACY'

DENOUNCES VOLSTEAD ACT

Declares There Is Danger in State Submission to Prohibition Enforcement Measure.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 14.—Continuance of wartime centralization of power in the Federal Government through State submission to the Volstead Prohibition act means not only an end of State rights but a step "straight to autocracy," Colonel Ransom H. Gillett, Republican member of Assembly from Columbia County, wrote to members of the lower house today, in asking them to rally to the support of his beer and light wines bill already introduced in the Assembly.

Colonel Gillett, who finds himself leader of a group of insurgents against the leadership of Speaker Thaddeus C. Sweet, and the instigator of the first insurgency in the Assembly in years, denies that Congress has the exclusive right to legislate for New York State and claims that the legislators, if they want to do their duty to their constituents, must enact legislation legalizing beer and light wines of at least 2.75 and 10 per cent., respectively.

Desert the Gillett Camp.

Sweet's opposition announcement had its effect, for almost immediately several of the thirty-five ex-soldiers in the Assembly who had been back of Gillett and his beer and wine measure, which was drawn to affect regulation similar to that exerted by the A. E. F. abroad, deserted the Gillett camp and announced they would not become a party to the Gillett-called conference for Tuesday night to discuss means of furthering the progress of the anti-prohibition measures.

These men included Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Alan V. Parker, Frank S. Jacobs, David W. Jeffrey and Arthur E. Brundage. Their action led to Colonel Gillett's direct appeal to each member of the House. In his letter, which he made public tonight, the Columbia County representative says:

"1. Pass the Volstead act as a State law, knowing, as we do, that it is unworkable, unenforceable, and about as popular with the people of this State as a skunk at a lawn party; or,

"2. Pass a law modifying our own experience and knowledge as men and citizens of the greatest and richest State in the federation of States; or,

"3. Pass the buck.

Wants No More Buck Passing.

"We ought not to do the first, because we all know the Volstead act is wrong in theory and unenforceable in practice.

"We ought to do the second, because that is what the State pays us to do and our constituents expect us to do.

"And I, for one, don't want to see any more buck passing for the rest of my natural life, in the army or out of it, whether it be on a question of responsibility for disobeying an order or a referendum on light wine and beers."

CALLS SERVICE MEN 'TOOLS OF BREWERS'

William H. Anderson Assails Veterans in Legislature Who Favor Mild Beer Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 14.—Speaking in the First Presbyterian Church here this morning, William H. Anderson, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, declared that the most unfortunate thing connected with the whole fight at Albany on the prohibition question was "the effort of a few service men who are brewery tools to line up all the service men in the Legislature in favor of a nullification beer bill." He asserted that this effort was in violation of the policy of the American Legion not, as such, to enter politics, and that it was also a violation of the Constitution and the law of Congress.

"Everybody honors the men who fought in France," the league Superintendent continued, "but that service for the nation does not warrant them in now turning against the welfare of the country which they once fought to defend. On the contrary, they are held to a higher degree of patriotism and devotion to the public welfare. The public expects that the great service which they rendered shall be of permanent enrichment to their characters."

Mr. Anderson said it was a matter of record that the brewers, through their national association, contributed to the activity of the German-American Alliance, which, he said, was the agency through which the same Imperial German Government that the former service men fought in France plotted and worked against the American nation at home.

Referring to the proposed investigation of the league and its Superintendent by the Legislature, Mr. Anderson asserted it was "threatened" solely because the "league refused to keep quiet about the deal between 'wet' Republicans and Tammany to defeat honest enforcement legislation."

Mr. Anderson reiterated that he had made no attack on the Catholic Church as such, but only against some Catholics.

FIGHT SHOE BRAND BILL.

Merchants' Association Says It Will Destroy Shoe Manufacture in State.

Opposition to the bill, now pending in the Legislature, to require boots and shoes offered for sale to bear labels indicating what portions are made of substitutes for leather, has been expressed by the Merchants' Association of New York in a letter to Assemblyman Allen V. Parker, Chairman of the Committee on General Laws.

"Its effect will be," says the letter, "to lead the public to abandon the use of shoes in which substituted materials are employed and in their place to purchase shoes that are implied or represented to be wholly of leather. If the leather is of high quality the price of the shoe will be prohibitory. If the leather be of poor quality, the public will be deluded into the belief that the shoe is serviceable, when, in fact, it is much inferior in wearing qualities to a shoe in which certain of the parts are of substitutes.

"A very serious but inevitable result of the adoption of this bill will be the destruction of the shoe manufacturing interests of the State of New York. The products of this State thus stigmatized and impliedly branded as inferior, would be thrown into active competition with the shoe products of other States where no brands are required. It would be impossible under these conditions for shoes manufactured in the State of New York to maintain a market elsewhere."

ONLY IMPORTANT EXCEPTION

No Quarrel with the New Organization, Says Spokesman for Anderson Association.

With the exception of the Anti-Saloon League of America, all the great prohibition and temperance forces, including the Prohibition Party, have merged into the recently formed American section of the World Prohibition Federation. Beginning today this will be an active agency for enforcing the Eighteenth Amendment in this country and working against alcohol in the old world. The new organization will have the use of the combined income from the funds of the merged societies.

The Roman Catholic Church is represented in the World Prohibition Federation by the Catholic Priests' Prohibition League. This is headed by the Rev. George N. Zurcher, rector of St. Vincent's Roman Catholic Church, North Evans, Erie County, N. Y., and the Rev. John J. Curran, rector of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Kilkes-Barre, Pa.

"The only notable exception to the inclusiveness of the federation is the fact that the Anti-Saloon League, which recently has been involved in newspaper and political controversy, is not affiliated in any way with the federation," says the federation announcement issued yesterday.

Included in the merger, together with the temperance agencies of all the leading church communions and the Prohibition Party, are the Good Templars, Sons of Temperance, United Society of Christian Endeavor, National Temperance Society and the Commission on Temperance of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. "Billy" Sunday has been suggested for honorary President of the World Prohibition Federation.

The federation is the outgrowth of the International Congress on Alcoholism. Dr. Scanlon represented the United States at the congresses in London, Milan and The Hague. The European branch of the federation, which is already at work, publishes in London a monthly magazine called The International Record. The President is Guy Hayler, author of the book, "Prohibition Advance in All Lands."

This International Congress on Alcoholism, which is now an accessory of the federation, will meet in Washington, D. C., Sept. 21-25. The United States Congress has appropriated $60,000 to pay its expenses. It is expected that forty-one countries will be represented.

The federation is already at work in fifteen countries. Aside from the United States these are France, England, Scotland, Ireland, Finland, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Mexico, Brazil, Chile, India, Persia, China and Siam.

The President of the American section is the Rev. Dr. Charles Scanlon of Pittsburgh, who is now in this city perfecting plans for launching the world-wide campaign. Dr. Scanlon has for many years been General Secretary of the Temperance Board of the Presbyterian Church.

Among other clergymen connected with the federation are the Rev. Dr. D. Stuart Dodge, Rev. Dr. Clarence True Wilson of Washington, D. C

NINTH INNING PANIC THREATENS GIANTS

Winters Blows Up, Gives San Antonio Five Runs, but New York Saves Game, 7 to 6.

ROSS YOUNG HAS BIG DAY

Native Son Bats in Four of McGraw-ites' Tallies and Makes Three Himself—Nehf Has Control.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 14.—Jess Winters was so wild in the ninth inning of today's game with San Antonio that he almost presented the Aces with the game on a silver platter. The Giants' flinger went in in the seventh, when McGraw's men had the game tucked away by a score of 6 to 1.

When Winters was seized with a spasm of generosity in the last of the ninth he walked four of the San Antonio players in a row, forcing in one run, while others trickled over on singles by Brown and Halt. The New Yorkers were lucky to edge their way out of the fray at the happy end of a 7 to 6 score.

Up to the time of the panic New York was displaying its superiority over the local minor leaguers. It was the first Sunday game of the season and a fair sized crowd was out to see the affair.

The game was a carnival for Ross Young, the local lad who plays right field for the Giants. They don't call him "Pep" down here. He got a warm reception when he stepped up to the plate in the first inning, and his work throughout the afternoon justified the pride which the San Antonians have in their native son. Young, with his prolific bat, knocked in four of the Giants' seven and scored the other three himself.

Young Is a Hitting Demon.

In the second inning he crashed a home run to the fence between left and centre field, with two runners, Nehf and Burns, aboard the bases. His single drove Burns in with another run in the fifth and in the seventh a double from his club again scored Burns, and Ross himself tallied soon after. In the ninth Young got a walk, went to third on McGuire's double and came home on Sicking's single. It was a glorious day for Young and it is little wonder that the folks here are boosting this home product.

Nehf, Douglas and Winters did the pitching today and for eight innings the San Antonio players got three hits, each pitcher allowing one. Nehf and Douglas were in splendid form and they both showed puzzling curves, speed and excellent control. Douglas also distinguished himself with some wide-awake fielding.

Winters was inclined to be wild from the time he went to the box in the seventh. He walked a runner in the seventh and eighth. In the ninth, with one out, Whitney walked and went down on Smith's passed ball. Bode walked and Stewart fanned.

Winters Opens the Gate.

It looked as if the matinee was all over and folks began to leave the park. Fuller got a pass and filled the bases. Johnny Nee, manager of the local club, got a pass and forced Whitney home. Brown spanked a single to left and Bode and Fuller scored. The other runners advanced when Lee King, from left field, made a bad throw in returning the ball. Halt jammed a single to right and Nee and Brown counted. By this time the spectators had rushed back to their seats and were yelling loudly for the Aces to tie the score. Boole, the next batsman, grounded out to Kelly and the game was over.

The Aces' first run was scored in the sixth. Brown walked and scored when Halt banged one of Douglas's curves for a three-bagger over Kauff's head.

It was Nehf's first appearance on the mound and he had great control. He fanned four of the Aces in three innings and allowed only one hit.

Giants Score Three in Third.

The Giants gathered three runs in the third. With one out Nehf beat a pretty hit to first and dashed to third on Burns's single to right. Burns taking second when they tried to head Nehf off at third. Then Young plastered his homer to the fence and cleared the bases.

Douglas walked in the fifth and was forced by Burns. Burns went around on an error and a wild pitch, and scored on Young's single. In the seventh King walked, and was out when Burns's grounder hit him on the ankle. Burns stole second and scored on Young's double. Young went to third on Fletcher's infield single and scored while they were trying to catch Fletcher between first and second. With two out in the ninth, Young got a pass and scored on McGuire's double to right.

McGRAW STARTS CUTTING.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 14.—Manager McGraw this afternoon made the first cut in the roster of the Giants. He announced the release of Jimmy Cooney, the shortstop, to the Milwaukee club of the American Association, and the return of Sid Ross, lefthanded pitcher, to the San Antonio club of the Texas League. It is expected that many more releases will be made before the Giants leave next Friday night.

Cooney was purchased late last season from the Providence club of the Eastern League, in which he batted .305. Ross came to the Giants in 1918 and was sent to Toronto.

When the Giants leave here on Friday to start their road tour with the Red Sox the recruits will go directly to Rocky Mount, N. C., where the Rochester club will train.

Newtown H. S. Elects Stewart.

Richard Stewart has been elected captain of the Newtown High School basket ball team for next season. He played forward for two years. Assistant Manager William Drummond was elected manager.

24 Nations Notify Belgium They Will Enter Olympics

ANTWERP, March 14 (Associated Press).—Twenty-four nations already have officially accepted Belgium's invitation to participate in the coming Olympic games, and the Belgian Committee is going ahead in the face of all obstacles. Official notice of participation by the United States is expected shortly. Confronted by the greatest handicap ever imposed on any country holding the games, the Belgians are pushing the arrangements with the same spirit with which they are rapidly changing their war-torn country to a hive of industry.

"We must complete in one year what the committees of Sweden and other countries where games have been held did in four years," said F. Van der Heyden, who is charged with the technical arrangements, today. "While we cannot promise that the arrangements will be better than those at Stockholm, we can give assurance that they will be excellent."

The principal stadium is near completion, and work has begun on the natatorium, where 10,000 persons can be seated for the water events. The Antwerp velodrome is being remodeled for the cyclists. It has been tentatively decided to open the stadium for the training of the athletes a fortnight before the official opening on Aug. 14.

YANKEES IN MIAMI FOR FLING AT REDS

Huggins's Outfit Expects Victory Today—Mays and Luque Likely to Start Game.

Special to The New York Times.

MIAMI, Fla., March 14.—The vanguard of the Yankees arrived here this afternoon from Jacksonville for their game with the Reds tomorrow. Miller Huggins, manager of the Yanks; Harry Sparrow, business manager; Bob Shawkey and the war correspondents got into the garden spot of Southern Florida this afternoon. About the same time the rest of the Yankee band, led by Coach O'Leary and Assistant Secretary McManus, left Jacksonville on their way here.

The following players have been taken on the Miami jaunt: Outfielders Bodie, Ruth, Vick, Meusel, Gleich; infielders, Pipp, Pratt, Peck, Fewster and Ward; catchers, Hannah and Ruel; pitchers, Shawkey, Quinn, Mays, Thormahlen, Mogridge, Shore and Collins.

The last named is the Texas League youngster, and the fact that Huggins picked him from the others makes it look as though he regards him as the best looking kid in camp.

Huggins was in no way depressed over the poor showing of the Yankees last week and the inability of Ruth to hit. "The Yanks are a veteran team and the loss of a game or so here and there at this stage of the year doesn't do any harm. I know what most of the men can do and it is only a question of their hitting their stride."

The Yankees should be able to defeat the Cincinnati Reds tomorrow, as they have had more extended training. Eddie Roush and Heinie Groh, the two stars of the Reds, have been in uniform only one day. However, Hi Meyers, the Brooklyn outfielder, had been in uniform only one day when he faced the Yankees yesterday and he maced the New York pitchers for two clean hits.

Manager Moran of the Reds claims that his team is making fine progress. The club has had great weather here, today being the coolest that the club has encountered. All of the Reds are here with the exception of Ray Fisher, the former Yankee pitcher, who has been detained at his Vermont home by illness in his family. Dutch Ruether is the only Cincinnati player who has not signed his contract.

Moran said he would start Adolfo Luque, his Cuban pitcher, against the Yankees. Luque is in better condition than any other twirler on the Redland club, as he has been pitching winter ball in Cuba. Huggins will probably start Mays, and finish the game with Bob Shawkey.

The Cincinnati lineup will be as follows: Rath, 2b; Daubert, 1b; Groh, 3b; Rousch, cf; Duncan, lf; Crane or Kopf, ss; Neale, rf; Wingo and Rariden, c; Luque, Ring and Sallee, p.

Bill Dineen and Pete Cleary, an umpire from the International League will umpire the Yankee-Cincinnati series.

EBBETS GOES ON TOUR.

Robins' Owner May Ship Team to Another Training Camp in 1921.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 14.—This was a dull day in the training camp of the Dodgers. Manager Robinson and several members of his team went out to the Country Club early and spent the day on the golf links. Among those in the party were Bernie Neis, the sensational rookie, who is destined to become a regular next season; Rube Marquard, Ernest Krueger and Rowdy Elliott.

President Ebbets has separated himself from his club for about a week at least. The owner of the Robins left this morning to visit St. Augustine, Ormond, Daytona, Miami and Palm Beach. Manager Robinson is not entirely satisfied with Barr's Field as a major league training park, and it is believed Ebbets will look over the grounds in the towns he is headed for. St. Augustine is anxious to have the team next Spring, and President Ebbets received an invitation from the leading business men of the city to look that town over. They also are trying to lure the Brooklyn's there for a few games before the jaunt northward is started.

St. Augustine has a strong semi-pro club and the Robins may meet them in a series. A trip to St. Augustine would break the monotony of remaining in the camp here more than five weeks in a row.

The victory over the Yankees in the first game of the exhibition series has imbued the Brooklyn athletes with confidence, and they are eager to tackle the American Leaguers in the second game of the series next Thursday. In the meantime Uncle Robbie will keep his men moving at a fast clip and when the time for the game arrives the rotund leader will have such stars as Jeff Pfeffer and Rube Marquard ready to pitch against Babe Ruth and other sluggers in Miller Huggins's array.

Comment on Current Events in Sports.

Output of Rules Committee.

Behind closed doors and shrouded in the deepest secrecy, the Football Rules Committee has just spent a considerable part of two days inquiring into the technique of the great college game. Twice during the session a door opened and an arm thrust out a brief communiqué, and at the close, while the thirteen conferees were scurrying toward their trains, one or two reluctantly gave to the patient newspapermen staccato bits of the myriad things that actually happened.

It will be difficult for many to comprehend the reason for making the goal after touchdown so ridiculously easy. Harvard and, to some some extent, Yale urged that the point be made more difficult to obtain by introducing a scrimmage and a try for the goal either by drop kick or placement from the 20-yard line. Walter Camp, Secretary and spokesman of the committee, said the intent was to make a touchdown overbalance in value, by seven points to six, two field goals made by a team that cannot score a touchdown. Why, then, a great many football laymen will now ask, was the touchdown not made to count seven points by itself?

The new protection for the forward passer will meet with greater satisfaction except among those fans who deplore the intrusion of what they are wont to call "basket ball tactics" into football, a game played fundamentally by rushing, carrying and kicking the ball. This element is in the minority, however. Most spectators like the forward pass, and since its legality was established in 1906 they have concurred with the Rules Committee in its successive endeavors to improve the overhead heave.

The attitude of the Committee on Professional Football will be awaited with interest. It is the first time in history that the supreme body has officially taken notice that the great college game is being played by men paid for their services. Individual colleges have long wrestled with this problem and some have gone so far as to withdraw from graduates the letters they won while students. Universities have expelled or rendered ineligible undergraduates who have hied away from studies on a Sunday to earn a hundred dollars for playing with a pro team. Professional football is well intrenched in Ohio and is gaining favor in New York and elsewhere. The committee faces an intricate problem.

Coronation of Violet Five.

Sixteen basket ball teams, leaders in their sections of the country from coast to coast and from the Gulf to the Great Lakes, went to Atlanta last week hopeful. One is now en route home bubbling over with unrestrained joy. It is the violet trimmed squad from University Heights, the N. Y. U. aggregation, winners of the National A. A. U. championship tournament. It was honor enough to be selected for the title series. Neither Columbia nor C. C. N. Y. could attain it. But to come marching home carrying pennants and medals and commanding the respect of every other amateur quintet in the country is something more.

The N. Y. U. team should be regarded as phenomenal—nothing less. It completed its season, which included victories over many of the college teams of the East, in due season. But instead of disbanding it gratified 10,000 local fans who crowded the 22d Regiment Armory on March 6 to see N. Y. U. win the championship from C. C. N. Y. in a specially arranged battle. And then instead of quitting for a well-earned rest the violet wearers entrained for Atlanta, played four games on four successive days, and after eliminating Los Angeles A. C., last year's champion team, advanced to the final and drubbed Rutgers decisively.

While acclaiming those all-round athletes, Cann and Mooney, and lauding those other stars of the court, Goeller, Delaney and Baker, the basket ball fans should give due credit to Coach Ed Thorp. To estimate his value as a basket ball coach it is necessary only to consider the N. Y. U. five of this season.

It is extremely unfortunate that Pennsylvania, winner of the Intercollegiate League title with a straight string of ten victories and no defeats, has not been fit to accept N. Y. U.'s invitation for a post-season game. The glory won by N. Y. U. will not be dimmed by the outcome of the Penn-Chicago series for the so-called national collegiate championship, which will begin next Saturday night at Chicago. Both the Quakers and the New Yorkers have unusually brilliant teams, and the interests of real sport would seem to demand a meeting. The N. Y. U. five is willing and no praise whatever is heard for the attitude of Pennsylvania.

Brief Day of the Recruit.

With the exception of the Chicago White Sox, which club did not start for its training camp until last week, all of the big league teams have been putting in some hard work in the sometimes Sunny South. They have been ironing the Winter kinks out of pitching arms, unlimbering fielding muscles and polishing up batting lamps for a sufficient length of time to afford the different managers a pretty good line on the general quality of the baseball material at their disposal.

Of course, it is still much too early for permanent berths to have been awarded, for the crop of recruits to have been weighed in the balance and appraised at their true value, but the bosses have seen enough to know whether or not they are entitled to cultivate pennant hopes. As is usual at this season of the year the young Ty Cobbs, Walter Johnsons and Eddie Collins's have been cutting a wide swath. Scarcely a day passes that some new "phenom" is not discovered lurking in the tall brush of a training camp—a prospect brimful of promise, and fairly bubbling over with ability. A little later only a few of these will remain, and those who do stick for the exhibition trip northward or until after the real campaigns on the big league diamonds begin will undoubtedly shine with diminished lustre.

It is just before the regulars begin to loosen up that the rookies glow with dazzling brilliance. Experience has taught the veterans that the surest way of attaining the best and most lasting physical condition to tide them over a long grind through a schedule of 154 games is to take things easy at the start. To do their unlimbering gradually and not to strain their muscles by showing all their stuff the first day the sun shines with real warmth. They are content to plod along while the rookies are out there revealing all their wares upon the slightest provocation.

The veterans now are beginning to come into their own. They have been taking their training in small doses, and now are prepared to show whether they have skidded back along the trail too far to be of further value in the big show or not. The managers have been patiently waiting for the vets to get fit before passing judgment, but the day of final accounting is not far distant, and the Order of the Tin Can will claim its annual toll of new members.

Olympic Hopes in Title Meet.

Further evidence of the potential strength of Uncle Sam's athletic invaders at Antwerp next Summer was provided at the national A. A. U. indoor championships. With three records eclipsed, another equaled, and a quintet of titleholders successfully defending their laurels against formidable opposition, additional support was provided for the already well intrenched conviction that another Olympic Games triumph is in the offing.

Of particular significance was the record-making victory of Walker Smith of Cornell, in defense of his 70-yard high hurdle title. The Ithaca collegian's style in clearing the fences impressed critical observers and at the same time dissipated some of the apprehension caused by the loss of Earl Thomson, Dartmouth hurdler, whose Canadian citizenship makes him ineligible as a member of the American team. Further prospective Olympic strength was disclosed in the two-mile run. Harry Heime, a Buffalo high school lad, in gaining this title, showed ability that would have done credit to a veteran of greater experience. The Bison City youngster has endurance and a fundamental knowledge of how to husband his strength early so as to get the best results late in his race. With careful development Heime will improve and take his place among the country's great distance runners.

Victories by Loren Murchison in the sprints, John Ray in the middle-distance race and Pat McDonald in the shot-put accentuated the belief that they will be point winners for the American team.

The meet was one of the most successful ever conducted, from both finahcial and competitive standpoints, and was an appropriate memorial to the tireless efforts of the A. A. U. officials in charge of the affair. But one happening transpired to mar what was otherwise a clean, wholesome series of athletic competitions. This digression was the inexcusable and absolutely uncalled for fouling by Ray in the final lap of the medley relay race and promptly drew a merited penalty—the disqualification of the Illinois A. C. team which had crossed the finish line in front.

On the Famous Armory Courts.

In spite of the absence of several of the best women tennis players of America, the national indoor championship which begins this morning on the courts of the 7th Regiment Armory sets a new record in the number of entries, and indicates clearly that the interest in the game in general is still on the increase. With the assurance that a new champion will be crowned before the end of the week, there will be a lively struggle among the forty-six worthy contenders, of whom only one, Mrs. Frederick Schmitz, has in the past won national honors with the racquet.

Under the direction of Miss Marie Wagner, Chairman of the Tournament Committee, and T. A. Bruno, official referee, the women's indoor event bids fair to be as great a success as ever in the past, living up to the land-standing record of efficient competitive tennis at the 7th Regiment Armory. In view of this record the delay of the national association in assigning next year's event to the same club is surprising. It is now generally known that a new indoor tennis club is shortly to come into existence, with the finest equipment in America. But there seems little chance that such a clubhouse would be ready for occupation within a year's time at least. Meanwhile the delaying of the decision might affect the plans of the 7th Regiment so that the armory might not again be available. It would seem advisable for the Executive Committee to consider this seriously when arranging next season's schedule.

One disappointing feature of this week's tournament is the difficulty that has been encountered in getting entries for the special girls' championship. Evidently there are some parental fears in the background, which, however, could easily be proved groundless by any one familiar with the conditions under which all the women's tournaments are played in the metropolitan district. Enough entries are secured today a girls' tournament of some sort will be held, even though it be only an informal round robin affairs. The youngsters should have their chance.

Wilde's Last Real Rival Falls.

In adding Frankie Mason to his list of American victims, Jimmy Wilde, the remarkable British flyweight boxer, has about exhausted the available crop of formidable boxers of his own class in this country. If Wilde's supremacy was ever questioned the doubt was removed with his latest triumph. True, the result might have been more decisive—Wilde could have more thoroughly demonstrated his superiority by knocking Mason out, but the unanimity of the unofficial decisions favoring the little Briton indicates the amplitude of the margin by which Wilde won.

Wilde today stands alone in the ring's lightest division. He is far more formidable than any other flyweight of the day, and possibly could progress through the ranks of bantamweights without endangering his reputation seriously. The slim little Britton would be compelled to concede considerable weight if he went in quest of the bantamweight title, but he is used to handicaps in the matter of avoirdupois.

A logical match now would be a return engagement between Wilde and Jack Sharkey, the little west sider who gained a verdict over the visitor in Wilde's initial American appearance. Such a bout, preferably in the East, would hold particular attraction for followers of the sport and at the same time would afford Wilde an opportunity to erase a blot on his escutcheon. Wilde's string of victories since his memorable battle against Sharkey has led most critics to doubt very strongly whether Sharkey could repeat. A comparison of the two boxers favors Wilde, with his unrelenting, tireless attack, his cleverness, free, heavy hitting, speed and agility, and his remarkably effective defense. Sharkey is a willing, aggressive, heavy-hitting bantamweight, but is not to be compared with Wilde in science.

PLAY 36 HOLES ALL EVEN.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 14.—Today's chief attraction at Pinehurst was a thirty-six hole amateur-professional match, in which F. O. Newton of Brookline and George McLean, the Great Neck pro, broke all even with Sam Graham of Greenwich, and Emmet French, professional at Southern Pines and Youngstown. High winds prevailed throughout the day, and were reflected in the medal scores, but the match was a close and exciting one from start to finish.

McLean played the thirty-six holes in 78, 76—154. French had 75, 80—155. Newton and Graham tied at 161.

Woman Gunner Has High Score.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 14.—Mrs. G. T. Berdan of Roselle, N. J., established a record for rifle shooting at Pinehurst in this week's contest for women when she scored 148 points out of a possible 150. The second prize went to Mrs. Alvin B. Hutzler of Richmond, who scored 142. The weekly Clock golf tourney for women was won by Mrs. L. F. F. Wanner of Hempstead, L. I.

VISITOR TOPS FIELD AT N. Y. A. C. SHOOT

T. H. Lewis was the high scratch nimrod of the forty who participated in the Sunday competition of the New York A. C. at the Travers Island traps yesterday. He had a score of 95. H. E. Purcell, with 96, drew down the high handicap prize. Competition was extremely keen and the outcome of the shoot was in doubt until the last man took his turn on the firing line. J. Clark, Jr., who was shooting as a guest, had the best score of the day, 99.

DR. SHORT IS HIGH GUN.

Turns In Card of 84 at Traps of Larchmont Yacht Club.

Of the sixteen nimrods who shot at the traps of the Larchmont Yacht Club yesterday the only one to turn in a score of 100 was F. Belcher, who, with a handicap of 48, won the handicap prize. Dr. W. B. Short, the high scratch gunner, broke 84 out of a possible 100 targets.

The scores:

	Hit.	Hcp.	Total.
L. C. Dalley	80	20	100
Dr. W. B. Short	84	4	88
A. W. Fitzgerald	59	20	79

HAGEN RULES FAVORITE.

West Coast Open Tourney Will Be Resumed Today.

Special to The New York Times.

BELLEAIR HEIGHTS, Fla., March 14.—With a lead of eight strokes over Jim Barnes, Walter Hagen will begin the second thirty-six holes of play in the West Coast Open tomorrow, ruling a one to two favorite over the field. Hagen stands at 143. Barnes 151. Loos 155, Tellier 153, Robertson and Diegel 156, McNamara and Hutchison 157. Thirty others are strung out behind the leaders.

The pro here who are interested in the scheduled international matches at Toledo in August want a straight American team which would include Barnes and Hutchison to fight it out with a straight English team. They insist that they will not play in any team where a Scotch, English, American, Irish or other combination is represented.

Meehan Calls Football Men.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 13.—Coach John F. Meehan of the Syracuse University football eleven has issued a call for Spring football practice beginning April 22 and continuing for two weeks. A squad of about fifty candidates is expected to report for two workouts daily.

NEW BASKET BALL RECORDS FOR PENN

Intercollegiate Champions Set High Mark for Team and Individual Scoring.

Records for both individual and team scoring in the Intercollegiate Basket Ball League have been shattered by the Pennsylvania five in the season which practically came to an end with the Penn-Dartmouth tussle, but which will not be finished officially until the Princeton-Dartmouth game this week. Sweeney, the sensational Quaker forward, has scored 147 points and has passed the previous high mark of 130 made in 1917 by Kinney of Yale.

Penn's final victory gives a member of the league for the first time since 1910 a league season of straight victories and no defeats. The Red and Blue deserves much more credit, however, than the Columbia quintet of ten years ago. There are now six teams in the circuit and each has to play ten games. When Columbia went through the 1909-1910 year undefeated there were only four teams and the New Yorkers were obliged to emerge victorious in only six games.

The phenomenal scoring of Sweeney is likely to remain high for some seasons. The first individual to pass the hundred mark was Sisson of Dartmouth. In 1912 he tallied 128 points, which stood as a record until 1916, when Kinney of Yale also closed the season with 128 points. The following season Kinney hung up a new high mark of 130. He caged forty-three field baskets, which is considerably more than Sweeney's quota, but the Penn star tossed the record number of ninety-three foul goals. The previous record for fouls was held by Keenan of Pennsylvania and was 79, made in 1908.

Yale now is in second place in the league standing, but Princeton may win the final game over Dartmouth this week and tie for the honor. Cornell is definitely in fourth place, Columbia in fifth and Dartmouth cannot rise out of the cellar place.

The scores of the first ten individuals and the league standing follows:

Player.	Games.	Field Goals.	Foul Goals.	Total Pts.
Sweeney, Pennsylvania	10	57	33	147
Van Slyck, Yale	10	38	89	125
Porter, Cornell	10	33	51	117
Browne, Dartmouth	9	31	40	102
Farrell, Columbia	10	11	56	78
Grave, Pennsylvania	10	20	0	58
Johnson, Columbia	10	23	1	57
Rosemast, Pennsylvania	10	23	0	59
Denison, Princeton	9	26	2	54
Molinet, Cornell	10	28	0	52

College.	Games.	W.	L.	P.C.

CAPABLANCA IN NEW YORK.

Cuban Chess Master Returns from Victorious Tour of Europe.

José R. Capablanca of Havana, the Pan American chess champion, who has signed with Dr. Emanuel Lasker to play for the world's championship, returned yesterday from Europe on the steamship France after an absence of over seven months. The victor in the British Chess Federation's International Victory Tournament was emphatic in his appreciation of the hospitality extended to him in Great Britain, France, Spain and Holland.

Capablanca commented upon the spread of the game in Spain, where he gave three exhibitions in Madrid, two in Seville and Barcelona and one at Bilbao. While in Europe Capablanca played close upon 1,700 games, of which he lost thirty, drew about seventy-five and won the rest.

Prophecy—and Profit

The prophecy is that clothing prices for Fall 1920 will be much higher—which is more of a fact than a forecast.

Accordingly, the profit in availing yourself of the reduced prices still in effect upon our Fall and Winter Suits is important.

BLUE WRACK NOSES OUT IOLITE IN RICH GRAND NATIONAL HANDICAP AT HAVANA

BLUE WRACK EARNS $10,750 AT HAVANA

Diaz-Colt, Handled by Pickens, Is Popular Winner of Grand National Handicap.

IOLITE IS A NOSE BEHIND

Great Cuban Racing Classic Pays Second Horse $1,200—Cromwell, Carrying High Weight, Is Third.

HAVANA, Cuba, March 14.—Amid the rousing cheers of 10,000 persons, Blue Wrack, running in the colors of the Cuban turfman, A. H. Diaz, won the Grand National Handicap, which carried a net value of $10,750, at the Oriental Park today. This was by a wide margin the most valuable stake run thus far during the present race meeting.

The victory of the son of Wrack was perhaps the most popular ever seen here, and when Pickens returned to the scales he was given an ovation that fairly shook the rafters of the stand. The cheering continued until the horses were led away.

Driving hard and only a nose back came Iolite, the game little son of Broomstick, while just one-half a length further back was Cromwell, the top-weight.

The race, which was at one and one-eighth miles, was run in the good time of 1:52 3-5. The second horse received $1,200, the third got $600, the fourth pulled down $300 and the fifth horse managed to save his nomination fees by receiving $150.

The field that sported silk for this event was the best class of handicap horses in training here

Hubbub was the quickest to get into his stride, and led by a small margin, while Blue Wrack was carefully nursed along by Pickens, remaining in second position to the middle of the upper turn. Here Pickens let the Diaz colt step along. He was full of speed, and assumed a good lead. Just when it looked as if he would gallop off with the purse in easy style, he began to tire, and it required Pickens's strongest effort to make him last it out to win by a nose..

Johnson Goes to Tia Juana; Says He Has Arranged Bouts.

Special to The New York Times.

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, March 14.—Jack Johnson, former champion heavyweight, has reached Manzanillo on his way to Tia Juana, which is just this side of the border in Lower California. Before leaving Mexico City Johnson said he had arranged a series of fights to take place in Tia Juana. He announced he was to meet Sam Langford of Boston and Harry Wills of New Orleans, and also made the statement, which sporting men here refused to take seriously, that Jack Dempsey had agreed to box him in Tia Juana. The big negro declared that he would not return to the United States until he had received assurances that he would not be arrested before he had had a chance to settle his business affairs there. After that, he said, he was willing to submit to whatever action the courts decreed.

MONTCLAIR DIVIDES HONORS AT SQUASH

The squash tennis players of the Montclair Athletic Club and the Columbia University Club broke even yesterday afternoon in a team match played on the courts of the former, each side winning two individual encounters. Jay Gould, the Columbia Club champion and world's title-holder at court tennis, disposed of the New Jersey State champion, Frank Kidde, at the top of the list, by scores of 15—18, 15—9. Fred S. Keeler turned in the other point for the Columbians by defeating Frank S. Seller in straight games, 15—7, 18—17.

Montclair's two winners were H. B. Crawford and J. G. Waldron, the former taking the measure of Harold Kellock in a hard three-game match, scoring 15—17, 15—5, 15—9, while the latter eliminated a mysterious newcomer, J. M. James, also in three games, by scores of 15—9, 4—15, 15—5.

Yesterday's meeting of the rival clubs attracted so large a crowd of spectators in Montclair that the galleries had to be cleared after the first match and a fresh consignment of onlookers admitted. Squash tennis is becoming more and more popular in New Jersey and, although the Montclair Athletic Club does not play in the Metropolitan League, it has a number of real experts on its roster. The showing of the home team created much enthusiasm and a return match will be played at the Columbia University Club within the next week or ten days.

Gould Hits With a Vim.

The fastest squash of the day was staged in the Gould-Kidde encounter. These two have met often in pratice, being members of the same club in New York, and their arguments are generally close, as was the case yesterday. Gould had the advantage so far as hard hitting was concerned, but Kidde covered his court so well and returned the ball so steadily that it generally took a clean kill to finish a rally. In trying to murder the ball the Columbia champion often hit above the back line, and also banged the telltale occasionally for costly errors.

They remained on practically even terms all through the opening game, and Kidde almost succeeded in tieing up the points after his rival was within a point of victory. Leading at 14—13, however, Gould smashed one safely for the winning ace, and then proceeded to run up a big lead in the second session. A fine rally brought Kidde back within hailing distance, but he could not quite make up the lost ground, and the match was Gould's at 15—9.

The courtcraft of the veteran Keeler proved too much for Seller in their first game, and it went to the Columbia man in fairly one-sided fashion. In the second, however, Seller became more and more accurate in his shots, and his speed increased proportionately. He ran his opponent around the inclosure until he was thoroughly weary, eventually sending the game into extra points at 13—all. They struggled desperately for the deciding tallies, and the score was tied again at 17—all, with one tally needed to determine the result. Keeler succeeded in getting in his winning shot first and it was all over at 18—17.

Crawford Beats Kellock.

Crawford surprised Kellock with the all around strength of his game, and after winning the opener by the narrowest of margins, the Columbia man had little left for the real test. He lost the second game by the one-sided count of 15—5, and although he tried hard for the rubber the Monclair representative had too much in reserve and it was Crawford's match at 15—9.

The perhaps purposely dark horse of the Columbia team, J. M. James, also ran into a surprise in the person of J. G. Waldron.

The summary follows:

Jay Gould, Columbia Club, defeated Frank Kidde, Montclair A. C., 15—18, 15—9; Fred S. Keeler, Columbia, defeated Frank S. Seller, Montclair, 15—7, 18—17; H. B. Crawford, Montclair, defeated Harold Kellock, Columbia, 15—17, 15—5, 15—9; J. G. Waldron, Montclair, defeated J. M. James, Columbia, 15—9, 4—15, 15—5.

PONY KICKS WINNING GOAL.

Meadowlarks Beat Blue Birds at Polo by 6 to 5.

A goal kicked by M. Goodman's chestnut pony, Bim Bam, figured prominently in the victory of the Meadowlarks' polo trio over the Blue Birds yesterday in the deciding game of the indoor tournament at Durland's Riding Academy. The contest went two extra periods before the Meadowlarks registered victory by 6 to 5.

The lineup:

MEADOWLARKS (6).	BLUE BIRDS (5).
1—F. P. Hayes.	1—H. Levinski.
2—M. Goodman.	2—H. Winn.
Back—A. Kinney.	Back—Dr. E. Biers.

Goals—Goodman, Kinney (4), Levinsky, Winn (2), Biers (2). Pony goal—Goodman's bim bam.

ICY STREETS GIVE HARRIERS TROUBLE

Three I. A. L. Bodies Run in Try-Outs for Teams Which Will Compete for Title.

Harriers of three subsidiaries of the Intersectional Athletic League yesterday competed in try-out road races in preparation for the league annual championship chase, which will be held in conjunction with the indoor athletic meet of the John Wanamaker Commercial Institute on March 20. Runners of the Bronx A. L., Harlem A. L. and Lower Manhattan A. L. braved the icy streets and cold wintry blasts for an opportunity to earn a berth on the teams which will strive for the title. Because of the conditions the work of selecting teams was considerably hampered. The Harlem A. L. and Lower Manhattan A. L. officials selected their representatives, but officials in the Bronx decided to defer for a week announcement of the runners who will compete for the B. A. L.

Peter Zabludofsky of the Morningside A. C. had the distinction of leading the pack in the Harlem A. L. race over a five-mile course, held under the auspices of the Alpha P. C. C. Zabludofsky, racing over the ice-covered streets in surprising form, covered the distance in 30:55, annexing the premier position from George Williams of the St. Christopher Club, with a determined spurt in the last fifty yards. Williams followed fifteen seconds after Zabludofsky. B. Segreto of the Morningside A. C. was third in 31:17.

P. Zabludofsky, Morningside A. C., 30:55; George Williams, St. Christopher Club, 31:10; Benjamin Segreto, Morningside A. C., 31:17; F. Silverstein, Glencoe A. C., 31:25; R. Morehead, Alpha P. C. C., 31:27; Harry Brown, Harbrook Heights A. C., 31:50; W. Stokeley, St. Christopher Club, 32:05; J. Goff, St. Christopher Club, 32:15; Wilson Jackson, St. Christopher Club, 32:30; C. Jackson, Alpha P. C. C., 32:34; Max Tea, Glencoe A. C., 32:35; Clifford Mitchell, St. Christopher Club, 32:40; George Thompson, St. Christopher Club, 32:50; Archie Pohring, Morningside A. C., 33:05; A. Richman, Glencoe A. C., 34:15.

Pat Flynn of the Paulist A. C., a veteran of the famous Fighting 69th Regiment, led the field which competed in the Lower Manhattan A. L. race, held over the Paulist A. C. course of about four miles. This race developed into a test between members of the Paulist A. C., because of the fact that other clubs in the league failed to nominate starters. Flynn, James McNeil and Eddie Walsh had an interesting struggle from start to finish of the course, the Celtic runner gaining the decision by about fifteen yards. Flynn's time was 20:55.

Patrick Flynn, 20:55; James McNeil, 21:00; Edward Walsh, 21:05; J. Phillips, 21:15; J. Costello, 21:20; George Kirkwood, 22:00; J. Giorgio, 22:10; W. Schippel, 22:17; J. Mullarkey, 22:30; M. Nye, 23:00; J. Cerine, 23:05.

J. Losgar of St. Anselm's A. C. showed his heels to eleven rivals in the invitation race of the Bronx Athletic League, held over a five-mile course under the auspices of the Mohawk A. C. Because of the small field, however, and the absence of several of the league's star runners, no team selections were made. Losgar won by a comfortable margin from James McGuinness of the Mohawk A. C. in 27:28.

The order of finish follows:

J. Losgar, St. Anselm's A. C., 27:28; James McGuinness, Mohawk A. C., 27:39; W. Deegan, St. Anselm's A. C., 28:10; J. Warnes, St. Anselm's A. C., 28:26; M. Russo, St. Anselm's A. C., 28:33; M. J. Dwyer, Mohawk A. C., 28:39; C. A. Heil, Mohawk A. C., 29:11; B. Schiavone, Mohawk A. C., 29:26; S. Magliane, St. Francis Catholic Union, 29:45; C. W. Kapp, Mohawk A. C., 29:53; J. Donahue, Mohawk A. C., 30:17; W. Boak, Mohawk A. C., 30:18.

JOHNNY GRIFFITHS BACK.

Fighter Believes Carpentier Has No Chance to Beat Dempsey.

Johnny Griffiths, the welterweight boxer from Akron, Ohio, whose ambition is to beat Jack Britton, the champion, returned yesterday from Paris and London by the French liner France with three knockouts, one decision, and a draw to his credit.

While he was in Paris Griffiths said he saw a good deal of Carpentier, the French champion heavyweight, and watched his fighting carefully. "He is very quick," Griffiths said, "and has got a punch, but in my opinion he would not stand a real chance against Dempsey. If it comes to a match between the two I think that Carpentier might manage to last six rounds, but that would be his extreme limit.

"I knocked out Francis Charles in three rounds, Bill Glover in three rounds, and Marcel Thomas in ten rounds. I fought fifteen rounds with Kid Doyle in London to a draw and won a decision after twenty rounds from Albert Badou, the champion welterweight fighter of Europe."

Will Grapple with Lewis—Londos Tackles Chevalier.

An interesting double wrestling bill is to be offered at Madison Square Garden tonight. Earl Caddock, former champion, will meet Strangler Lewis, while Joe Londos, Greek champion, will clash with Salvatore Chevalier, French champion. Both matches will be to a finish, one fall to decide.

The only other time that Caddock and Lewis have met was with a two-hour limit. The match went to the limit, and Caddock received the referee's decision without gaining a fall. Ever since that time keen rivalry has existed between the pair. Caddock is known as "the man with a thousand holds." His specialty is a head scissors, and no one has ever got away from that hold once the Iowa star clamped it on. Caddock comes to the professional mat game via the amateur route. He won the world's amateur championship in San Francisco during the Panama Exposition Olympian games and won in three classes, namely, the middleweight, the light heavyweight and heavyweight classes.

Chevalier at the last show made a very creditable showing with Caddock. Chevalier has trained hard for this match and promises a big surprise for the followers of Londos.

ASK READJUSTMENT OF OLYMPIC PLANS

Americans Seek Extension of Time for Hockey Entry and Change in Rowing Rule.

The first step in the effort to secure an adjustment of Olympic Games plans, which would more favorably appeal to the American Olympic Committee and be in closer accord with conditions generally in this country, was taken yesterday at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the American Olympic Committee, at the New York A. C. Following a discussion of the situation which confronts this country, cablegrams were dispatched to the Belgian Olympic officials seeking modification of the plans adopted for hockey and rowing.

In hockey the American Olympic Committee cabled the entry of one team, which will consist of seven players and a similar number of substitutes, the limit number of entries provided in the official Olympic Games program. In view of the fact that no entry blanks have yet been received in this country, the names of prospective members of the team were not included. Moreover, the officials have not yet selected their team. The choice rests among players of Boston, Pittsburgh, and St. Paul.

For this reason a delay has been requested until April 5, when the committee will be prepared to submit the names of the players who will make the trip. This would leave a space of fifteen days between the entry of the individual players and the beginning of the Olympic hockey games, which will open the program in Antwerp April 20 and continue to April 30.

The other cablegram informed the Belgian officials of the desire of this country to be represented in every event scheduled and strongly urged that the conditions be changed so as to permit of the entrance of two crews for each nation instead of one as provided in the official program. The cablegram was as follows:

"America desires to enter every rowing event. Seasonal and collegiate conditions make it impossible to conduct elimination contests for college and club eights. We therefore urge strongly that two entries per nation be permitted. Immediate decision necessary, otherwise all American representation in rowing seriously imperiled."

The rowing entries close July 5. The Olympic events will be held between Aug. 27 and 29. A complicated situation is presented, therefore, which threatens the effectiveness of American participation. The collegiate rowing season terminates in June and it would be a difficult task to keep the student oarsmen in training until the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen regatta which is held in July. It is planned to make the N. A. A. O. regatta a part of the rowing tryouts and possibly select other members of the team from among the collegiate oarsmen. This latter contingency, however, depends on the action taken on the request for permission to enter two crews.

In track and field athletics the American Committee is proceeding on the assumption that their request for a change in the conditions of entrance will be granted. The track and field entries are scheduled to close July 14. This date is three days earlier than the date of the American tryouts, which will be held in Cambridge July 17.

'PLANES FROM NINE COLLEGES TO RACE

Each Member of Flying Association Will Be Allowed to Enter Two Airships.

Under the terms of the rules drawn up at a meeting of the Intercollegiate Flying Association held at the American Flying Club, each college which is a member of the association will be permitted to enter two airplanes in the intercollegiate air field day. The principal event of the meet will be a race to start at Mineola on May 7. This race will be over a closed circuit from Mineola to New Haven, to Cambridge, to Williamstown, to Ithaca, to Princeton, to Mineola.

The complete membership of the Intercollegiate Flying Association now comprises Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Princeton, Williams, Rutgers, Cornell, University of Pennsylvania and the University of Pittsburgh. Each will be entered in the race. The last four were admitted as charter members of the association last Saturday. A number of Middle Western colleges are also expected to enter in the race, which will be an annual event.

The question whether or not it will be possible to hold an Olympic air race to be participated in by colleges of every nation is already being considered. The idea is to offer a cup as the prize for the international intercollegiate meet, the winning nation to hold the cup until it has been captured again by another country. The next meeting of the association will be held on April 5, when it is expected that final rules and plans of the race will be announced.

NICKALLS BOATS SIX CREWS.

Yale Coach Has Five Veterans in 'Varsity Shell.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 14.—Guy Nickalls, Yale's rowing coach, has made a tentative selection of six crews from among the candidates training under his direction, it was announced tonight. Workouts will continue indoors until the weather allows practice on New Haven Harbor. Three shells were on the harbor one afternoon last week for the only outdoor drill so far.

The first 'Varsity crew as named by Coach Nickalls included four oarsmen who rowed on it last year, as well as the veteran coxswain, Carson. It is as follows:

Bow, D. G. Driscoll, St. Paul, Minn.; No. 2, G. P. Ellis, Hartford, Conn.; No. 3, F. H. Lovejoy, Montclair, N. J.; No. 4, J. H. Flagg, Hackensack, N. J.; No. 5, J. J. Schleffelin, New York; No. 6, Philip Allen, Providence, R. I.; No. 7, J. S. Moulton, New Haven, Conn.; stroke, C. C. Peters (captain), Seattle, Wash.; coxswain, Robert Carson, Pittsburgh.

Who Discovered RICORO?
Told by a Theatrical Manager

"..... Each puff deserves an encore—and the price brings down the house"

"A Dramatic Critic discovered the Ricoro cigar," said the Theatrical Manager—"and it was the best thing that bird ever did.

"It was on the opening night of 'The Music Master' when I spotted this fellow smoking in the wings. Before I recognized him I hissed, 'Hey, no smoking! Lay off that cigar!' and regretted my brusqueness as soon as I saw who he was.

"Later, I met him in the green room and apologized. 'No offense—no offense,' he laughed. 'I'm an inveterate smoker, and have a cigar going most of the time. Try one of 'em—see if you blame me!'

"I lighted up—and, Shades of Booth! It was some cigar! When he said it was a Ricoro, and that I could buy 'em for only 10 cents at any United Cigar Store, it was as pleasant a surprise as the two-column boost he gave the show next morning!"

Sooner or later you'll discover Ricoro—You'll be astounded at the quality of Ricoro. It is a beautifully made cigar of rich tropic fragrance and gentle mildness.

The popular prices of Ricoro are made possible because it is imported from Porto Rico duty free. A dozen sizes and shapes—8c to 3 for 50c. Sold only in United Cigar Stores—"Thank You!"

FINANCIAL SITUATION

Sentiment in Respect to International Credit and Industrial Outlook Improves.

The stimulating effect of last week's developments upon the financial markets was all the more pronounced because of the uncertainty and rather gloomy foreboding which had existed since the year began. Of domestic moment, the Supreme Court's decision on stock dividends stood in the foreground as an influence to increase speculation in securities. This, however, was of less real value as far as fundamental matters of industry and credit were concerned than other events. The fact that the highest court declared dividends paid in stock were free of income tax paves the way for corporations with swollen surplus accounts to distribute to stock owners extra certificates of participation in surplus and in the corporations' business. Such dividends will not add anything to new production, nor will they add to a corporation's credit facilities. Theoretically, the issuing companies could have paid as large cash dividends upon current amounts of stock as upon the increased shares after stock dividends are paid out. What was of greater importance than the decision itself was the fillip to financial sentiment which the court ruling provided. And it happened that it came at the moment when influences of international significance were getting actively at work. The cables were bringing news that the Supreme Council at London, dealing with after-war rehabilitation, was devoting serious attention to united assistance to Germany in getting back on her industrial feet. Also the country was informed by a British Government spokesman that the Anglo-French loan, falling due next October, would be paid off and that preparations were already being forwarded to this end.

When the history of the international money market for the first quarter of 1920 can be viewed in retrospect it is likely that this announcement will be accorded a place of prominence for its influence upon financial thought. In the great decline of sterling which established the quotation of 3.19 on Feb. 4 speculation which considered superficial things undoubtedly supplied much force. At the same time it is probable that apprehension lest the $500,000,000 obligation could not be met without recourse to fresh borrowing in this country helped shape the position of bankers in regard to the exchanges. Or if bankers did not stress the possibility of a heavy demand upon American credit, they were fearful of the dumping of securities upon the American market from British and French sources as the sellers accumulated balances here to a degree which would disorganize security values. But from the present viewpoint the maturity of the loan is to be met in a careful and normal fashion. Securities undoubtedly will be disposed of here—they have been coming upon the market for weeks past. Great Britain and France will speed up their exports to the United States as rapidly as possible. To make up whatever difference exists between balances accumulated by Oct. 1 and the amount of the loan to be retired they will send gold. At this time no one may estimate how much of the metal will be necessary. Nor is it known on this side whether the shipments will begin soon or not until the due date approaches.

It has been enough that the surety of gold transfers is established for sterling exchange to be lifted to a point as high as 3.81 in the last few days, the highest level of the year. Last week the gross gain in the check rate was 28 cents to the pound, and the removal of nearly half this full enhancement in late dealings still left the quotation at a point considered comfortable in comparison with February figures. Reference to the week's occurrences would not be complete without considering intangible as well as tangible matters. Today the first installment of income taxes for the year is to be paid, comprising an estimated inflow into the Treasury in all parts of the country of $1,000,000,000 or more. There is an offset in the liquidation of a substantial amount of Treasury certificates by the Government, but at the same time the Treasury is offering an unlimited amount of new certificates with 4¾ per cent. interest. It is not too much to say that bankers would prefer to see the new paper put out at a higher rate of interest, conforming to the cost of credit in commercial and sound investment lines. Yet it is believed that a round total of the certificates will be taken, and with all the strain which might be expected to accompany the union of these various transactions there was no feeling at the week ended that money and credit would be sharply restricted for any length of time. In fact, the impression prevailed in some foresighted quarters that the redeposits of tax money in the banks would work for freer supplies of funds for temporary loans.

The purchase of more than $2,000,000 gold by a local banking firm on the London market points toward the flow of substantial amounts of the Transvaal metal to this country. Coincident with the rise of sterling there has been a sharp fall of the gold premium at the British centre, and whether or not this development has forced Indian and South American bidders out of the auction market for the time being, it looks as though they are not competing with American buyers. Significance may be attached to the fact that the gold inflow has not aroused discussion of a new expansion of credit to be based upon it. On the contrary, banking opinion seems to be unanimous that additions of South African gold to our bank reserve must be used solely to strengthen the reserve, which has been depleted steadily this year by exports to South America and the Far East. Co-operation between commercial bankers and the Federal Reserve authorities in deflating credit is being made more and more evident by reports from centres of manufacturing and distribution. In that lies much encouragement. Loans are being scrutinized closely, credit lines are being contracted instead of expanded, which are processes to find early reflection in bank statements.

The effect of abnormally high prices is coming into evidence in some of the primary markets. The general level of commodity prices on March 1 was lower than a month before. A single month does not tell enough to be the basis of calculations, but the consumer may find comfort in declines of certain goods which previously had been heading upward in a persistent fashion. Hides and leather, some textiles, a number of foodstuffs and pig iron are less firm than six weeks ago. The domestic demand continues on a vast scale and one must needs study the export situation to find a reason for gradually receding prices. Ships sailing to European ports are reported lightly loaded, and it is expected that the February import figures will disclose an increased flow of foreign products. These items are suggestive of stable European exchange rates, but their bearing upon profits of domestic producers is hardly open to estimate as yet.

AMERICA'S TANKER FLEET

Development of the American merchant marine is reflected in tanker tonnage now under the United States flag. From 54 ships of 198,630 gross tonnage in June, 1914, the number had increased to 188 ships of 1,013,051 gross tonnage in June, 1919.

Great Britain with 192 ships of 859,969 gross tonnage in 1914 now has 252 ships of 1,300,390 gross tonnage. Germany's tanker tonnage has decreased from 45 ships of 213,768 gross tonnage in 1914 to 12 ships of 56,634 gross tonnage. American ships now carry a large part of the world's oil.

SHORTAGE OF SILVER DISTURBS MEXICO

Scarcity of Gold Currency Also Reported — Temporary Paper Issues Used.

MANY INDUSTRIES ACTIVE

Cotton Factories Offer Market for American Dyestuffs—Other Mills Busy.

The most serious phase of the Mexican financial situation is the great shortage of silver currency and to some extent a shortage of gold pieces of 2 and 2½ pesos, according to an article put out by the First National Bank of Boston, which discusses conditions in Mexico. The article in part says:

"In order to relieve the situation the Monetary Commission on Feb. 2 began to issue 'vales' on bank note paper, of a face value of 50 centavos, and on Feb. 19 it began the issue of 1-peso vales. This is the first paper money that the Monetary Commission has issued. This institution is operated as a private bank, and has eighteen or twenty branches throughout Mexico. It is the only authorized bank of issue in Mexico. It mints copper coins of values from 1 to 20 centavos, but the minting of silver coins has been suspended.

"The issuance of these 'vales' has relieved the situation in Mexico City to a large extent, but there is a prejudice against paper money, and this has not yet been received favorably outside the city, although there has scarcely been time for the people to become acquainted with them. The scarcity of small coins is such that for both copper and silver coins a premium of 10 per cent. is being paid in Mexico City. The Monetary Commission is authorized to issue 'vales' to the extent of 25,000,000 pesos, but up to Feb. 22 only about 830,000 pesos has been issued. In Guadalajara banks are paying 12 to 15 per cent. premium for silver coins; 7 per cent for 2-peso gold pieces; 5 per cent. for 2½ pesos; 2½ per cent. for 5 pesos, and par for everything above that denomination.

"The banking situation in Mexico has been greatly disturbed. When paper currency started to depreciate big banks with considerable loans outstanding and large deposits, found it necessary to accept payment of their loans in depreciated paper, but found it very difficult to get their depositors to accept this paper in settlement of their deposits. This and other reasons forced them to discontinue loans, to refuse to accept deposits, and finally to close their doors. The largest of these institutions, the Banco Nacional, was a privately owned corporation, with sixty branches in the country. Some of these banks are doing a small business in other lines, and it is expected that with the restoration of normal conditions a number will resume activity."

The bank's representatives in Mexico report that they have been surprised at the industrial activity they have found. Touching on this, the article continues:

"A rolling mill in the outskirts of Mexico City employs about 600 Mexicans and 26 foreigners. It has a capital of 3,000,000 pesos, assets of 5,000,000 pesos and does a business of 2,000 000 pesos per annum. It produces various metal products and buys in the United States nothing except absolutely necessary machinery. A paper mill some forty miles from Mexico City produces fifty tons a day, chiefly newsprint. It plans to enlarge its capacity and to export paper to the United States. Its Indian employes receive from 20 to 75 centavos a day or about 10 to 38 cents.

"There are three shoe factories in Mexico City, manufacturing 500 to 1,500 pairs of shoes a day, and there are many small factories in other parts of Mexico. The Mexicans follow closely the American fashions in footwear, and a considerable amount of shoes is imported, coming chiefly by parcel post.

"In the State of Puebla there are about fifty large cotton factories making stockings, cotton clothing and cloths. The largest cotton factory in Mexico is at Orizaba, in the State of Vera Cruz. These make a fine market for dyestuffs and chemicals, most of which are received from the United States. Mexican authorities do not believe that Germany will be a serious competitor in this line for a long time to come.

"The big properties of the United States Smelting and Refining Company are located at Pachuca and Real del Monte, on opposite slopes of the divide. The mines in this district are producing 2,000 000 ounces of silver a month, or 20 per cent. of the world's production. The Mexican Government levies an export duty of 5 per cent. on the gross value of the bars shipped from the mines.

"In Guadalajara no business is being done by Japanese, as has been alleged, and comparatively little by English. Some French houses import directly from France. There are no important Spanish houses."

Offer Oklahoma Gas Notes.

Bonbright & Co. and H. M. Byllesby & Co. are offering at 90¼, to yield more than 7¾ per cent., a new issue of $3,500,000 one-year 7 per cent. bond-secured gold notes of the Oklahoma Gas and Electric Company. The proceeds from the sale of the notes, with cash in the company's treasury, will be used to retire the $3,650 000 one-year notes, which fall due on April 1 this year.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The National City Company is offering at 100 and accrued dividend $2,500,000 Motor Wheel Corporation 8 per cent. cumulative first preferred stock exempt from property tax under Michigan laws. The company was being formed with an authorized capital of $5,000,000 8 per cent. preferred, of which the above will be outstanding, and $6,000,000 common stock (par value $10 a share) of which there is $5,001,640 outstanding, to take over four-wheel and parts manufacturing companies.

It has been announced that approximately 90 per cent. of the preferred stock of the California Packing Corporation has been deposited for conversion into the common shares of the company. This privilege, which expires March 2, gives the holder the right to receive 1½ shares of the common for every share of preferred.

The Bank of New York National Banking Association, the oldest bank in the State, announces the 166th anniversary of its organization. The bank was organized by Alexander Hamilton in March, 1784, being chartered as a national bank in June, 1865.

Spruille Braden has been elected a member of the Board of Directors of the American Ship and Commerce Corporation.

Aldred & Co. have announced that the $2,000,000 8 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of the New York Dry Dock Corporation, recently offered at $96.50 for one share of preferred and 1-10 share of common, has been sold.

MUST AID THE WORLD, DECLARES DANIELS

Tells Midshipmen America Would Otherwise Be Unworthy of Men Who Died in War.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 14—America must assume some gigantic task of world service, or be "recreant to the consecration we made on April 6, 1917," Secretary Daniels said here today, speaking to the Midshipmen of the Naval Academy.

"The problem of world statesmanship today," he said, "is to find some task that will fire the national imagination and ennoble national enthusiasm. What shall it be? Can we escape our responsibility for aiding in securing the conditions for peace in the Balkans? Is it our duty to accept a mandatory for Turkey with the blessings to the world that would follow? Is it our job to give more aid in the development of Mexico and our central and South American neighbors.

"One thing is true; America must find a task of world blessing, and mobilize itself for its accomplishment without selfish aim, or we shall be recreant to the consecration we made on April 6, 1917, and be unworthy to claim fellowship with the youths who sealed their devotion to free government with their blood."

TO EXTEND K. OF C. SCHOOLS

Plan Is Adopted for More Night Vocational Classes.

A conference of Knights of Columbus educators was held yesterday at the Hotel Commodore to discuss ways and means for the extension of the K. of C. system of night vocational schools. The schools are growing at an unexpected rate, fifty-three of them now being in operation in different States, equally distributed between the East and the West. An official of the Knights said that the demand for more schools had resulted in the adoption of a plan to meet the situation reported at the conference. In cities of more than 500,000 population the organization reported 2,500 students, all ex-service men, in the free schools.

James A. Flaherty, Supreme Knight of the order, issued a statement calling attention to a pamphlet setting forth a spurious fourth degree "oath." Mr. Flaherty, declaring that the K. of C. intended vigorous prosecution in the courts of those found responsible for circulating the pamphlet, gave the text of the genuine oath. The text disclosed that candidates were sworn to uphold the Constitution and to work at all times for better citizenship, through greater Americanism.

Lawyers Asked to Aid Sailors.

To prevent further sentencing of innocent men at naval courts-martial by providing adequate counsel for the accused the Navy Legal Aid Association is sending a plea to members of the New York Bar Association for assistance. Emery C. Weiler, Executive Chairman of the association, says hundreds of innocent sailors plead guilty to charges yearly because of the futility of securing competent counsel. Lawyers who desire to volunteer their services are requested to send their names to the Secretary of the Navy Legal Aid Association, 13 East Forty-first Street, New York City.

STRIKES CUT PROFITS OF MIDVALE STEEL

Income Last Year Fell to $5.28 a Share Against $14.60 in 1918.

PRODUCTION 50 PER CENT.

The uncertain business conditions prevailing during the early part of 1919, together with the disruption caused in the latter part of the year because of the steel strike and the subsequent strike of the coal miners, seriously interfered with the operations of the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company, according to the fourth annual report which has just made its appearance. Taking the year as a whole, the total production was only about 50 per cent. of normal. Net earnings from operations, after all expenses, repairs, maintenance and the like, and Federal taxes, were $16,787,254. With other income derived from securities, commercial interests and discounts, the total income is brought up to $19,064,885. In the preceding year the total income was $32,036,929.

After provision for depreciation, fixed charges and guaranteed dividends, the net income last year was $10,588,605, which was equivalent to $5.28 a share on the capital stock outstanding. In the preceding year, the net income in terms of the stock was $14.60 a share. Taking the par value of the stock, $50, into account, the net income last year was equivalent to 10.59 per cent. as compared with 29.20 per cent. in 1918. The provision for depreciation, obsolescence and mine exhaustion in the current report is $5,334,743, or a decrease of approximately $4,000,000 from the same item as shown in the preceding year.

The balance sheet shows total current assets of $107,990,609 as compared with $120,749,168 in the preceding year, while total current liabilities were $20,628,158. Thus net working capital at the close of last year was $87,432,451 as compared with $91,084,353 in 1918. Outstanding items contained in the balance shee as of Dec. 31, 1919, follow:

	1919.	1918.
Cash	5,803,880	8,426,496
Customers' accounts	8,209,588	21,8-2,940
Marketable securities	40,003,803	38,526,954
Surplus (unappropriated)	53,308,703	53,720,097

The average number of employes and expenditures, as set forth in the report, showed a total payroll of $39,827,922, as compared with $59,304,724 in the preceding year. The average number of employes in 1919 was 22,955, while the average wage per employe per year was $1,734, the highest the company has ever known. In the preceding year the average was $1,722. Gross tons of steel products shipped in the year fell off to 826,925, as compared with 1,488,374 tons in 1918, while the wages paid for each ton of steel product shipped out of the company's plant was $46.07, as compared with $39.44 in the year before.

William E. Corey, Chairman, and A. C. Dinkey, President of the company, in their remarks to stockholders reviewed the company's activities regarding homes for its employes, and it was stated that of the $2,500,000 set aside by the company to further its home building plan, $1,026,033 had been expended in loans to 356 employes, who will liquidate their indebtedness to the company over a period of not more than twelve years.

The report shows that the general steel strike seriously curtailed the company's operation for about seven weeks at Johnstown, Pa.

"Since the first of January, 1920," the report says, "our mills have been operating at the rate of about 75 per cent. of capacity, and we have grave doubts whether the operations can be increased, due to labor conditions, and the absolute necessity for making repairs and renewals, especially at Johnstown, to insure economical operations."

MAY SAVE 8 BILLION FRANCS.

French Ministers Find That Budget May Be Cut This Amount.

PARIS, March 14 (Havas.)—At a meeting of the Council of Ministers today, presided over by President Deschanel, the financial situation was discussed.

It is said to be possible to realize a saving of about 8,000 000,000 francs in the budget expenses for 1920.

Minimizing Fluctuations Of Earnings

Hydro-electric companies are least subject to widely fluctuating earnings when ample supplies of water power are available. This factor has been predominant in the development of the Far Western companies which have enjoyed continuing uninterrupted success.

Consider the essential features which protect the first mortgage bondholders:

(c) A major portion of the generated electricity produced from unfailing water power which does not entail excessive labor requirements or cause companies embarrassment through rising prices of fuel.

These are some of the reasons which prompt the serious consideration of conservative investors who appreciate the utmost in security.

California Packing

PREFERRED STOCK CONVERSION

MORE than 90% of the Preferred Stock of the California Packing Corporation has been deposited for conversion into Common. This fact clearly indicates that the vast majority of the holders of senior shares have confidence in the possibilities of price appreciation of the Common.

Although all outstanding Preferred will be redeemed on April 1st at 115, this large majority of holders has taken advantage of the exchange privilege which permits their acquiring Common Stock on a basis of one and a half shares for each share of Preferred. Indications are that these converted shares will be held as an investment, as the margin of profit resulting from their sale at prices recently prevailing, would not exceed the amount received at the redemption figure.

Such expression of confidence should be of especial interest to investors generally, who appreciate the value of an issue that possesses unusual assurance of dividend safety, and in addition, attractive profit possibilities.

Four million logs are floated each year down the rivers of Norway, the land of timber and iron, from the inland forests.

The twelve thousand miles of coast were the haven of the old Vikings, whose name meant "Sons of Calm Water." Life to-day centres about the fiords. Arctic whaling, salmon and mackerel fishing, lumbering, manufactures of wood, pulp and paper, are most generally engaged in.

WARFIELD PROPOSES 3 RAILWAY BOARDS

Report Asks Directors, Shippers and Securities Owners Committees on Policies.

TECHNICAL PROBLEMS PLAN

Would Refer Them to American Railroad Association—Executives Criticised.

Suggestions made by S. Davies Warfield, President of the Association of Owners of Railroad Securities, for the formation of three committees to decide the future public and legislative policies of the carriers, have been approved by various committees of the Association, and are being forwarded to members today, in a long report. They call for a committee of Railroad Directors, one of shippers, and one representing the Association. Mr. Warfield also suggests that the American Railroad Association, of which R. H. Aishton is President, should be able to solve the technical problems of the carriers in the months to come. The report is a review of the activities of the Association since its formation, and Mr. Warfield criticises the activities of railroad executives quite sharply. The recommendations which have been adopted read as follows:

"That we communicate with the Directors of Class I railroads, suggesting that the board of each road name a Director from its number to serve on a committee, to be known as 'Committee of Railroad Directors.' This Committee of Directors to name a smaller committee composed of not more than twenty Directors. The Committee of twenty to name a sub-committee of, say, seven. The members of these committee to be selected geographically.

"That there shall be referred to this Committee the questions of policy, both public and legislative, with which the railroads will have to deal, also matters of legislative financial policy in respect to the railroads as a whole. The members of this Committee should be composed of Directors in touch with general business and financial conditions.

"That the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities will designate a committee to meet with the Committee of Directors and discuss matters properly before the two bodies so constituted. Action jointly taken to be binding on both.

"That the organization known as the American Railroad Association, with headquarters at Chicago and now maintained by the railroads, presents the means of solving the technical problems that arise from time to time and which affect all the railroads and in the disposition of which all the railroads could concur, and such matters may be disposed of by that association. R. H. Aishton, among the ablest railroad executives in the country, is President of that association.

"That the larger shipping organizations of the country be asked to name a committee from among their executive or other committees as a standing committee to confer with a like committee to be appointed by the Executive Committee of this association to take up matters proper to be considered by the owners of the properties with those upon whom their business depends."

Mr. Warfield says in the report discussing the new railroad law:

"The responsibilities devolving upon the association, growing out of the enactment of this legislation, are very great, for it contains substantially every fundamental for which the association stood from the outset. If the enactment of this law could alone solve the problems of the railroads, the association's activities might end with its passage. But no law can function automatically. Few statutes have been enacted by Congress upon the successful administration of which so much depends and with results so far-reaching. Private ownership and operation of the rail transportation system of the country is at stake. Whatever its defects, no other country has prospered as this has under the private operation of its railroads. Yet Government ownership may result although the country is overwhelmingly opposed to it, from failure to carry out the intent and purposes of this law."

The report also says:

"The records show that the representatives of the railroads had committed themselves irrevocably to compulsory Federal incorporation and other disturbing measures as the basis of their past and present desires in Congressional legislation. It had been sufficiently proven to the satisfaction of your Executive Committee that apart from its unpopularity with the public and its dangers to the railroads compulsory Federal incorporation was unconstitutional. The association secured as advisory counsel, in addition to its general counsel, Messrs. Elihu Root and John G. Milburn (New York), Jolin S. Miller (Chicago), Hugh L. Bond, Jr. (Baltimore, Md.), and Forney Johnston (Birmingham, Ala.). You are familiar with the unanimity with which these lawyers as well as our general counsel pronounced compulsory Federal incorporation unconstitutional; in addition it would lead to endless litigation."

Among those who attended a recent meeting of the association and approved the report were Haley Fiske, President Metropolitan Life Insurance Company; John J. Pulleyn, President Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank; A. W. Kreech, President Equitable Trust Company; A. W. Loasby, Vice President Equitable Trust Company; Gates W. McGarrah, President Mechanics and Metals National Bank; J. N. McCrea, Vice President Bankers Trust Company; John Henry Hammond of Brown Brothers & Co., Samuel L. Fuller of Kissel-Kinnicutt & Co.; Thomas A. Buckner, Vice President (representing Darwin P. Kingsley, President) New York Life Insurance Company; C. Ledyard Blair of Blair & Co.; Charles G. Smith, President German-American Insurance Company; N. E. Fransklin of the Kny-Scheerer Corporation; W. J. Tully, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and James Speyer of Speyer & Co., all of New York. Many out of town insurance Presidents and bankers attended.

Steamer Afire, with Gasoline Cargo.

PANAMA, March 13.—The United States Shipping Board steamer Clockson, bound from Philadelphia for Vladivostok and Yokohama with a cargo of 2,000,000 gallons of gasoline, is on fire off Cape Mala, on the northern side of the Gulf of Panama, and the crew was taken off this afternoon by the United States cruiser Tacoma. The Marna, a sister ship of the Clockson, has been the victim of two similar fires, the origin of which has not been explained.

TO FIGHT INDUSTRIAL COURT

American Labor Party Plans Opposition to Adams Bill.

It was announced yesterday that opposition to the Adams bill in the State Legislature, the intent of which is to establish industrial courts for the settlement of labor disputes, will be started tonight at a mass meeting of the American Labor Party, 243 East Eighty-fourth Street. The bill, it was said, will be fought by trades unionists, who believe that its effect will be the outlawing of the strike as a method for increasing wages and improving industrial conditions. John Fitch, industrial writer and investigator, and a member of the Research Committee of the American Labor Party, will address the meeting.

"The Adams bill is only one symptom of a nation-wide tendency to rob the worker of his right to strike," declared William Kohn, Chairman of the American Labor Party, yesterday.

Republic of France

Progress in the recovery of France from the World War has already given fresh evidence of the characteristic vitality of the French people.

We are receiving subscriptions for account of the French Government to

The New French Internal 5% Loan of 1920

Redeemable within 50 years by semi-annual drawings beginning September 16th, 1920, at 150% which is equivalent to 1500 francs for each 1000-franc bond

Subscriptions are payable in dollars at the rate of exchange fixed each day by the French Financial Agency in the United States, which is based on the closing rate of exchange for the previous day. This price will be announced daily in these advertisements.

Price Today $74.35 per 1000-Franc Bond

At the normal rate of exchange the cost of this bond to the American investor would be $193

Our interim receipts calling for temporary bonds of the French Government will be issued against payment in full in dollars.

Your Canadian Deposits

The increasing strength of Canada's investment field offers an attractive channel for the profitable employment of United States balances on deposit in Canada.

Canadian Victory Loan Bonds, the most conservative of investments, commands attention, in view of the remarkably liberal yield and the absolute security.

We offer:—Province of Saskatchewan
4's due July 1st, 1923—Yield 7½%.

G. T. P. Branch Lines
Guaranteed by Province of Saskatchewan.
4's due Jan. 1st, 1939—Yield 7¼%.

City of Toronto
4's due July, 1948—Yield 6.60%.

We, also, have various Provincial and Municipal Bonds of similar stability—the guarantee of the people of Canada is behind them.

Principal and interest are returnable at par in the U. S. You are invited to write or wire us for information.

Railway Terminal Bonds

The terminals of trunk line railways in great cities are indispensable and cannot be duplicated except at prohibitive cost.

Bonds which represent a first mortgage upon such property are strongly secured. We are now offering several terminal bond issues which afford liberal yields at present prices.

FAITH IN FUTURE GRIPS ARCHITECTS

Leaders Explain Why Labor Disturbances Fail to Halt Projects.

CONGRESS MAY CUT COSTS

Excess Profits Tax Substitute Would Stimulate Building Material Production.

Men who occupy foremost places in the Eastern architectural profession were asked to point out some of the things they see in process of development that are proving to be curative influences in the convalescent building construction industry.

Foremost among the factors that are responsible for persistent confidence in the immediate future of the building industry is that relating to supply and price of materials. It is known that the demand will tax supply for a long time to come, but the speediest way to absorb this demand is to meet it with supply. Actual construction work is progressing only as fast as materials are being delivered. At present production is slightly in excess of shipment and delivery, due to car shortage on railroads, but competition among railroads is happily clearing this situation. It will be only a short while before shipments, for a time, will exceed production. Then will come the full realization of the real stampede for building materials that has been deferred for more than a year.

Actual construction work, regardless of plan filings and building permits reported, will develop only as the supply of building materials can be augmented. But any marked stimulus in this direction can be expected only when retardant legislation is lifted from the shoulders of the producers themselves. Here seems to rest the real answer to the housing and commercial space shortage problem.

Under the excess profits tax plan there is no incentive to produce enough building materials to meet the greatest demand of its kind the world has ever known.

Leading architects are almost of a single voice in accord with some plan that will reawaken the interest of the building material producer, to quicken his activity, in the form of a fair but continuous profit on his production, instead of the shimmering bauble typified by a more or less questionable and fickled reward, such as unnatural and exhorbitant prices taken from the pockets of a home-hungry populace.

Recent action toward this end has been stimulated by the growing and somewhat alarming tendency of financiers to pull apart from building investments in favor of municipals, which escape all the harassing and unnecessary burdens of investment common to those in building activities.

The hopeful eyes of the building world, according to The Dow Service Daily Building Reports, are centred upon a bill introduced into the House of Representatives in Washington to substitute for the excess profits tax a very small tax on consumption or "turn-over" of all business throughout continental United States. It is only a 25 cent tax on every $100 worth of sales or fraction thereof, the collection to be performed in a simple manner.

As the crying need of the day, especially the hope for a speedy solution of the space shortage throughout the country, centres in a demand for vastly increased production of building materials (and so bring down the soaring costs for most construction products), it seems to those in the architectural and engineering professions and in the building industry who have expressed themselves on this subject, that the provisions of this bill offers the quickest way out of the national enigma.

In the interim valiant efforts are being made to hold the building material price situation in hand. There is a slight shrinkage in plate glass discounts, the quotation being 55 per cent. on sizes below five square feet and 60 on prices for sizes over that limit, but as a matter of fact the market is so shrunken today that any quotation is merely a nominal one, which is also true to a degree in the wire lath market. Common brick is firm at $25 wholesale, with the usual additional charge for handling, carting and 15 per cent. for delivery. There is still hope for an early adjustment of the differences existing between the bricklayers and their employers. Second hand brick, however, which has been quoted at $54 for a load of 3,000, has been sold at $50, but here again quotations are hardly more than nominal. Linseed oil has gone up slightly.

The struggle between the eastern New Jersey building material dealers and their organized help has resulted in a general open-shop declaration being promulgated in order to permit building material deliveries to be made on jobs awaiting material.

The steel situation is showing more activity, with most of the construction market disposed to continue its placidity with regard to differences between organized labor and their employers, but with a general support of the faction that will first permit building to proceed. Barreled lime is being sold subject to price in effect when order is shipped, whether by rail or water.

General conditions controlling the building material price and supply markets indicate ample supply for immediate needs. Prices are steady, but exceedingly firm. They invite immediate acceptance under sellers' conditions and terms. Less and less is heard of premiums, but this condition might quickly return if the building material producer is not encouraged to throw in his complete capacity and the building investor is shooed into other investment markets.

STATE BANKS GAIN HEAVILY.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 14.—Institutions under the supervision of the New York State Banking Department had a remarkable growth during the year ended last Dec. 31, according to the annual report made public today of George I. Skinner, State Superintendent of Banks. He reported that the resources of State banking institutions amounted to $8,152,977,961, representing an increase for the year of $1,461,062,908.

Trust companies retain first place among State banking institutions in both resources and deposits, according to the report. Their total resources as reported Nov. 12, 1919, were $3,721,949,526, a gain of $909,977,717. Their total deposits on the same date were $2,685,355,812, a gain of $368,604,473.

Asks Old Garments for Children.

Miss Alice Nelsen, prima donna, who is assisting Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh of Washington in converting cast-off clothes and odd parts of material into all kinds of garments that are needed by the destitute children of Europe, has opened a branch office in this city at 1,425 Broadway. On behalf of Mrs. Walsh's organization yesterday she sent out an appeal for any sort of discarded things that may be used for this purpose.

TAXES MUST BE PAID BY MIDNIGHT TONIGHT

MORE WOMEN LIABLE NOW

Workingmen Prompt to Pay—"Mail Your Taxes" to Avoid Rush, Edwards Advises.

Midnight tonight is the close of the period for filing returns under the Federal and State income tax laws, although, in the case of the State tax, returns may be made up to March 31, under a ruling by the Controller, by paying 6 per cent. interest from March 15. Payments must be made with the returns. The Federal law requires an initial payment of at least one-fourth of the tax due. The State tax requires payment in full.

While no estimates were available yesterday, either from Collector William H. Edwards or State Controller Eugene M. Travis, it was predicted that the totals collected would show an enormous increase this year. An indication of this was given, Mr. Edwards said, in the number of returns filed, which exceeded by many thousands the total for last year, 348,315.

Both the Federal and State offices have been working to capacity since March 1, but today's final rush is expected to be overwhelming. Most of the larger individual taxpayers, as well as corporations, file their payments on the last day in order to save interest charges, and, therefore, the last day's payments usually exceed the total payments for the rest of the period. The State income tax is being collected this year for the first time, and many questions have arisen over its provisions, thus delaying payments in many cases until the last minute. Moreover, the State tax being new, the machinery for collecting it is not running as smoothly as the Federal organization.

Edwards Wants Tax Mailed.

Collector Edwards advises all who have not paid their tax to send it in by mail, but by check or money order. Cash is sent at risk of sender. Illness, unavoidable absence or absence abroad are the only three grounds for an extension of time allowance on Federal tax payments, Mr. Edwards said yesterday. Applications for extension should be addressed to the Collector of Internal Revenue, Custom House. No extension beyond thirty days will be granted, except on a full statement of facts to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue at Washington. For failure to make a return on time there is a penalty of $1,000, plus 25 per cent. of the tax due; for failure to pay the tax when due, or for understatement of the tax through negligence, there is a penalty of 5 per cent. of the tax, plus interest at 1 per cent. a month until paid.

Last week was the busiest within the history of the Internal Revenue Department, Collector Edwards said last night. The main office at the Custom House was swamped with returns, while the other branches at Broadway and Reade Streets, 28 West Twenty-third Street and 126th Street and Lenox Avenue carried their share of the final rush. The congestion was considerably relieved by the Collector's plan of placing income tax experts at the large department stores to aid people to make out their returns. Other experts were sent to clubhouses and public places. Two hundred clerks were working at the Custom House yesterday sorting the returns so as to be ready for the last day.

"There has been a remarkable increase in the number of women who have filed returns," Mr. Edwards said last night. "This is due to the increase in salaries and wages of women workers. In these days there are many thousands of single women who are making over $1,000 a year, which brings them in the income class.

"Moreover, the increased wages that have been paid to the day laborer and the ordinary workman makes him an income tax payer. I have noticed that these men are among the most prompt to pay their taxes, and seem to be proud of the fact that they are liable to the tax. The general public has been showing a wonderful co-operation. The women seem to immediately grasp the idea of the tax, and apparently were proud of their accomplishment.

State Tax Collected Easily.

The collection of the State income tax in this city has been under the supervision of John J. Elliott, whose headquarters are at 120 Broadway. In spite of the newness of the law, Mr. Elliott reports that considerably less difficulty than was anticipated has been experienced in the collection of the tax.

Preparations to ferrit out delinquents and persons who have understated their incomes are being made by both Federal and State authorities. The Federal Government already has an agency for this purpose—the Internal Revenue Agent's Department. Daniel L. Porter, Agent for this District, has under him several hundred men, who are preparing to go over all of the returns as soon as the Collector has completed his task of receiving money.

STOCK DIVIDENDS EXEMPT.

Those Who Have Paid Tax in This State Can Get Refund.

Stock dividends of corporations should not be included as income in taxpayers' returns under the New York personal income tax law, Controller Travis announced last night. Attorney General Newton has advised the Controller that while the Legislature unquestionably had power to tax stock dividends, in view of the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Eisner-Macomber case, holding that stock dividends do not constitute income to the stockholders within the meaning of the Sixteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution, the Legislature in passing the present income tax law, should not be considered to have intended to tax stock dividends.

"The Supreme Court has told us," says a statement by the Controller, "that Congress could not and consequently did not tax stock dividends, and I think that the Legislature in levying a tax upon 'incomes' intended to tax only those things which are commonly included in the term 'income' because the New York statute is couched in similar language to the Federal income act passed in 1913, which was interpreted in this recent Supreme Court decision.

"Taxpayers who have not filed returns should not include stock dividends as income, and those taxpayers who have filed returns and paid taxes on income from stock dividends may secure refund of such amount upon proper application to the Controller."

NIXON'S GAS ORDER DEFIED IN BROOKLYN

Kings County Lighting Company Refuses to Supply Service to New Applicants.

Announcement was made yesterday by Ralph Eisman, Vice President of the Kings County Lighting Company of Brooklyn, that the company was financially unable to comply with the Public Service Commission's order to provide gas to new applicants and would not obey the order unless its rate for gas was increased. Officials of the company have contended for the last two or three years that 80 cents a thousand cubic feet was insufficient to pay current expenses and an application for permission to increase the rate to $1.12 is now pending in the courts.

Mr. Eisman declared that city officials had blocked every attempt of the Public Service Commission to enable the company to give proper service. He charged that the company had been made a legal football by self-seeking politicians.

The order, which was issued on Saturday by Deputy Public Service Commissioner Morgan T. Donnelly on application of Mrs. Louisa G. Workman of 1,251 Forty-fifth Street, Brooklyn, directed the company to supply gas to all applicants in homes or places of business not more than 100 feet from the mains. The company serves the sections of Bath Beach, Bay Ridge, Borough Park and Fort Hamilton.

Terence Farley, counsel of the Public Service Commission, said that, if the company failed to obey the order, application for a mandamus to compel it to do so would be made to the Supreme Court. He stated that the company's application for increased rates recently had been reopened and was pending before Justice Greenbaum in Supreme Court.

"This company cannot and will not raise the necessary funds to finance the extensions and improvements necessary to supply these consumers under the statutory law now in effect," said Mr. Eisman. "It would be criminal to ask the people to invest their money in this company when we are compelled to sell our product below cost.

"The contract of my company for oil supply expires with in a short time. If I am unable to arrange a new contract and the supply of gas is stopped there is a grave possibility of many lives being needlessly sacrificed."

CALLS DR. HORNADAY 'AUTOCRAT' OF ZOO

Hirshfield Charges Abuses and Urges That City Take Over Institution.

POLITICS, SAYS THE DOCTOR

Declares Hylan Administration Wants to Get the Park Into the Hands of Spoilsmen.

Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield sent to the Mayor yesterday a report calling Director William T. Hornaday of the Bronx Zoological Garden an "autocrat," "a monarch in his own principality," and other names, charging abuses in connection with the purchase of supplies and the management of park privileges. He urged an investigation for the purpose of having the city take over the Bronx Zoo from the New York Zoological Society.

Dr. Hornaday said yesterday that the charges were falsities or distortions of fact and that the attack on him was part of an effort of the Hylan Administration to get the Bronx Zoo into the hands of political spoilsmen.

"Hirshfield's report," he said, "is the work of a narrow-minded cheap politician, who has not the slightest conception of a judicial investigation. The whole thing has been a travesty covering the purpose, which has been admitted by some of those interested in his scheme, to get political control of the park and put politicians they want to reward in charge of it.

"The alleged investigation has been going on eleven months or longer. Hirshfield has had as many as ten men loafing around the park trying to get rumors and gossip that he could put into that report. He has evidently filled it up with the grievances of discharged employes and other disgruntled persons, and most of the charges, I take it, answer themselves to the mind of any candid man.

"Hirshfield has refused repeatedly to allow me to testify at his so-called investigation, which has been held in camera, and has refused to hear my newbew, H. R. Mitchell, the chief clerk of the society.

"The whole thing is based on rotten testimony. They started out to get me and get Mitchell, so they could put in somebody else of their own choosing. I will demand an impartial investigation by a Judge or referee, which will show the dishonesty and the hidden purposes behind this piece of work."

Most of the charges in the Hirshfield report involve statements that employes hired by the city, supplies furnished by the city and eggs and other farm products raised at the Zoo are used in the Zoo restaurant and in other privileges conducted by the society. Dr. Hornaday said that these privileges, which were based on the agreement between the city and the society, were conducted to raise money for the purchase of animals and that every cent of profit from them went to the purchase of animals for the Zoo.

"In addition to that," he added, "the society pays $20,000 a year out of its own pocket for the purchase of animals."

Specifications in the report are as follows:

"That Director Hornaday receives $8,000 a year salary out of the city maintenance appropriation and that most of Director Hornaday's time is taken up with society affairs and with writing for personal profit.

"That H. R. Mitchell receives two salaries—$3,000 a year as Chief Clerk out of the city maintenance appropriation and $2,000 a year as manager of the society's park privileges.

"That William Mitchell, brother of H. R. Mitchell, receives $1,800 a year out of the city maintenance appropriation, $180 a year from the privilege department and $250 a year out of the pension fund.

"That virtually all of H. R. Mitchell's and William Mitchell's time is devoted to the privilege department.

"That H. R. Mitchell obtained fresh laid eggs from the nursery in the Zoo and gave storage eggs in return, the records showing that the quantity returned by Mr. Mitchell in 1917 was far less than the quantity received.

"That H. R. Mitchell, Director Hornaday and other Zoo officials obtained a reduction in the cost of gasoline for their automobiles by pooling their purchases with the city and that in 1917 the city was charged for 1,670 gallons of gasoline and used only 934 gallons. The difference was explained by the bookkeeper as an 'error.'"

Other charges are that Director Hornaday discharged a carpenter, twenty years in the employment of the Zoo, after he had testified before the Commissioner of Accounts that H. Mitchell had spent in the open market, without supervision, $900,000 appropriated by the city and $700,000 derived from the privilege department; that H. R. Mitchell was a joint owner of four parcels of real estate in the Bronx with Emil Kellman, a butcher, who sold $120,000 worth of meats to the Zoo and privilege department; that an excessive price was paid for alfalfa to George T. Fielding & Sons of Kansas, in which relatives of Dr. Hornaday are interested.

In conclusion, the Commissioner recommends that the question of taking the park over by the city be studied by a committee composed of representatives of the New York Zoological Society, the Department of Parks, the Department of Finance, the Law Department and the Commissioner of Accounts, and that the society be required in the meantime to reimburse the city for city money alleged to have been spent improperly by the society.

RENT TO BE RAISED? READ THIS

We offer at less than cost today a very attractive pretty Colonial Country suburban home in a beautiful strictly residential section, near New York. The desires of the former owner and his neighbors as to personality of buyer will be respected. The house itself is in perfect condition, of modern Colonial design, and contains 12 very large rooms and 3 tiled baths, handsomely fitted. There is also a completely equipped 2-car garage, corresponding to the house in architecture. The pot consists of almost an acre with 200 ft. street frontage. Unusual care and taste have been used in landscaping the grounds, which are beautifully shaded and will contain many shrubs and flowers as well as water garden. The elevation is about 700 ft. The railroad station is within easy walk. Commuting facilities to the city are of the best. Title can be had on payment of $6,000, and the balance of $16,000 may remain on mortgages at convenient terms. Complete details can be obtained from Attorney, P. O. Box 529, City Hall Station, New York City.

Manhattan—For Sale or To Let.

INVESTORS.

We recently offered attractive midtown apartment to several investors at $107,000; rents $22,000. They were "slow." An operator bought it and made $23,000 profit in ten days, with $5,000 down. The buyer resold at $10,000 profit one week later. So some investor lost $33,000. Facts may be investigated.

We now offer another apartment house near by at $97,500; leased at $18,500 ($20,000 October). Will an investor lose this to an operator also? Address Old Broker, W 77 Times.

SUFFRAGISTS TURN TO VERMONT TO WIN

Hope for Ratification There if Amendment Should Be Defeated in Delaware.

OPPONENTS FIGHTING HARD

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Opposition to the suffrage amendment in Delaware, where a special session is called for March 22, has developed such a serious character that suffragists are beginning to look toward Vermont for the needed thirty-sixth ratification of the amendment.

Leaders of the National Woman's Party assert that the efforts of interests opposed to suffrage have increased in strength and bitterness in each of the last ratification States.

"Beaten after a hard fight in New Mexico and by a close margin in New Jersey and West Virginia they are counted on to make a last desperate stand in Delaware," Alice Paul, Chairman of the National Woman's Party, stated today.

"The overwhelming majority of Republicans in the Delaware Legislature puts the situation in that State entirely in the hands of the Republican Party. Failure in Delaware would make necessary a special session in Vermont or Connecticut and would leave us without the leeway of a single State should the decision of the Supreme Court in the Ohio referendum case go against us."

Faced by difficulties the Woman's Party is sending into Delaware its most experienced ratification campaigners to assist Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles, Delaware State Chairman, who is directing the campaign. Mrs. Lawrence Lewis of Philadelphia, who led the successful fight in Pennsylvania, will leave for Wilmington tomorrow. Miss Betty Gram, national organizer of the Woman's Party, who directed the suffrage forces in the difficult and victorious campaigns in Massachusetts, New Jersey and West Virginia, will accompany Mrs. Lewis, while Miss Anita Pollitzer, legislative secretary of the National Woman's Party, and other workers of the party in Washington will co-operate with the women political leaders here.

"In Vermont," said Miss Paul, "there is good hope for ratification. The Legislature is known to be friendly, since it passed a Presidential suffrage bill last year. The Governor, who vetoed the Presidential bill and has up to this time refused to call a special session, declared last week in Vermont and in New York to local leaders of the National Woman's Party that those who believed him opposed to suffrage were mistaken and that his veto had been due entirely to his interpretation of the State Constitution, and the limitations which it set upon the Legislature's power to alter State laws."

President Has Two-Hour Auto Ride.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—President Wilson took his fourth automobile ride since his illness today, braving a typical March wind in an open machine. Accompanied by Mrs. Wilson and Rear Admiral Grayson the President spent two hours on the park roads about the city and seemed refreshed on his return to the White House.

"I Forgot"

Confessions of a Busy Man

"I FORGOT to go to my safe deposit box and clip my coupons, until long after they were payable."

"I forgot to keep an accurate record of my investments and had no end of trouble making out my income tax returns."

"I own some real estate mortgages, but forgot to collect the interest promptly—and forgot to see that the mortgagor paid his taxes on time."

"I forgot the importance of watching my investments—a block of bonds I owned were called for redemption and I lost several months' interest before I actually heard about it."

IF you are forgetful you need the help of people who do not forget. If you are over-busy making money you need help in keeping money—help in the collection and care of your income-yielding investments. Such helpful service may be had at small cost by arranging for a

COLUMBIA TRUST COMPANY
Safe-Keeping Account

This service operates as follows:

You bring us your securities. We give you a receipt for them. We list them in books of record and lock them in our vaults. We collect the income from them the day it is due, and credit the amount to your checking account. Or, we will remit to you, as you direct.

In addition, a Safe-Keeping Account would relieve you of all trouble in

1. The making out of Income Tax Certificates.
2. The clipping and prompt collection of coupons.
3. The collection of dividend checks.
4. The collection of mortgage interest and watching tax payments, if desired.
5. The prompt presentation and collection of maturing bonds, or those called for redemption.
6. The collection of income from other sources.

If you are interested in this worry-saving, economical service, we suggest you secure further particulars. A Vice-President or Manager in charge at any one of our offices will be glad to talk with you.

Spring 1920 Models by Hart Schaffner & Marx

And thereby hangs this tale. For Hart Schaffner & Marx secured the entire output of this famous mill.

Young men's models, rather spirited as to styling; conservative types that blend dignity with quiet attractiveness; one button coats, two button coats, three button coats; with many new ideas as to pocket, lapel, and front.

Some of these beautiful suits are partly lined with silk; others have mohair lining. All are mighty well worth seeing. The colors are guaranteed not to fade—in other words; true blue.

At $55, every one of them is at least $10 or $15 under what you expect to pay for such style and quality, if you have looked elsewhere first.
